HAMILTON BANK ROBBED BY FOUR OUTLAWS

TRIAL OF FOUR DETECTIVES IS RECOMMENDED

Judge Reports After Inquiry Into Arrest and Sentence in City of Toronto

Government Is Considering Action

In Dorland Case of Attempted Bank Robbery Police Strongly Criticized

Canadian Press

Toronto, Aug. 2.—Mr. Justice J. A. Kingstone to-day recommended prosecution of four Toronto detectives who fired on Albert Dorland's automobile before they arrested him to face a charge of attempting to rob a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada here.

The recommendation was contained in Mr. Justice Kingstone's report to the Attorney-General on his hearing of Dorland's charges that he was framed in connection with the alleged attempted robbery that sent him to penitentiary for five years.

Dorland was arrested near the bank building in 1930 when he and William Toobey, police informer, were found in an automobile containing firearms.

PLAN DENOUNCED

Mr. Justice Kingstone denounced a plan of Toronto police to "trap" Dorland outside the bank, and declared he was convinced Dorland had been "encouraged to plead guilty" in the hope of obtaining leniency.

He scored police heads for what he termed "deliberate attempt to cover up and withhold important information" during the hearing of Dorland's charges.

The report exonerates Chief of Police C. Draper and former Chief of Detectives Alexander Murray of any guilt in conspiring to commit a crime, but names Detectives Thomson, Tuft, Hogan and McCathie as those against whom proceedings should be taken under the Criminal Code.

ACTION CONSIDERED

Simultaneously Hon. Charles McCrea, acting Ontario Attorney-General, revealed the government was considering taking action against the four men as recommended in the report.

STREET JOBLESS FED BY WOMEN

Canadian Press

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 2.—Officials of the Niagara Falls unemployment relief committee said to-day nine or ten men who had refused to go to the unemployed camp at Minden, Ont., were fed in the street yesterday evening by a group of women alleged to be Communists.

BARNS UNROOFED DURING STORM

North Gore, Ont., Aug. 2.—Trees, barn roofs, outbuildings and hundreds of telephone poles fell here to-day under the lashing of the most violent storm in four years. The barns of John Craig, Black Rapids, and Wilson Leach, near here, were unroofed.

KING ON TOUR IS TO SPEAK IN CALGARY

Liberal Leader to Be Heard There August 12; in Saskatchewan He Says C.C.F. Influence Tends to Divide Canada

Calgary, Aug. 2.—Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal Leader, according to plans just announced, is scheduled to arrive in Calgary the night of August 11, to be the guest of honor and principal speaker the following day at a luncheon under the auspices of the Calgary Liberal Women's Club. He also will visit Banff, and return there Monday, August 14, when he will leave for Lethbridge and southern Alberta points.

By Ray Brown, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canwood, Sask., Aug. 2.—Speaking more particularly to a large number of women in his audiences here Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal Leader, yesterday evening warned against the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. The C.C.F. was promising everything—a new heaven and a new earth, he said. "I'd be pretty careful of any organization which promised that," he declared.

Mr. Bennett had had a cure for everything, and a good many women had supported him.

The Liberal Party was seeking to prevent any class or group gaining a position of authority or privilege compared with the people as a whole, he said.

Trelle's Farm Will Be Visited By Governor-General

When the Governor-General and the Countess of Bessborough, now in Manitoba, at the start of their western tour, visit Alberta they will go north to the Peace River district. They will make brief stops at various towns in the great grain district and will visit the farm of Herman Trelle, right, four times holder of the world wheat championship, a glimpse of whose home appears above.

B.C. Election In October May Follow Dissolution

DEMANDS DATE OF ELECTION

"Announcement is made that the Legislature is dissolved, but no date is set for the election of new representatives," said T. D. Pattullo, B.C. Liberal leader, this morning commenting on yesterday's proclamation dissolving the B.C. Legislature.

"The administration possesses a superlative faculty for bungling. There are no elected representatives of the people and no provision for selection of such at the earliest possible date, but the country is left in continued uncertainty and doubt.

"Premier Tolmie assured me last fall that there would be an election before September, but that course is not being pursued, nor have we any guarantee that an election will be held even in October.

"As leader of the Liberal Party in British Columbia and late leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition, I make public demand that the date of election be set forthwith at the earliest possible date in order that the people may have elected representatives to decently and sanely conduct the business of the province."

EDUCATION CONFERENCE

Edmonton, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—An interprovincial conference of deputy ministers of education will be held at Banff, opening August 9. Various problems arising from operation of the public school systems in the several provinces will be dealt with, among them being the question of examinations.

Exact Date of Poll Not Yet Decided, But Machinery Preparing For Poll Put Into Motion as Proclamation Ends Present British Columbia Legislature

Redistribution Alters Many Constituencies

House Has Reached Within a Month of Its Legal Limit of Five Years as Members Elected in July, 1928, End Terms of Office

As the first definite step towards a general provincial election during the autumn, Premier Tolmie has obtained an order from Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Fordham-Johnson dissolving the B.C. Legislature.

Preparations for the election will now go ahead.

No date for the election has been set by the government, but its members have intimated unofficially that the poll of the province will take place some time between the middle of October and the first few days of November. Nominations will be filed three weeks before the election date to be announced.

The last general election was on July 18, 1928, when the Liberal Government under Hon. J. D. MacLean was defeated.

Orders went out to-day from the Parliament Buildings cancelling all appointments of registrars of electoral districts and appointing new registrars and deputies in accordance with the changes in the constituencies.

The new registrars are also instructed to-day to start work on the voters' lists in their divisions, transferring names where necessary to comply with new boundaries. This work will be completed before the next statutory court of revision, which comes on August 21.

SWINGING INTO ACTION

The Legislature now retired had forty-eight members. The Legislature to be elected will have forty-seven members, under the terms of the Redistribution Act passed at the last session.

Political organizations are now swinging into action. The Premier left yesterday evening to spend a couple of days up the Fraser Valley. He will interview a number of his old friends with the object of getting some candidates for the Tolmie party to come before the electors in that part of the province. So far, only two Tolmie candidates are in the field, one being the Premier himself in Saanich, and the other, Attorney-General Pooley in Esquimalt.

In many ridings the Conservative organizations have followed the lead of their supreme B.C. Conservative Association and have decided not to take any part in the coming campaign. A number of the Conservative members of the last House have already announced they will run as independents. A few have come out openly as candidates of the Bowser

U.S. BANKS COME UNDER NEW CODE

Washington, Aug. 2. — Fourteen hundred banks affiliated with the American Bankers' Association today joined the industrial recovery movement under a modified presidential re-employment agreement.

The administrator, Hugh S. Johnson, declared in force for these banks and for the additional 6,000 not belonging to the association a temporary code under which their employees will receive minimum wages of from $12 a week in towns of less than 2,500 population to $15 a week in cities of more than 500,000 for a forty-hour week.

ALBERTA WHEAT POOL PAYMENTS

Canadian Wheat

Edmonton, Aug. 2.—Possibility exists a further payment may be made to Wheat Pool members on the 1930 crop if present increased wheat prices continue, according to Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta.

Mr. Brownlee said the pool, which handled the crop under the guidance of John I. McFarland of Winnipeg, might show a profit due to wheat values' jump recently. "There would seem to be good reason for using such profits by way of partial equalization at least, of payments on the 1930 crop," the Premier added.

PREMIER TOLMIE IN FRASER VALLEY

Canadian Press

Chilliwack, B.C., Aug. 2.—Premier Tolmie, Hon. Adelard Godbout, Minister of Agriculture of Quebec, and Mrs. Godbout were visitors in Chilliwack and at valley points to-day as guests of officials of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association. The association's plants at Delair and Sardis were visited, and a luncheon was held at which members of the board of trade were present.

DOLLAR AND POUND UP ON EXCHANGE

New York, Aug. 2.—Canadian and British currencies closed on the foreign exchange market here today with substantial net gains.

The Canadian dollar shot up 1¼ cents to 93⅝ cents.

The pound sterling soared 11½ cents to $4.53.

The French franc closed at 5.35, up .12½ of a cent.

Vancouver to Have New School Official

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 2. — No appointment of a superintendent of schools of Vancouver was made by the school board, which met in camera yesterday evening and discussed the situation.

The salary, qualifications and duties of the post were discussed rather than the appointee, it was reported.

It is expected the board will fill the vacancy created by the death of J. S. Gordon before the opening of the autumn term in September.

PARK PARROT IS SURPRISED

For the first time in fifteen years, Polly, the Beacon Hill Park parrot has laid an egg. There was general excitement to-day around her cage as she proudly strutted about calling attention of the world to her accomplishment. Keepers who investigated, found two eggs in her nest, and left her to sit on them. But it is a forlorn hope.

$5,000,000 In Silver Is Lying On Docks

Metal Valued at Half the Total Amount of the British Token Payment Delivered By Orient Liner

Shipment Will Be Forwarded to New York; Special Guard Assigned to Watch Treasure

Silver ingots valued at $5,000,000, reported to be part of the British token payment on the June war debt instalment, is to-day on the floor of Pier No. 2, Rithet docks, awaiting transhipment to New York.

The big silver bricks to the number of nine thousand, said to have been shipped across the Pacific from India by the British government to fill its immediate obligations to the United States, were brought in this morning by the liner Empress of Canada from Hongkong.

The valuable shipment is stacked in piles in the dock warehouse and but for the glistening sheen beneath the dirty surface would ordinarily be passed by as bars of lead or other ordinary metal.

STACKED ON FLOOR

As they were stacked in the shed by the longshoremen, who handled more wealth to-day than they ever did in their lives, the silver bars attracted the attention of ship visitors and comment upon its origin and destination became rife.

Little about the metal could be learned aboard the ship. Rumors spread that the silver shipment was for manipulation purposes, similar to the smaller shipments which have been coming in from time to time from the Orient.

PURCHASING DRIVE IN U.S.

Move to Increase Buying Announced as Part of Roosevelt's Plan

Associated Press

Washington, Aug. 2.—Plans for a countrywide purchasing drive to supplement the government's work-spreading, wage-raising programme were disclosed to-day by Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administration chieftain, in opening hearings on codes of competition for the cotton garment and kindred industries.

"We know that unless your goods are moved off your shelves you cannot keep up your part in this programme," he said.

"The time is approaching," he said, "and the signal will be merely the certainty that this plan is working—that people are back at work with a certainty that is as flash in the pan." As city after city blossomed out with "Blue Eagle" posters attesting compliance of merchants and business houses with the higher wage, shorter work-week terms of President Roosevelt's voluntary agreement, recovery officials looked for acceptances from 600 leading citizens invited in telegrams yesterday evening to form state and regional recovery boards as key units of the mobilization.

Shortly, local committees will get the word to take the field, first with rallies, then with a door-to-door canvass of business establishments to bring in those which have not signed and make sure the others are living up to the pledge.

COAL COMPANIES ARE BEFORE COURT

Quebec, Aug. 2. — Argument on the application of eleven Montreal and Quebec coal companies, charged with operation of a combine in the distribution of coal in Canada, for a writ of prohibition against the crown was postponed to-day until August 9, by Judge Pierre Bouffard, sitting in court of sessions here.

FIGHT CENTRES ON MEAL TAX

Restaurant Patrons Refuse to Pay Impost Here Despite Government Edict

Attorney-General Says Magistrate's Ruling Will Be Appealed

Despite an announcement by Attorney-General Pooley that the B.C. meal tax would be collected as usual pending hearing of an appeal against Magistrate J. A. Findlay's ruling that the act is ultra vires, some of the larger restaurants in Victoria were not collecting the fee to-day.

"Most of the patrons feel that in view of the court's ruling they should not pay the tax and if we endeavored to collect we would have a fight on our hands every time," said one proprietor to-day.

The taxation department of the provincial government agrees hotel-keepers will find difficulty in collecting the tax.

The Attorney-General also announced that immediate steps would be taken to launch an appeal against the decision of the magistrate, claiming the tax is not the same as an excise impost.

Restaurant and hotel men are lining up on the side of F. C. Elliott, Victoria lawyer, in his fight to resist the tax. He was the one who brought the test case in Vancouver. Restauranteurs today said they had not yet fixed the date for a meeting on the question but it would be held in the near future.

In the meantime they admitted they were in a quandary about the whole matter, with the government announcing the tax should be collected and their patrons refusing to pay. No actions have been instituted, however, against those who did not collect the tax yesterday.

TROTZKY'S HOME MOVE FAILS

Paris, Aug. 2.—Leon Trotzky is reported to-day to have failed in a desperate effort to get the Soviet Foreign Commissar, Maxim Litvinoff, to help him return to Moscow.

The exiled Russian revolutionary, sojourning with Mme. Trotzky, near Royat, France, is said to have sent representatives to the Commissar at Royat, asking M. Litvinoff to intercede in Trotzky's behalf.

Litvinoff, acording to the reports, refused to help him.

Bandits Flee In Motorcar With $1,500 After Surprise Attack On Office Staff

BANK INQUIRY TO BE SPEEDED

Edmonton, Aug. 2.—The inquiry into the operation of the Bank Act by the royal commission, announced Monday by the Dominion Government, is expected to be completed early in October, according to Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta, who will serve as a member of the commission.

Mr. Brownlee revealed Mr. Bennett had invited him to join the commission before the Prime Minister left for London to attend the World Economic Conference.

SAVED MAN AT SCAFFOLD

Rev. J. S. Donovan Interceded For Cheng Kwok-tau at Point of Execution

Priest Here To-day Carries Gift of Chinese Convicted of Murder

Rev. J. S. Donovan, Roman Catholic priest, who figured prominently in a sensational Hongkong murder case by interceding successfully at the last minute on behalf of Cheng Kwok-tau, a wealthy Chinese youth condemned to death in January of this year, reached Victoria aboard the liner Empress of Canada today from the Far East en route to his home in Ossining, N.Y.

To show his gratitude to the priest for saving his life, Cheng presented Father Donovan with a beautifully designed combined cigarette case and automatic lighter, which was displayed to ship reporters by the recipient following his arrival here to-day.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS TO LIVE

Cheng had but twenty-four hours to live when Father Donovan appealed to the Governors' Council at Hongkong, pointing out that the man had been convicted solely on circumstantial evidence and proving that he was not in Shanghai where the murder was committed. The Chinese had been convicted a year previously on a charge of instigating the murder of George Fung, who, according to evidence produced at the trial, had alienated the affections of his wife.

Cheng is a youth of twenty years and the son of a wealthy Singapore Chinese. He is reputed to be worth $20,000,000 and $2,000,000 was spent on the trial, stated Father Donovan.

The trial was one of the most sensational ever held in Hongkong and the sympathy of the populace was with the convicted man. Petitions were circulated without avail, and the sentence of death was ordered to be carried out. But for the intervention of Father Donovan, who proved to the Governors' Council that there was a grave element of doubt as to the guilt of the convicted man, Cheng would, in the ordinary course of events, have been executed.

AT SING SING EXECUTIONS

Father Donovan has been in the Far East for some time in connection with the Roman Catholic foreign missions.

In the capacity of priest at Ossining, N.Y., where he resides, he has at times assisted Chaplain McCaffery in ministering to convicted murderers at Sing Sing prison.

He is a small, cheerful man with a philosophic outlook on life.

AIDS POLICE

In normal physical condition again after his unwelcome experience, John J. O'Connell Jr., of Albany, N.Y., is helping the police who are attempting to bring to trial the outlaws who held him prisoner for twenty-three days and freed him early last Monday morning only after a ransom of $40,000 had been paid.

U.S. DOLLAR IN FRANCE

Paris, Aug. 2 (Associated Press).—The United States dollar dropped in value here to-day, closing at 19 francs (5.25 cents to the franc) in comparison with yesterday's close of 19.13 francs.

Police Comb That Part of Ontario; Revolvers Used By Three Thugs in Overawing Clerks While Fourth Waits in Car

Raid Made Just Before Closing Time

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 2.—Four unidentified men to-day held up the Westdale branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here and escaped in an automobile with $1,500 in cash.

The men took the money from the teller's till just before closing time.

Three men entered the bank, covered the staff with revolvers and grabbed the money. Their companion remained at the wheel of the car.

Soon after the robbery the police organized a wide hunt for the outlaws. This city was combed and police in other cities and towns were on the look-out. Highways were watched.

CANADA'S LOAN IN BRITAIN IS QUICKLY OVER SUBSCRIBED

Books Open Only For Few Minutes in London; Big Banks and General Investors Rush to Share in £15,000,000 Issue

By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Aug. 2.—The most optimistic expectations were borne out when the lists for the new Canadian loan of £15,000,000 were closed to-day directly after they had been opened. It was understood, although not officially announced, that the first mail of the day had brought a substantial over-subscription.

"The people of Canada will highly appreciate the confidence shown in their country and its future by British investors," said Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in a message from Harrogate, Yorkshire resort, where he is resting.

"I promise them no effort will be spared on the part of the Canadian government to see such confidence is worthily justified. The immediate success of the loan is a striking evidence of the solidarity of the empire."

The enthusiastic reception accorded the first Canadian loan on the London money market in twenty years was fully up to the welcoming comments of financial authorities after announcement of the loan last week, summed up by financial correspondents of the daily newspapers, who called to-day "Canada's day."

COMMENT OF LONDON TIMES

Success of the loan would promote the financial co-operation between London and Ottawa, "which is necessary if the policy of last week's Empire declaration is to be made effective," said The London Times. That declaration called for closer financial relationships, with stability of exchanges, and directly preceded the re-entry of the Dominions into the London loan market.

OF WIDE INTEREST

"Canada's proud achievement" and "Fifteen million pounds in sixty seconds" were typical headlines in a couple of evening newspapers greeting the result of the big loan. It was agreed the issue made a special appeal both to the big houses and a wide circle of general investors.

GRAND TRUNK ECHO

The London Daily Herald, Labor, took the opportunity to ask in effect, "What about the Grand Trunk bonds?"

"It is probably too much to hope the Canadian government, out of its new kindness of heart toward Britain, will give consideration to those British investors who feel a grievance in connection with certain securities held in the one-time Grand Trunk Railway," said The Herald.

Official information is lacking, but according to newspaper reports the loan was subscribed many times over.

FOR TWENTY YEARS

To-day's loan is in 4 per cent bonds, sold at par and with no discount for cash, in twenty and twenty-five-year issues. The proceeds will not go outside the Empire. It is understood they will be used to pay uncovered Victory Bonds of 5½ per cent, redeemable this fall.

TWO MEN HELD AFTER CLASHES

Vancouver Police Prevent One of Them Addressing Crowd in Street

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 2. — Following an attempt to address a crowd at Carrall and Hastings Streets yesterday evening, George Drayton, forty-five, of 27 East Forty-second Avenue, was arrested by Police Chief J. Cameron and Deputy-Chief J. Murdock on a charge of obstructing the police. A demonstration was made by the crowd at the time of the arrest, but the police executives succeeded in removing their prisoner to police headquarters.

Police reserves from the R.C.M.P. and city forces prevented a demonstration scheduled for yesterday. There was little trouble, but one officer, Constable W. J. Butchart, was struck in the face when a crowd was being dispersed near the City Hall. Anthony Sedawie, twenty-two, was arrested as his alleged assailant and charged with assaulting a police officer.

Drafton and Sedaivie appeared before Magistrate W. M. McKay to-day and were remanded till August 9.

Premier Tolmie yesterday fulfilled the prediction in this column a few days ago that he would request the Lieutenant-Governor to dissolve the B.C. Legislature just before its time expired rather than let it die automatically.

The proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor yesterday afternoon ended the record-breaking British Columbia legislative marathon with the members holding office for the full term of five years less a few weeks. The members could legally have held to their M.P.P. titles to the end of this month, but they are all out of work to-day.

In an age of walkathons and other endurance tests, to have continued to the full limit would have been to write a chapter in British Columbia political history. It would have also linked the closing of the B.C. Legislature with another great anniversary—the official ending of the Great War.

Another great opportunity is left for the Premier, however. He could announce the date of the next election next Friday, on the anniversary of the day the Great War was declared.

After the proclamation yesterday, however, the Premier left on the midnight boat on a tour of the Fraser Valley and declined to discuss election plans. He is on agricultural business and is expected back to-morrow.

NEWSPAPERMAN BEFORE COURT

California Reporter Cited For Contempt After Refusing to Name Informant

Associated Press

San Diego, Calif., Aug 2.—William G. Cayce, thirty-three, a reporter on The San Diego Union staff, was cited for contempt of court yesterday for refusing to reveal to the county grand jury sources of information used in articles concerning the Claude Trader murder case.

The grand jury indicated Gerhard Cordes, a policeman, last week for the murder of Trader, a painting contractor, who disappeared June 13 and whose body, a bullet in the head, was found in the San Pasqual Valley ten days later.

Cayce testified before the grand jury he had been told by a man at a ranch near where the body was found that an automobile had been seen standing in the road and a shot heard at dusk on the day Trader disappeared. He refused to give the name of his informant, saying he had promised on his honor not to do so.

Superior Judge Lloyd E. Griffin ordered Cayce to appear before him Friday to show cause why he should not answer the question to which he had declined an answer, and then, if ordered to answer and continuing his refusal, to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court.

THIRTY HURT ON CONEY ISLAND

Associated Press

New York, Aug. 2.—A fist fight between two swimmers at the edge of the outdoor pool in the "Steeplechase," Coney Island, yesterday indirectly resulted in injuries to between thirty and forty persons, three seriously.

When the fight started hundreds rushed to the railing of the balcony overlooking the pool. As the enclosure became crowded, the rear railing gave way and fell fifteen feet on top of bathhouses and lockers. Nearly 100 persons toppled over the edge.

Hundreds of thousands of persons, seeking relief from the city's intense heat, were on the island. A panic was averted by the quick action of police. Reserves were called out to restore order.

LONG REMAND IN VANCOUVER

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 2.—Possibility the recent amendment to the Criminal Code which requires a two-year additional sentence in all cases where a gun has been used, will be operative first in Vancouver against a woman was forecast in county court following the conviction of Mrs. Teresa Zarelli, East Hastings Street, yesterday.

Mrs. Zarelli was convicted by Judge Ellis of shooting at her husband, Noel Zarelli, in the entrance of the Regent Hotel early on the morning of May 29 with intent to grievous bodily harm.

She pleaded guilty to a second charge of having in her possession at the time of the shooting a loaded revolver.

Judge Ellis called attention to the Criminal Code amendment which required the imposition of two years in prison in addition to any other sentence which may be imposed for a crime in which a gun has been used.

Neither the bench nor counsel were sure whether or not the amendment had been made affective by formal proclamation.

To ascertain the status and to allow defence counsel to apply to the Attorney-General for suspended sentence, the judge remanded the accused in custody until September 12.

BAN SNAKES IN BIG HOTEL

Rules Governing Pets of Guests Strictly Enforced; Man Tries to Check Snail

London Postman List George Bernard Shaw as 'Unknown,' Returning Letter

New York, Aug. 2.—Not the least among New York's many wonders is the efficiency of its post office department. . . . Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has received many letters and one parcel from abroad marked merely "Lindy," America . . . Babe Ruth, Amos and Andy and other celebrities have had delivered in short order mail that had no address except New York. . . . Al Smith once got a letter without even a city or state designated, with "just plain "Al," plus a donkey's head drawn on the envelope. . . .

In direct contrast to this efficiency, Dr. Harry Laidler, research director of the League for Industrial Democracy, has just experienced an amusing London incident. . . . In June he sent a letter to the world-famous George Bernard Shaw at his London address, 1704 Park Street, London, S.W.I. . . . A day or so ago he received the letter back, marked "Unknown" . . . Seems that Shaw has moved to the country and London doesn't know where its Shaw is!

NEWCOMER AMONG MORROWS

Just before the Lindberghs took off on their Greenland flight, the whole family celebrated the birth of a little son to Anne Lindbergh's favorite cousin, Richard Brown Scandrett, Jr., and his wife. . . . The baby is christened Dwight Morrow Scandrett, for his celebrated grand-uncle, the late Dwight Morrow. . . . Dick Scandrett was Mr. Morrow's favorite nephew, the son of his sister, Mrs. Agnes Scandrett, and spent much time with his uncle, both here and in Mexico. . . . His wife, Mary Emma Landenberger, was a New York newspaperwoman who met her husband when her paper sent her to see him about getting an interview with the famous Lindberghs. . . . She never got to Lindbergh for the interview. . . . But Scandrett fell in love with her and they were married the following fall. . . . The young Dwight Morrow Scandrett is their second child.

CHECKING PETS

Checking unusual pets at hotels in New York is next to impossible. . . . The Plaza turned down a man last week who wanted to leave a few snails in a safe box. . . . The Waldorf-Astoria will gladly care for any dogs, cats, gold fish or birds, including loud-spoken parrots. . . . But they drew the line at a couple of baby tigers that a motion picture man brought home from Africa. . . . The New Yorker allows only the smallest dogs. You can take a Pekingese or a poodle or even a small Scotty, but if you go in for Russian wolfhounds, you must go elsewhere. Cats, however, are allowed. But once an out-of-towner brought along a snake and the reptile sneaked out of the room and down a corridor, scaring some women on the same floor nearly to death. . . . So no snake of any brand, age or value is allowed now. . . .

THE OLD GRAY HOME

Gilda Gray's old home in Oceanside, on the Long Beach road, has become a funeral home. . . . It has a new coat of white and freshly painted green shutters, but every shutter still bears the monogram of Gilda's ex-husband, Gil Boag, "G.T.B." . . .

The old colonial house is really the house that "shimmy" built. . . . Gilda bought it with her money and it was her pride and joy. . . . In the days when she danced both in the Follies and at the Rendezvous, she used to drag her tired self out there every single weekend, because she loved it so. . . . Sunday night she kept open house, serving delicious, strange Polish dishes that she herself prepared and served, dressed in colorful Polish peasant costume. . . . When she and Gil separated, Gil kept the house. . .

LABOR ADVISOR REALLY LABORS

Dr. Wolman, Chairman of New Board at Washington, Has Nine Other Jobs

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 2.—The devil, who is supposed to find work for idle hands to do, never has to find work for the hands of Dr. Leo Wolman.

Dr. Wolman is chairman of the National Recovery Administration's labor advisory board. That's a strenuous, long-hour job.

But Dr. Wolman is also:

Teacher of economics at Columbia University, giving courses in labor, unemployment and social insurance.

Member of the research staff of the National Bureau of Economic Research.

A director of the Amalgamated Bank of New York and president of its investment trust.

A contributing editor of The New Republic.

Member of the executive committee of the American Association for Labor Legislation.

Review editor for The American Statistical Journal—which means Dr. Wolman has to read and examine all statistical books.

Member of the Census Advisory Committee, representing the American Economic Association, which meets several times a year and goes over census plans.

Author of three books now in process of production: One on labor in national life, another "Strength of American Trade Unionism," which he is revising from an earlier edition, and a third, "Wages in the United States."

Adviser and participant in activities of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, including strikes.

Each of those jobs requires work. But Dr. Wolman is an amiable, humorous, leisurely-moving man of middle age. He smokes a curved pipe, is slightly bald and wears a bow tie.

FARMER - DETECTIVES

It takes a farmer to catch a farmer—that's one of the theories of enforcement contained in the cotton reduction plan adopted by the Agricultural Adjustment Administartion.

About 60 per cent of the farmers promising to reduce production are taking options on government-held cotton as their compensation. The rest of the farmers will take cash.

The official, but unannounced, theory is that the holders of options—on which the amount of profits will depend on the reduction plan's success as expressed in higher prices — will carefully watch their neighbors to see that the neighbors plough up as much cotton as they promise. And that would mean, of course, that the optionholders would be watched in turn.

PROFESSOR MOLEY'S RETURN

Assistant Secretary of State Raymond A. Moley, still confused by events at the London conference, returned here to find his reputation somewhat deflated, his expense account questioned and a strong belief that Roosevelt had clipped his wings in England.

Moley promptly went to New York for a week's rest.

Vancouver Young Man Is Drowned

Vancouver, Aug. 2.—Richard (Nick) Steward, twenty-four, of 925 West Eighth Avenue, was drowned in English Bay yesterday afternoon. The body was recovered two hours later.

According to the police report, Steward, with Jack Marshall, a friend, had been swimming all afternoon and dived from the raft and failed to come to the surface.

Marshall summoned Lifeguards L. P. Anderson and K. Valentine, who dived repeatedly in a search for the missing man. A. J. Lucas, manager of the bathhouse, then called for volunteers and formed a human chain in a search for the body, which was eventually found by N. Kirk, 784 Thurlow Street.

MUSHER FACES BARS AT BORDER

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Aug. 2. — Pat Campbell, famed northland dog musher, has almost given up hope of reaching the Chicago Fair with his team of racing huskies

Campbell and two companions mushed the 500-mile trail from The Pas to Winnipeg, arriving here fifteen days ago. Since then he has been trying to arrange for entrance to the United States, and has appealed to Chicago Fair officials for aid.

Immigration authorities demand a bond of $200 each for Campbell and his aides and another bond of $2 apiece for the seven dogs in his team.

Dr. Mack Eastman Visiting Vancouver

Associated Press

Vancouver, Aug. 2.—Dr. Mack Eastman, sole British Columbian attached to the League of Nations, is in Vancouver for a brief stay en route to Banff, where he will attend the fifth conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, August 14 to 28.

He says his work in the Labor Office is an effort to induce co-operation between nations in order that the "rising generation may rise," and states much progress was made at the recently concluded International Labor Conference in Geneva.

Dr. Eastman was head of the department of history in the University of British Columbia until 1925, when he was appointed director of research for the International Labor Office. The Labor Office is a subsidiary of the League of Nations with headquarters in Geneva.

Dr. Eastman last visited Vancouver in November, 1931, when he was engaged in a speaking tour across Canada in the interests of the League.

CELL RIDDLED, SAYS CONVICT

Tim Buck Tells Court He Was Fired at By Guards in Kingston Penitentiary

Canadian Press

Kingston, Aug. 2.—Evidence five shots were fired into his locked cell while he was making his bed last October 20 was given by Convict Tim Buck yesterday when he was called back to the stand to present his observations on incidents which led up to the outbreak at the Kingston Penitentiary October 17. He was testifying at the trial of Convict Michael McDonald before Judge J. E. Madden.

Buck, in answer to a question asked by Frank Regan, defence counsel for McDonald, said:

"Sure, they fired at me. One bullet whistled through my hair and another one passed close to my throat."

"You're not trying to tell me guards deliberately tried to shoot you," said Col. Keiller McKay, special prosecutor.

"I'm not trying to tell you what was in their minds. I only know they fired at me," Buck replied.

"And you in a small cell, and they couldn't hit you?"

"They came pretty close. I took care to duck out of range," Buck answered.

Buck blamed the outbreak on conditions under which the men were living and the system under which the prison operated. He claimed their actions had not grown out of a plan so much as out of the "prison atmosphere."

LAND SCHEMES LACK APPROVAL

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Approval has not yet been given by the Dominion Government for a monetary contribution to any scheme which has for its purpose the transferring of families from the drought-stricken areas of southern Alberta to the northern part of the province, Department of Labor officials said here to-day.

They were commenting on a Calgary dispatch which quoted Hon. George Hoadley, Alberta Minister of Agriculture, as saying the provincial government and the railways had agreed to share an apportionment of the cost of such a project and were awaiting the decision of the Dominion administration on the matter of how much it would contribute.

DONATION IS CRITICIZED

Regina, Aug. 2.—An Alberta University man mildly rebuked T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in a second meeting of the World's Grain Conference here yesterday. J. P. Sackville, Alberta University, Edmonton, was the speaker.

The paper, "Some Observations on Research Methods in Great Britain," by J. D. Sinclair, Alberta University, delivered at an animal production section meeting under Mr. Sackville's chairmanship, furnished the basis for the expression of opinion.

In that paper Mr. Sinclair observed that Mr. Macaulay of the Sun Life Company had donated funds to the animal breeding institute of Edinburgh University for animal production research work.

In remarks at the finish of Mr. Sinclair's paper, Mr. Sackville declared it was news that Mr. Macaulay, a Canadian, was donating money to a British institution.

"He could well have spent it in Canada," Mr. Sackville said.

Mr. Sinclair outlined the research work being done in animal production in Great Britain. There were no experimental farms in Britain as in Canada, he said, but most of the work was done in small independent institutions by some of the larger commercial concerns such as the British Chemical Industries. The research work largely depended on governmental grants and endowments.

TRAPPER GETS HIS NEWS LATE

Churchill, Man., Aug. 2.—The old trapper arrived at Churchill to pick up his mail, accumulating since he pulled out for the northwest coast last fall. It was midsummer.

He picked up a newspaper. "Great stuff," he said. "Sir Malcolm Campbell beats his old record at Daytona Beach." The boys perked up.

"Didn't know he was back in America," said one.

Then they looked at the dateline. The paper was six months old.

U.S. PRESS AND CRIME DISCUSSED

Associated Press

Chicago, Aug. 2.—A special code of ethics for treatment of crime news by newspapers as an aid to law enforcement officials is asked by Malcolm W. Bingay, editorial director of The Detroit Free Press.

Addressing the International Association of Chiefs of Police here yesterday, Bingay placed partial responsibility for the rise of the gangster in this country on what he termed the "sensational, irresponsible and scandal-mongering element of the press."

That element, he declared, had served as publicity agent for the criminals.

TEAM AWARDS AT GRAIN SHOW

Canadian Press

Regina, Aug. 2.—No awards in the junior, intermediate and inter-college grain judging competitions being held in connection with the World Grain Exhibition here will be made until tomorrow.

Official announcement was made to this effect this morning as teams from the Universities of Alberta, British Columbia, Montana, Saskatchewan, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, North Carolina and Oklahoma took the stage.

Juniors and intermediates had already completed their work of judging various grains, and although the results are tabulated judges are withholding all award announcements until the third section of the competition is completed.

WHEAT PLAN OF U.S. IS DELAYED

Associated Press

Washington, Aug. 2.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace has postponed until August 24 his decision setting the percentage of wheat acreage reduction to be asked of farmers in consideration of benefits payments to be made under the voluntary domestic allotment plan.

Wallace yesterday said he "wished to give the World Wheat Conference an opportunity to reach a decision for a reduction of production by all four great exporting nations before the United States embarks independently on a definite domestic acreage reduction programme of its own."

Wallace's order was recognition of a cablegram received late last week asking him to postpone his decision because of new possibilities of an international agreement being reached at London.

Constable Suffers Injury to Eye

Edmonton, Aug. 2.—Struck in the eye by a piece of flying steel at the police barracks at Fort Reliance, on the eastern shore of Great Slave Lake, 718 miles north of Edmonton, Constable E. Walpole of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was rushed by boat and airplane to this city for hospital treatment, arriving yesterday.

It was not yet known to-day whether the sight of the eye could be saved. The piece of steel was chipped off a chisel the officer was using.

UNWILLING CAMERA SUBJECT CAUGHT

Roger Touhy of Chicago, classified by the police as a gangster and known in the lower strata of society in the Windy City for some time as very "tough," is shown above in an unusual picture. Touhy was captured with three henchmen in Elkhorn, Wis., by a rookie policeman off duty, and returned to Chicago, where he is now held to face charges connected with several kidnapings, including that of "Jake the Barber" Factor. Never photographed before, Touhy was reluctant to face the camera, but Elkhorn police persuaded him to pose, as this portrait study well shows.

At the left is a picture of Harry Ward, rookie policeman, who, unarmed and single-handed, jailed Touhy and three members of his gang at Elkhorn. Ward is shown with golf bag in which the gang carried guns.

BOND POSTED BY PROFESSOR

B. M. Squires Indicted in Chicago With Labor Leaders on Trade Conspiracy Charge

Associated Press

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, university professor and federal labor mediator, surrendered and posted a $10,000 bond yesterday shortly after the arrest of four labor union leaders indicted with him for conspiracy to restrain legitimate trade by racketeering enterprises.

The basis for the indictment of Squires was believed to be a contract under which it was sought to regulate chaotic conditions in the cleaning and dyeing industry of Chicago while Squires was director of the Cleaners' and Dyers' Institute.

Posting bond, Squires demanded a speedy trial and promised to vindicate himself. He had returned here from Reading, Pa., to face the charges. At Reading he was acting as mediator in a hosiery industry strike.

Twenty-four men were named in the indictments, which prosecutors said represented a death blow at industrial racketeering in Chicago. The other defendants include Alderman Oscar Nelson and Attorney Aaron Sapiro, leader in organizing co-operative movements

WEALTHY MAN ENDS HIS LIFE

Associated Press

Pasadena, Calif., Aug. 2.—A wealthy retired Chicago manufacturer, Leroy D. Kellogg, sixty-six, shot himself to death yesterday in his fashionable San Marino residence, the coroner said, because of financial worries and a nervous breakdown brought on ten days ago when he was overcome by heat in the east.

Kellogg, former manufacturer of cosmetics and a major stockholder in the Kellogg Switchboard Company of Chicago, returned from the east to his residence about a week ago.

Kellogg shot himself as the remainder of the family assembled for breakfast.

The body is being sent to Chicago for burial.

BIRDS FOR MUSEUM

The Pas, Man., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—Some 250 specimens, comprising 120 varieties of sub-Arctic birds, have been obtained by Athur C. Twomey, ornithologist of Edmonton, along the Hudson Bay coast between Churchill and Eskimo Point during his two months' stay in the northern region. The specimens were collected by Mr. Twomey for the Royal Ontario Museum at Toronto.

CODE DRAFTING PROVES BIG JOB

Everybody Seems to Have Had Hand in Framing U.S. Recovery Plan

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 2.—Formulation of the blanket recovery code fascinated the kibitzers as they peered behind the scenes.

It finally emerged after being swamped in a morass of detail and conflicting opinion. Gen. Hugh Johnson conceived the idea and pushed it through, but Johnson allowed scores of people to present their own views as to the code's provisions.

Johnson was definitely frightened by huge production of goods which he believed were not being sold. And by the failure of consuming power to keep up with rising production. (Example: The shoe industry has been operating at virtually peak production, but its payrolls stand at 50 per cent of their high mark.)

Some members of Johnson's own staff opposed the blanket code project. Secretary of Commerce Roper, chairman of the special recovery board, persisted in opposition, believing the programme was operating with sufficient speed.

The original plan was for a highly simplified code. But everyone had a different idea. Labor and capital pushed and pulled. Recovery staff members added and subtracted. Protests, demands and suggestions poured in from over the country. The special board overhauled the measure and the cabinet overhauled it again.

Attorney General Cummings called time out for a careful legal review. The document in draft became so overloaded and complicated that Johnson had to start all over again.

Eventually the general went out to Chief Counsel Donald R. Richberg's house one night and the two men worked until 2 a.m. to achieve a final draft for submission to the president.

SETTING UP THE NEW DEAL

Most of the players in the New Deal think they are working in a madhouse.

They tell you that, privately—more than half in earnest. One presidential adviser, a nationally-known economist, sums up the situation conservatively when he confides:

"No man has a rational picture of what is going on in Washington today."

It's hard to convey an accurate impression of this atmosphere:

Hope mingled with misgivings. Amateurs and professionals sailing into uncharted economic seas. Constant attempts to reconcile the methods and aims of the emergency salvationists and the long-range planners. Confusion and incoherence of organization beneath strong men too busy to be bothered with details.

Rumors, half of them false, flying through the corridors. Dynamic men irked by delay and contemplative men irritated by haste. And, above all, a common driving urge to move forward through the forests of uncertainty.

BALBO AND AFRICAN PRINCE

Distracting relief was provided by Ras Desta Demtu and Gen. Italo Balbo, respetcively the darlings of Ethiopia and Italy. Ras Desta (called "Rastus" by correspondents, to the State Department's horror) reached the White House at 12.30 for a brief call and Balbo came at 12.45 for lunch.

Italians and Ethiopians don't like each other. Italians have invaded Ethiopia; Ethiopians have savagely treated Italian prisoners of war. Ethiopia is a "pet" nations. Ras Desta's Wednesday lunch date with Roosevelt was postponed to Friday because of Roosevelt's cold. Balbo popped in Thursday. The State Department realized Ethiopia might never get over it if Ras Desta didn't reach the White House first. The call was hastily arranged.

Ras Desta in that appearance was a remarkable sight. Crowds, waiting and cheeding for Balbo, saw the Ethiopian step from his car beneath a huge lion's-mane shako which was moored to his chin by a heavy gold chain. He wore a blue tunic with a green velvet collar and an elaborate superstructure of gold braid hangings and yellow sashes. His white puttee pants narrowed down to a pair of tiny patent leather shoes. His dark bearded face, protruding from all this, seemed rather jolly.

After that the arrival of Balbo, despite all the Italian's medals, was almost an anti-climax.

BANK INQUIRY SOON TO START

When Formalities Over, King Urges Federal Investigation Be Speeded

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—The first public hearing of the royal commission which will investigate Canada's banking legislation and all matters pertaining to currency and credits, will be held next Tuesday in Ottawa, according to present plans.

Advices to the government here are that Baron Macmillan, who will be chairman, and Sir Charles Addis, will arrive from London at Quebec Thursday on the steamer that is bringing Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, back from the World Conference.

An organization meeting will be held probably on Monday, with the first public hearing the following day.

APPOINTMENT DELAYED

Canwood, Sask., Aug. 2.—The royal commission on banking should have been appointed two years ago, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal leader, declared to an audience here yesterday evening. Now that it had been appointed, he hoped it would get to work without delay.

Its report should be ready in good time for the opening of the next session of Parliament. The Liberal Party would gaidly assist in any forward steps which might be recommended, he said.

DAIRY TRADE VIEWS DIFFER

New Zealanders' Export Plans Clash With British Farmers' Desires

Canadian Press

London, Aug. 2.—Nothing definite has been accomplished so far in regard to the British request that the Antipodean Dominions reduce their exports of dairy produce alleged by British agriculturists to be depressing the British market.

The New Zealand delegates to the World Economic Conference, led by Premier G. W. Forbes, who will start for home by way of America next Sunday, yesterday met a delegation from the British Farmers' Union. The latter explained their desire to maintain cheese prices to prevent a large quantity of milk coming on the market. The New Zealanders promised to consult their own farmers.

Difficulties are in the way, for the New Zealand Dairy Board, strongly opposed to any restriction of production or export, has already asserted that if the government of New Zealand attempts to enforce any such restrictions at the request of the United Kingdom, it will be in danger of losing office

QUOTA PAYMENTS

Meanwhile, under the stimulus of the Wheat Act British wheat production has jumped 36 per cent in two years and in consequence the Ministry of Agriculture declared flour millers and importers must pay the Wheat Commission three shillings and sixpence—about eighty-four cents at present exchange—per sack under the quota system, compared with fifty-four cents previously.

OFF LIST; ON AGAIN

London, Ont., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—Dropped from the relief list when it was learned he had lost a legacy of $200 in the stock market, a London man was permitted to return to the list following a lecture by members of the city council's finance committee.

AIRMEN BOMB TRIBE'S VILLAGE

Second Attack Made on Bajauris on India's Northwest Frontier

Simla, India, Aug. 2.—Pilots of British airplanes bombed Kotkai village of the Bajauri tribe on the northwest frontier a second time yesterday evening in an attempt to force the tribesmen to give up three men accused of fomenting unrest.

The attacks were expected to be resumed to-day. No casualties were reported in the bombardments, the first of which was made yesterday morning.

A brigade from Peshawar, en route to support the friendly Halimzai tribe against any threatened attack by upper Mohmand tribesmen, reached Galanai without incident.

It is considered unlikely there will be any further move until the completion of a track for wheeled transport cars as far as Galani.

Pilots engaged in reconnoitring today reported having seen no sign of hostile troops. They were forbidden, however, to fly beyond the presumptive border.

Election Officials Are Facing Charges

New Orleans, Aug. 2.—Formal election fraud charges were filed yesterday against fifteen election commissioners by District Attorney Eugene Stanley. His action came as a surprise move in the battle over jurisdiction in the investigation of the vote on constitutional amendments in last November's election that resulted in the declaration of martial law two days ago in New Orleans to "protect the grand jury."

The commissioners were charged with making false returns of the votes.

WANT HIGHER WHEAT PRICES

Canadian Press

Regina, Aug. 2.—British millers and corn merchants do not want wheat to remain at a low price, Sir Albert Humphries, representative of United Kingdom milling interests, told delegates to the World Grain Conference here yesterday.

"It is not good for the producer, miller or the people as a whole for wheat to remain at low levels," Sir Albert stated. "If agriculturists in the widest sense can be made prosperous then the whole world will very shortly become more prosperous as well."

Hitler says he will give full cooperation to the Olympic games in 1936 in Berlin.

THE BEST Lower Priced TIRE The ROADCRAFT

(MADE BY GUTTA PERCHA)

In the ROADCRAFT Tire, the value you get is outstanding.

BECAUSE

The ROADCRAFT costs less than many other tires.

BECAUSE

The ROADCRAFT has the famous Gum Cushion construction that gives greater mileage and greater safety.

BECAUSE

The ROADCRAFT has now the tough Resisto Tread—slow-wearing rubber, long-life tread design. The tread pattern, of extra width, gives exceptional grip on the road, for maximum traction, and braking power.

BECAUSE

The ROADCRAFT is the tested quality product of 50 years of experience in the rubber industry in Canada. There is no substitute for experience.

BECAUSE

Roadcraft and Gutta Percha Tires are sold with a guarantee, for 12 months from the date of purchase for passenger car service, against any condition that may render the tire unfit for further service, where such condition is due to ordinary wear and tear, or injuries thereto caused by blowouts, cuts, bruises, rim cuts, under inflation, wheels out of alignment, faulty brakes, or any other road hazard.

Ask a Gutta Percha dealer to show you this great lower-priced tire. Then put ROADCRAFTS on your car. You will get more mileage, and greater safety in every mile.

GOLDEN JUBILEE

50 years ago, in 1883, this Company commenced the manufacture of rubber goods in Toronto. Today, the quality of its products is known all over the world, and it has grown to be the largest all-Canadian rubber company. The factory, shown below, employs 1,500 people, and covers an area of 11 acres.

GUTTA PERCHA & RUBBER, LIMITED

Head Office: Toronto Branches from Coast to Coast

GUM CUSHIONS

An Extra Value

ROADCRAFT Tires have Cushions of pure gum rubber moulded in between the plies of cord fabric, making a "bearing" that reduces friction and wear at these points as effectively as ball bearings do in machinery.

ROADCRAFT Tires have extra width of tread which gives extra traction and extra protection from skidding.

DISSOLUTION—AND WHAT?

In another month the Seventeenth Legislature of this province would have reached the end of the five-year term provided by the constitution. As legislatures go, therefore, it was very patriarchal and on the verge of dying of old age. Its dissolution yesterday afternoon was only a short-cut to oblivion.

Rarely does a parliament or legislature in British countries run its whole length of office, and when this condition arises where the government which controls it has had but one election it becomes a political phenomenon. Canada's political history shows that only where a government is aged, baffled, hopeless, or devoid of a policy, does a legislature drag on its weary existence to the last minute of its constitutional time. Had the present government been able to develop any policy on which the electors ought to be consulted, or had any confidence in its own record, it would have gone to the country a year ago. Perhaps in all the circumstances it would have been more appropriate if there had been no dissolution yesterday afternoon and the House permitted to drop into eternity at the end of the month.

The present government was elected on July 18, 1928, with approximately two-thirds of the membership of the Legislature behind it. In the period which has elapsed since then it has managed to make itself so universally unpopular that to-day it has only two candidates in the field who proclaim themselves its supporters. Many of the members who kept it in power in the House are now offering themselves as independents in the hope that their death-bed repentence will insure their re-election. This implies on their part, of course, a repudiation of the government and the record they themselves helped to establish, and debars them from being counted as government supporters if they should be elected. They can not be both with the government and against it.

With yesterday's order of dissolution there is now no Legislature, and as the date of the election has not been announced and probably has not been decided, nobody knows when there will be one. Hence, we have a government operating for an indefinite period independently of the public, since even the ministers, with the rest, have ceased to be members of the Legislature. So what British Columbia has to-day in the way of provincial administration is a government minus a legislature, without any decision for providing for one, and with only two supporting candidates in the field. We wonder if ever there has been so messy a political situation in the history of any Canadian province.

AN IMPORTANT COMMISSION

Canada's banking system is to undergo a searching inquiry by a royal commission composed of Lord MacMillan, Sir Charles Addis, Sir Thomas White, Hon. J. E. Brownlee, and Mr. Beaudry Leman. Lord MacMillan, who will act as chairman, is a noted British jurist. Sir Charles Addis, is a well-known British banker and economist. Sir Thomas White, it will be remembered, was Canadian Minister of Finance during the war and, of course, is an authority on banking and finance. Mr. Brownlee is Alberta's Premier and no doubt his knowledge of banking as it applies to the farmer was responsible for his inclusion on the commission. Mr. Leman, is the general manager and director of the Banque Canadienne National of Montreal, the foremost French-Canadian financial institution.

The terms of the reference under which the commission will operate set out that it is desirable that the approaching periodic revision of the Bank Act, which will precede the enactment of a measure to continue the charters of the existing banks—to which the Act applies, and which will expire on July 1 next year—which shall be based on a complete and detailed examination of the provisions of that Act and of the functions and operations thereunder of the banking system thereby established. The commission will also take under consideration the advisability of establishing in this country a central banking institution—a matter of considerable controversy in recent years—and, if so established, of the relation it shall have to existing banks together with its authority and function in the operation of the Dominion's banking system.

Much has been said in recent times about our banks; but there is one thing that always should be remembered, especially by the critics, and that is that while the banking systems of other countries were in anything but a sound condition—some, indeed, in a very parlous state—the banks of Canada, due to our system, stood the shock of a period of economic convulsion which may perhaps go down in history as the world's worst, at least in many years, with marked success.

NOVA SCOTIA'S POLITICAL POT

While it may be some little time before British Columbia gets warmed up to its provincial election campaign, the political pot in Nova Scotia—where polling will take place on August 22—seems to be boiling over with a vengeance. The Harrington (Conservative) government is being charged with the employment of "iron heel" methods unparalleled in Nova Scotian history; but, says The Halifax Chronicle, "public will is more powerful and courts of law remain as protection for the rights of citizens."

Opposition supporters claim that the government, by means of its redistribution bill, has made it impossible for a large number of citizens to get on the lists, unless they are known to be supporters of the administration. The Halifax Chronicle points out that Premier Harrington at Truro publicly defended the intention of his government to appoint one registrar for 25,000 people in a Halifax constituency, while in his own riding he appointed eleven registrars for 23,000 people.

It is asserted even by Conservatives who are objecting to the tactics being employed that the government—to quote Dr. W. D. Forrest, who describes himself as a life-long Conservative—is acting not in accordance with the best interests of the country but solely with regard to its own safety. Dr. Forrest then says in a long letter to The Halifax Daily Star:

> In our present state of society the ballot is the only constitutional weapon an outraged public has against an unpopular government. This present government is apparently intent on depriving a certain section of the electorate of this means of expression and by its attitude strikes a blow at the very foundation of responsible government.
>
> If Mr. Harrington and his supporters are so satisfied with the kind of government they are giving this province why are they not prepared and willing to trust the people. What are they afraid of? Is it that the emoluments of office are so dear to them that they can not bear the thought of relinquishing them? Better go down to honest defeat than win by trickery, says the Premier, and so say thousands of self-respecting Conservatives who refuse to condone an act so deeply tainted with moral guilt.
>
> With unemployment rampant and thousands of needy persons unable to find food for their everyday sustenance, when men able and willing to work and unable to obtain work have to stand by and see their wives and children go hungry while governments can resort to unconstitutional practices such as this to keep themselves in office, is it any wonder the people are losing confidence in parliamentary institutions and that feelings of public hatred and distrust are spreading among them.
>
> My party right or wrong is no longer tenable as far as I am concerned. I refuse to be the willing tool or the acquiescent dupe of any partizan political machine.
>
> Thousands of Conservatives in this city and province think as I do.

The situation in Nova Scotia is of interest to the electorate of British Columbia. The present government, first led by Hon. E. N. Rhodes and since his translation to the federal field by Mr. Harrington, was elected on October 1, 1928, and the statutory life of the Legislature is four years. So we have in Canada at the present time, one on the Atlantic and the other on the Pacific seaboard, two governments which are showing their "staying" powers. We fear they are both doomed.

AN OBSOLETE LAW

There is a curious old law on the statute books of Britain which exposes a person who "sleeps out" at night to the charge of vagrancy. Many attempts have been made to change it but without success. Now, however, Brigadier-General E. L. Spears, Conservative member for Carlisle, is demanding that the statute be altered without delay.

It appears that a former ex-Guardsman was arrested for "sleeping out" and sent to prison and died there. General Spears declares that if this man had not been penalized for what, after all, is no offence against law and order, he would have been alive to-day. He contends that "a law like this, which was framed even before the police were instituted, is totally out of accord with modern conditions."

There are magistrates, of course, who take a very lenient view of the offence with which this ex-Guardsman was charged and convicted. But there are others who are unnecessarily harsh in the exercise of the powers conferred upon them. General Spears puts it this way: "Apart from any other consideration, it is so terribly difficult for a man to get squared up again with the world once he has been in prison with a conviction of this kind."

It is a good thing for the many unemployed men in several cities on the Pacific slope of the United States—to say nothing of the cost of legal machinery—that there is no Vagrancy Act with such a provision as that obtaining in Britain. Even Pershing Square in Los Angeles, right in the centre of the city, is a favored "bedroom" for the unfortunate idle.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

WHO WAS FINED?
The Vancouver Province

Twenty unemployed, who had no money, ate meals in city restaurants and did not pay for them. They have been sentenced to pay fines of $25 each. As they have no money to pay the fines, the city, as a penalty, will supply them with ninety free meals and free lodging at Oakalla. Now one wonders who has been fined, the convicted men or the city?

OXFORD ACCENT
The London Observer

Bright young men who talk sometimes in Chelsea and Piccadilly about "my little daught-ah" and "my fath-ah" and find, perhaps, the so-called Oxford accent not unpopular in the West End, are not encouraged to carry this form of speech to Montreal or New York should they be spending their holidays there this summer. Canada, in fact, definitely dislikes hearing any Englishman say "Port-ah, this is my luggage," and recently a university class of French Canadians in Montreal howled at what they described as "haw-haw" English in some Linguaphone records made in London by speakers whose voices are frequently heard on the wireless. The records, which were made for the purpose of giving a course in English pronunciation to students abroad, have had to be withdrawn and replaced by others in which this objectionable "haw-haw" accent is absent.

Professor Lloyd James, who discussed this Canadian student incident last week in London, said it showed that there is a type of English "that will not go," and it is the type so frequently associated with public schools and universities.

What is called the Oxford accent is probably, he remarked, the most unpopular version of English in the world to-day. It is, however, unjust, he thinks, to attribute it to Oxford. A good deal of it comes from the clergy, and is forced upon them by the fact that they have to monotone the prayers, and it is impossible to monotone a prayer in which, for example, the word father occurs without making it "fath-ah."

It was interesting in the course of this discussion to hear Professor James express the opinion that it would be very difficult to find a better speaker of normal English to-day than the King. "The language used by the King at the opening of the Economic Conference was," he said, "as good an example of the King's English as one could possibly find."

HAPPINESS

TO-DAY I met a fellow at the north end of the Causeway. He was a prominent holder of public office, an exemplary citizen, a good husband and father, a thoroughly conventional and respectable fellow. He said: "You know, you oughtn't to write that stuff about the ranch country up in the Cariboo. The other night when I read about the ranch you had been staying on up there and the horses and saddles and all that, well, I wanted to throw up everything here and go back to the old farm where I was brought up. And when you talked of the smell of the barns! Say, I could have cried, it made me feel so homesick. That's the only life! What we're living in a place like this for I don't know." He went off almost in tears.

At the south end I ran into a friend of mine from the upper country, a rancher. "Say," said he, "isn't this grand down here now? All green and cool and everything covered with flowers! You Victorians have certainly got the pick of the earth all right. And us up there on the range baking away in the sun and dust and just making a living, while you people down here work for a few hours in a nice comfortable office and then go off and play golf. I wish I could swap the whole ranch for a job down here."

I thought I would get the two fellows at the opposite ends of the Causeway together to make a trade, but I reflected that it would be no use. None of us is living the life he wants to lead. All of us pine for something else. But we hain't got the courage to do anything about it. When it comes to the vital things of life we are all rabbits, a fact which alone saves you, poor reader, from losing me in the wilds altogether. We like to babble on about our splendid rights of life, liberty and the pusuit of happiness, but actually they are only used for the most part now-a-days in the Declaration of Independence.

MYTHS

SPEAKING of these pleasant myths of unbounded liberty, I have just been reading some figures of importance. A couple of professors at Columbia University have been making an exhaustive study fo the business of the United States, and they find that there are over 300,000 non-banking corporations in that country. Yet 200 of these control nearly half the corporate wealth. The influence of any of these 200 giants, of course, extends far beyond the assets under its direct control. Smaller companies which sell to or buy from the larger companies are under the latter's dominations and, say the professors, "it is fair to assume that very much more than half of industry is dominated by these great units."

When the rates of growth of all corporations and of the 200 giants are compared, they show that the large corporations as a group are growing over two and a half times as fast as the smaller corporations. The professors calculate that it will take only about forty years, at the present rate, for all corporate activity and practically all industrial activity to be absorbed by 200 companies.

The 200 giants are directed by 2,000 men, but most of them are inactive, leaving the control of half the industry and ultimately of all of it, in the hands of a few hundred fellows.

Thus you see the curious paradox of the present Roosevelt experiment. While Roosevelt is supposed to be interfering in the people's private business in all directions, he is really interfering only with a few obscure but potent gentry. The people fondly imagine that they control their individual enterprises and that they are being very unselfish and patriotic to allow the government to butt in during this emergency. Actually the only real control they exert is indirectly through the government, and for the first time the government is really exercising this control. Instead of suffering interference from above, the people for the first time are beginning to manage their own business. But all this is in the Benighted States. In Canada we are too civilized, to successful and too prosperous to require any change in the present arrangements.

FUNGI

INSIDIOUSLY, like the first signs of a vague disease, advertising signs are beginning to creep back upon the highways of British Columbia, from which the government very properly removed them some years ago. It is about time the new Minister of Public Works, Mr. Pooley, who is an ardent lover of the out-doors and the decencies of life, ordered out a foraging party to tear down these blights. Unfortunately, under our present law, Mr. Pooley can only remove those signs actually on the right-of-way. We haven't become civilized enough here, like many parts of the world, to pass legislation forbidding the desolation of our roads and the ruin of our scenery by signs skilfully placed a few feet off the road on private property, to hide the best scenic views. This may come in time, but meanwhile the government ought to show that it means to keep its public property free of this scourge, not merely by removing the signs but by prosecuting those who put them up.

EXPLANATION

BY THE WAY, I owe an explanation to the government. It doesn't matter much what I say here, but when a man goes to the dogs and makes a speech to the Gyro Club, as I did in a fit of melancholia the other day, his utterances take on a vicarious sort of importance that they don't deserve. I was quoted in the newspapers, and accurately, as deploring the settlement of unemployed persons on barren lands beyond the bounds of the Chilcotin wastes. I should have observed that a committee of experts and not the government direct decides where these people are to settle. The government, however, must take the final responsibility and might consider, among other measures, getting a new committee of experts.

As a matter of fact, I sympathize with the government in this matter. It has done no worse about land settlement than any other government and better than some. Mr. Hinchliffe says he has found that we have no real land and settlement policy in British Columbia and never have had—a blinding discovery which was plain to everyone else for the last dozen years and has often been mentioned, humbly, in these premises.

We have allowed settlement to spread in all directions until we have the population of one good-sized city smeared across enough space for a first-rate world power, with roads, schools and other services accordingly. Then you wonder why your taxes are high. It is ridiculous to blame all these things on one government. We are now enjoying the results of our own collective wisdom over a period of thirty years. I hope you enjoy it as much as I do.

HAVOC

RECORD of one day's havoc by the little boy next door, as recounted by his indignant sister: "First he chased the turtle, the big one, too, into the pond and it jumped into the water with a big belly-flop, it was so scared. Then he threw stones at the gold fishes. Then he went down in the garden and pulled out an armful of carrots and ate one and left the rest on the ground. Then he turned on five taps in the garden and left them running. Then he picked a lot of flowers what my daddy doesn't want picked because they are the good flowers. Then he went into the garage and turned the button on the car what starts it so when my daddy tried to start it, it wouldn't. Then what d'you think? He went up in the bathroom and he got hold of my daddy's safety razor and he tried to shave himself and he cut a big cut right in his chin and—this was worse—he bled all over a nice clean towel. Um, um. And when he went to bed what d'you think he said? He said, 'Good boy, good boy,' he said. 'Sez you,' I said. What I don't understand is why God made little boys so speshully bad."

POLICE DOGS

To the Editor:—May I take a little space to try to have a little fairness shown to one breed of dogs that is doing its quota of good for mankind. I am referring to the German shepherd dog, so erroneously called the "Police Dog." Any dog of any breed may make use of this name if carrying the prefix P.H., a degree earned by hard work in Germany. In Canada, United States and England many of these dogs are used as guards, blind leaders, etc., and one can hardly conceive of giving a vicious dog to a blind man to depend on. Now, for the other side, I quite agree that some of the (in my opinion) cross-bred miserable specimens running on our streets should be done away with, they hurt the reputation of a real working dog and, after all, take our human race, for example, if a man or woman offends against law and order they are put away where they can do no harm, and we have not much vacant space in our prisons, which goes to prove there are outlaws among both men and animals. I feel I am competent to discuss this matter, having bred and trained German shepherds for fifteen years in U.S.A., and a puppy leaving us is always obedience trained, making it a pleasure for his new owner to take him home. When people learn to go to a reliable breeder for a dog of this kind, then they will be sure of a good temper in their dog, as most of the dogs "Cave Canem" complains of are what we term fear biters, and should never have been allowed to live. It would be quite an object lesson if a few of the people censoring this breed could go to London or New York or even Germany and see the wonderful work being carried on by these clever dogs. As to the remark that they are not needed in Victoria, well that may be, but if he will read The Times he will find that we are not without prowlers, etc. Let "Caven Canem" come out into the open. His veracity would not be questioned, as behind a nom de plume, and if he cares to visit our kennels I am sure he would change his views as regards the breed in general. At least be fair, and remember the small dog is not always so docile as he seems.

NO POLICE DOGS

To the Editor:—May I take advantage of your column to enlighten "Cave Canem" on a few points? There is no such breed of dogs as police dogs. Any dog may have police training and use the prefix P.H., polizhunde, meaning a dog police trained in Germany. Airdales, great danes, doberman pinschers and German shepherd are amongst the dogs commonly used in this work. As I am under the impression that it is one of the latter he is referring to, I would like to say, why condemn the whole breed for the sake of a few miserable specimens, probably cross-bed that one sees occasionally. The well-bred and well-trained shepherd dog is a joy to possess, and is not picked up for $5 or $10, and so the good ones are rather scarce. You have some wonderful dogs here in Victoria that we saw at your recent show, and did not perceive any with man-eating tendencies. It seems to me poor sportsmanship to use a non de plume, as if one is afraid of something, so I'll sign my name, even though I am just a visitor in your fair city, and I own a rather clever shepherd dog at home that saved our lives in a recent fire, pulling the clothes off the bed until noticed, and then rushing into the children's room. This would hardly be the work of a dog that "Cave Canem" is evidently used to seeing. Yours for the usual display of British fair play.

THE OXFORD GROUP AND POLITICS

To the Editor:—Ever since my criticism of The Oxford Group in politics I have been deluged with letters of abuse, piety and congratulation. In addition The Cowichan Leader, of which Mr. Savage is the editor, contained in its last edition a virulent attack on my political motives. Absolute love is conspicuous chiefly by its absolute absence in most of these effusions, and The Cowichan Leader has a distinctly tactful way of dealing with absolute honesty. I am not particularly worried about either of these somewhat peculiar phenomena, but it is, I think, a matter for regret, that the red herring is being assiduously followed by those who were beginning to see the light of absolute truth.

There are far too many letters to answer personally, so I trust, Mr. Editor, you will be able to find room for this reply, which must suffice for critics.

It should be remembered that it all my vigorous if not too kindly was Mr. Savage and not I, who dragged the Oxford Group into politics. So far my criticism has been confined to politics—but as I am now told that religion and politics are synonomous, there should be no complaint from my traducers if I take issue with them as to the futility of their doctrine, as such. They claim, if I am not mistaken, not only to be followers of Jesus Christ but to be teachers of his methods. Christ was, we are told, born in a lowly stable, and entered Jerusalem riding on the back of a lowly ass. The Oxford Group prefers the Empress Hotel, and has a decided fancy for automobiles of price. Christ drove the money changers from the temple with a whip and angry words of scorn—The Buchmanites coax large sums of money from millionaires by honeyed words; they neither believe in honest anger nor in whips.

Christianity has been in existence for nearly two thousand years; in what manner has it failed, and if Christ himself failed to redeem the world, how does this group of foolish men and women think it can succeed where He could not. What about the church—and wherefore does the layman claim superiority over the professional?

Again, it is claimed that our greatest need to-day is absolute unselfishness. How is this possible in a world dominated by competition, and in which even a multi-millionaire is justified? To the masses, continually struggling in the meshes of poverty, over which they have no control, this flowery exhortation has no meaning other than insult added to injury. To live a noble life in the midst of ignoble surroundings is, with very few exceptions, impossible, and paradoxically only possible to the millionaire if he discards these noble surroundings. In other words, to preach unselfishness to those who have not, is ludicrous, whilst to preach it to those who have, is a mere waste of time.

It is, of course, possible that the odd one amongst those who have, may be willing to buy off the stings of his conscience with gifts to the poor, but this is nothing new in history—nor is it new that those who prevail upon him to do so, should profit thereby. The pages of history are replete with descriptions of the wealth of monasteries, bishops and the like. The benefits which accrue to the poor, exist only in the phantasmagoria of the imagination of such people as the Oxford Group.

It would undoubtedly be wrong to say that the practice of the principles advocated by this bunch of enthusiasts would not materially benefit the world, but to claim that such teaching is all that is necessary at this juncture of crisis, is absurd. Indeed, in my opinion, it is crime against humanity, inasmuch as it obscures the real trouble, and delays the day of salvation. There is no need for continuity of the misery of the masses, and there can be no absolute love until this misery is abolished. To talk of love and tenderness in a system which countenances war and bloodshed on the scale of the last great holocaust, is folly of the worst kind. There was certainly no hate between the peoples of the world—what then made the war possible and inevitable? Perhaps the Oxford Group can answer. And perhaps Mr. Savage in his savage attack on Russia for her supposedly bloodthirsty methods, would like to draw comparsion with a system which claimed the lives of ten million humans and the misery of a hundred million others.

And finally, let me say that a Socialist has a truer conception of absolute love and absolute truth than the most ardent member of this self-satisfied group of confusionists.

POLICE DOGS

To the Editor:—I feel I must reply to "Cave Canem's attack on the so-called police dog.

I have been breeding Alsatians for some years and guess this is the dog referred to. I might say I have several in Victoria and so far have no complaints. They are very intelligent dogs and the ones referred must have had some provocation behave as he says they did. To mind he must be another of cranks who once in a while crop and vent their spite against this b of dogs. But it really is a boost cause the average person knows they are not man-eaters, and a t must be good to be knocked.

RUBBER DOLLAR TO COME NEXT?

Currency Unit Would Be Based on Price Level Under Roosevelt's Ideas

Value in Gold Would Rise Or Fall According to Market Trend

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 2.—Perhaps we're going to have a "rubber dollar" and perhaps not.

That's what Roosevelt has been talking about lately, beginning with his assertion that the United States sought "the kind of dollar which the generation hence will have the same purchasing and debt-paying power as the dollar value we hope to attain in the near future."

Such a dollar—often called a "commodity dollar" or "compensatory dollar"—might not buy the same amount of bread or shoes in 1945 as in 1935, but it would have the same purchasing power when applied to a general list of commodities.

Some economists and currency experts here think the "rubber dollar" is just something Roosevelt happens to be dwelling on at the moment—that we probably will never have one. They think it's highly impractical unless other countries become willing to operate on the same basis, which is doubtful.

* * *

PROFESSOR IS ADVISOR

Nevertheless, the man to whom Roosevelt is supposed to have listened most intently of late in his money deliberations is Prof. G. F. Warren of Cornell, the foremost present-day advocate of a dollar whose gold value would be based on the prevailing price level.

Professor Warren is considered radical by many economists, but the record shows that Roosevelt's various recent currency moves at home and abroad have closely paralleled the professor's theories. Other of the president's ideas, such as the keeping of all the country's gold in vaults as bullion, to be used onl yas collateral for currency, have previously been advanced by Warren.

Professor Warren's theory consequently becomes of much current interest. He contends price levels can't be raised except as money's value declines, that prices as a whole may be freed from great fluctations as a mass due to the world gold supply or changes in demand for it and that you can't materially change relative values of gold and commodities by printing paper money.

* * *

EXPLAINS BASIC PLAN

Professor Warren has this to say about the "rubber dollar?"

"The compensated dollar is a proposal to establish by law a currency redeemable in gold, but the weight of gold for which the dollar would exchange would rise one per cent. if prices fell one per cent. the dollar would exchange for one per cent less gold."

"The dollar has to be rubber either as to weight or as to value. This proposal would give it a fixed value and a rubber weight. It raises the fundamental question as to whether a medium of exchange should be fixed in weight or fixed in value."

"A scientific money is one with a constant buying power for all commodities rather than a fixed weight of one commodity. Our whole tax and debt structure is to be kept sound either for the creditor or the debtor, it is commodity prices that need to be kept stable, not the weight of gold for which a dollar will exchange."

Sylvia Sidney's Fear of Disfiguring Operation Caused Walk-out

Associated Press

New York, Aug. 2.—Sylvia Sidney, dark-eyed motion picture actress, fears she may have to undergo an operation which would disfigure her and end her career in the films.

Arriving here yesterday evening after an airplane trip from Hollywood, she said that was the explanation of her abrupt walkout from the Paramount Studios, where she was making a picture with Maurice Chevalier.

The actress underwent one operation in Hollywood for a throat ailment. It would take several days, she said, to determine whether that operation "will take."

"If it doesn't," she said, speaking with difficulty, "I'll have to have another operation for the complete removal of a gland, which will leave a scar on the outside of my face.

"If that happens it will be impossible for me to go on in pictures.

Lillian Gish Is Back From Europe

New York, Aug. 2.—Gloria Swanson, Lillian Gish and Ramon Navarra returned from Europe to-day.

Miss Gish took the cure at Baden-Baden and said she had gained five pounds. The treatment, she related, included a brandy-soaked bandage wrapped around the waist nightly before going to bed.

"Nothing is taken in the way of strong drink internally," she said. "I don't know why it is done, but it is effectual. Instead of a nightcap, one takes a belt."

On Saturday, July 29, at St. Paul's Church, Vancouver, Joan, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Enpch of Enderby, and Mr. J. V. Norcross, son of Mrs. W. N. Tompkins of Victoria, and the late Norman Norcross, were married quietly. Rev. W. J. Minto Swan officiated.

Mrs. D. J. McDonald of Revelstoke to Preside at Provincial Women's Meeting

Formal Opening and Evening Social Gathering on Agenda For To-morrow

Officers of the British Columbia Women's Provincial Command, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., arrived in Victoria this afternoon for the executive meeting and dinner to be held this evening preliminary to the opening of the annual convention to-morrow. The executive includes: President, Mrs. D. J. McDonald, Revelstoke; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. D. McLennan, Vancouver; vice-presidents, Mrs. A. Coates, Langley Prairie, and Mrs. McKinstry, Vancouver; immediate past president, Mrs. T. A. Barnard, Nanaimo.

MRS. T. A. BARNARD

This evening the executive officers will be the guests of honor at a dinner arranged by a committee representative of the Victoria auxiliaries. To-morrow morning from 9 till 10 o'clock the delegates will register at the Pro Patria auditorium, 625 Courtney Street, afterwards proceeding to the Shrine Hall to attend the formal opening of the Canadian Legion provincial convention. At 10.30 o'clock, the provincial executive will meet.

FORMAL OPENING

The convention sessions will be formally opened at 2.15 o'clock in the headquarters, Pro Patria branch, Mrs. D. J. McDonald presiding. Mrs. W. Curtis Sampson, president of the Provincial Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, will give an address of welcome, to which Mrs. A. Coates will respond. Committees will then be appointed and the meeting adjourn.

At 6.30 o'clock the official banquet will be held to be followed at 8.30 by a social evening arranged by the Victoria auxiliaries. The programme will open with "O Canada" and will include vocal solos by Miss Ailsa Barclay; cornet solo, James Mossop; comic song, Ernie Impett; violin solo, Linda Smith; vocal solos, Frank Spooner; community singing.

The event will conclude with a dance, for which a good orchestra has been engaged, and refreshments will be served.

WINS HARPER PRIZE

New York, Aug. 2 (Associated Press).—Paul Horgan of Roswell, N.M., librarian of the New Mexico Military Institute, is announced as the winner of the $7,500 Harper prize novel competition for 1933.

The honor was awarded to his first novel to reach publication, "The Fault of Angels," which will be issued August 24. It is a satire on the arts in a provincial American city.

V.O.N. DOING SPLENDID WORK

Board Thanks Kiwanis Club For Aid in Campaign Against TB.

Gratitude to the Kiwanis Club for its Christmas seal fund, which makes possible the carrying on a very valuable work along the lines of tuberculosis preventive teaching and care was expressed by the board of the Victorian Order of Nurses at its meeting yesterday afternoon. The Kiwanis Club's seal fund makes it possible for a public health nurse to give full time service to this work.

The statistical report given by the head nurse shows the V.O.N. work last month to have included the nursing of 140 patients, as follows: Forty-six medical cases, 26 communicable diseases, 30 prenatals, 3 surgical, 2 interrupted pregnancy, 3 infants, 20 postnatals, 5 health instruction.

In all, 1071 visits were paid as follows: Sixty-three prenatals, 24 obstetrical, 24 infants, 40 postnatals, 18 pneumonia, 33 tuberculosis, 68 communicable, 76 cancer, 53 chronics, 271 others, 4 others, not classified, 20 clinics, 150 child welfare, 221 instruction, 6 special instruction.

Donations were gratefully received from Miss M. Dawson, Miss Duke, G. Straith, Miss Aitkins, Norfolk House School; Mrs. Dick, Mrs. M. Bell, Mrs. W. Morkill, Miss Rutherford, Mrs. Pennell and Mrs. Chadwick.

BABIES' DAY ON SATURDAY

Salvation Army Will Make Appeal Through Taggers For Public Support

Sixty-eight years ago William Booth stood alone on Mile End waste, determined to do something for the "outcast and forgotten" in London's slums. The fruit of that effort is now represented in the world-wide work of the Salvation Army, so that now, wherever there is sin and misery, poverty and despair, pain and discouragement; wherever there are men who are down and out, women who have erred, little children who are defenceless, there will be found the Salvation Army, with its message of hope and cheer.

Last year almost 700 girls were cared for in the army's rescue homes in western Canada, the percentage of successful rescue cases in the west being very high, as out of the hundreds of girls received annually the records show that 87 per cent are redeemed and restored to lives of right living and respectability.

The annual tag day, better known as Babies' Day, is being held on Saturday to help along this work of social and moral uplift in British Columbia, and it is hoped that there will be a generous response.

Weddings

RIDOUT-LEMM

At a very quiet ceremony at the First Baptist Church yesterday evening at 8.30 o'clock, Rev. G. A. Reynolds united in marriage G. Marguerite (Rita), elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lemm, 433 Cook Street, and Mr. Cecil A. Ridout, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ridout, 533 Oswego Street. Mr. Lemm gave his daughter in marriage, and after the ceremony, a small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Ridout will make their home on Darwin Road.

MAUNSELL-SAYER

The marriage of Eleanor Wilhelmina, daughter of Mrs. Sayer, of "Ashley," 1141 Empress Avenue, and of the late W. R. Sayer, and Edward Cockburn Marriott, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Maunsell, of Maclure Street, was quietly solemnized yesterday morning at St. John's Church, Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick officiating. The bride was given in marriage by T. H. Drew of Vancouver, and wore a tailored suit of dove grey, with ivory crepe blouse and ivory silk hat, and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink carnations and African daisies. She was attended by Miss Violet Jones of Vancouver, gowned in flowered blue and white organdie and white picture hat and carrying a Colonial bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. John Maunsell supported his brother. Dorothy Perkins roses and marguerites were used in decoration of the church.

A small reception was held later at the home of the bride's mother, the bridal table being arranged with pink and white sweet peas. Later Mr. and Mrs. Maunsell left for a honeymoon in Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Drew having lent them their house on Marine Drive for a fortnight.

Beauty that Allures

is the beauty of a soft, smooth skin —safeguarded by this secret lotion-like blend of olive and palm oils.

ONE thing all men admire in any woman. You may be blonde or brunette, tall or petite—to attract, you must have a lovely complexion! Women who know the allure of a faultless skin bathe with Palmolive. They know its secret blend of cosmetic oils of olive and palm makes Palmolive matchless in its power to foster skin beauty.

Morning and night, give yourself this home beauty treatment: Massage a creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water gently into the pores of the face, throat and shoulders. Rinse thoroughly. Dry carefully. It will keep your skin fresh, young and lovely.

Buy 3 cakes of Palmolive today. Use them regularly, faithfully, as directed above. See what happens! You can have a softer, lovelier, younger skin.

THREE WIVES AS MEAL TICKETS

Chicago, Aug. 2.—As the police fell the story, George Graves almost solved the problem of joblessness.

Asked why he had allegedly married three women without getting any divorces, he was quoted as saying:

"I was out of a job and after I left the first one it occurred to me I had better marry the others so I would be sure of a place to eat and sleep."

WIN CONTRACT PAIR MATCH

New York Women Champions of American Bridge League

Associated Press

Asbury Park, N.J., Aug. 2. — Mrs. Courtland N. Smith of Montclair, and Mrs. Robert B. Fuller of New York won the national women's contract pair championship yesterday in the final round of the American Bridge League's summer session of the seventh annual national bridge tournament.

The victory gave Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Fuller the Wilbur C. Whitehead trophy.

Their percentage was 438.9. By their victory they automatically qualified for the master's pairs contest which will be run off later in the week.

Running concurrently was the final round of the special men's contract pairs, a non-championship event. It was won by George Reith of New York and B. J. Becker of Philadelphia, with 293 match points out of a possible 506.

Elopement Ends In Jail For Man

Canadian Press

Stratford, Ont., Aug. 2. — Ernest Leach, Hamilton, yesterday was sentenced to three months in jail for vagrancy—and thus ended a young romance.

Two weeks ago Leach disappeared with the daughter of a St. Mary's woman after staging an old-fashioned elopement, ladder and all. The mother of the girl trailed the pair through several southern Ontario cities, and Monday night found them here. When police arrived they found the irate mother holding Leach by the belt with one hand and her daughter with the other.

From the story the mother told police it appeared Leach had called at the St. Mary's home to beg a meal. He "hung around" until she finally persuaded him to leave, but returned for his sweetheart, who made her escape via the ladder.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

KNOW YOUR RIGHT POWDER SHADE

Powder is all right or it is all wrong! There are no happy mediums. And the wrong shade of powder spoils not only your beauty but your other cosmetics too.

Powder should be the natural color of your skin. It stands to reason, then, that the people who can wear white powder are few and far between. Unless your skin is the same shade as pure white linen, stay away from dead white powder. It isn't natural. And naturalness should be the harmony keynote of cosmetics.

Most skins have a natural rosy tone. Therefore, powder with rosy shades in it is best for the average skin. The degree of rosy tones varies, of course. The rosier the skin the more rosy the powder should be. The term "rosy" should not be confused with "pink."

Many people imagine that they have a great deal of yellow in their skin. This is true in some cases, but, for the most part, the greatest majority of women's complexions have the rose tones underlying.

Don't buy cosmetics in a place where they offer you three shades of powder from which to choose. There should be a dozen rosy shades and perhaps, one white and a couple yellowish or rachel tones.

Try several shades on the back of your hand. Usually the backs of your hands have the same skin tones as your face. This doesn't apply, of course, if you have allowed your hands to become too tanned, red or rough.

Powder is not used to change the natural color of your face. It is applied to give your face a dull finish, allowing only your eyes to shine.

BORN IN HURRICANE

In the midst of the hurricane which struck South Trinidad recently a baby girl was born to Mrs. Laurie of Warren Trace, Moruga, and though the roof under which the infant lay was carried away by the winds both mother and baby are doing well.

"In pitch darkness and under torrential showers of rain both my baby and myself were snugly wrapped and conveyed to a stable where we lay until morning," Mrs. Laurie said. "Trees fell close by, but I prayed to God and trusted in Him and was unharmed," she concluded.

AGED WOMEN AT "BENVENUTO"

Inmates of Home Guests of Mrs. R. P. Butchart During Month

The committee of the Aged Women's Home met yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the home, Mrs. W. L. Clay occupying the chair, and members present were Mesdames I. A. Gould, W. Grant, F. W. Vincent, S. Leiser, E. Heddle, H. Grant, D. C. Sabiston and A. D. Whittier.

Routine business was attended to and all bills for the month ordered paid. Some members of the staff are still enjoying holidays and the general health of the inmates continues fair.

On the afternoon of July 11, at the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart, all the inmates who were able to go, together with the staff and members of the committee, made the trip out to "Benvenuto," where a sumptuous tea was served and after a walk around the beautiful grounds all returned home happy with memories of the wonderful treat made possible through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Butchart, and Messrs. Calwell and Calwell, who provided transportation.

The committee for the month will be: Mesdames S. Leiser, F. W. Vincent and Miss O'Brien.

Donations of flowers were gratefully received from Mrs. W. Grant, D. C. Hughes, F. W. Hughes and Victoria Floral Company.

OLD AGE JOINS YOUTH IN FLING

Two Octogenarians High Night-lifers; Joyce Girl Gets Newspaperman

Crone Found Dead on Fifth Avenue With String of Real Pearls Around Neck

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, —Youth may be having its nocturnal fling, but so does old age, sometimes. Mrs. Frances Kirkham and Adolph Lewisohn, for instance, the grandame and the dean of Manhattan night life.

She is eighty-five, he eighty-four. He likes to sit in night clubs, watching the dancing, talking to youngsters, sipping champagne. She likes a ringside table where she can park her Scotch-and-soda and her cigarette, and jump up and dance herself. Do not get the idea, though, that these two go about together. Each one probably considers the other something of an old fogey.

Lewisohn is a financier and philanthropist, once a prominent figure in mining developments. Mrs. Kirkham is the widow of the late Marshall Kirkham, former railroad executive. It was in the music room of their Chicago home that Charles Dawes composed some of his piano pieces.

Not until a few years ago did Mrs. Kirkham ("Call me Fanny") guess her own latent proclivities for hidy-ho.

Once started, though, she has been on the go pretty much ever since. Poised, graceful and gracious, she seems like a transplanted belle of the seventies. She loves Spanish music, and has invented a sedate version of the tango. Likes to watch the drowsy city stirring into life as she goes home at dawn. Of all her considerable worldly possessions, she is proudest of a solid silver cocktail service—a birthday gift from her great-grandchildren.

ON THE MANHATTAN SCENE

Meanderings: Amusement concessionnaires who used to sell three baseballs to throw at sassy Negroes are offering popular new targets this season—agile persons made up to look like Hitler . . . Sally Eilers, back from England and the making of a picture with Ben Lyon, still chortles over the tempo and temperament of British production methods. It seems that everybody on the sets stops work at 4.30, for tea . . . Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who owes not a little of her fame to those ambassadors of the early cutter, the ship news reporters, is being squirmed around town by one of them this summer . . . Lillian Gish, who has not made a movie in three years, will soon be bound for Hollywood . . . The Police Gazette, which flaunted its pink profusions for nearly five decades, is being revived . . . There is a young pilot in Brooklyn named Al K. Hall. And a steeplejack named N. N. High.

FIFTH AVENUE VIGNETTES

Imperious Fifth Avenue long has looked down on the motley midway of Broadway. And so was justly horrified the other day when two sandwich men appeared with garish signs and paced its own spacious way. The first time such a thing had happened in thirty years . . .

Fifth Avenue, though, is not always the proper promenade it pretends. Night brings a strange transition. The great stores and swanky shops are closed, shades tight drawn against prowling fashion pirates . . . Then, from the side streets of the Forties, appear sleek sisters of the sidewalks, some with leashed dogs to lend proper countenance to their strollings . . .

Then, too, come a few of the city's hags—horrid, gibbering ghouls of the gutters. They shuffle along near the curbstones, seeking treasure on one of the richest streets of the world . . . No one ever hears of them finding anything. Yet one such crone was found dead in a doorway not long ago, and around her neck was a string of real pearls.

NURSES TRYING SHORTER HOURS

Start Eight-hour-day Here; Australia Has Another Solution to Problem

The recent decision of the Victoria Graduate Nurses' Association to adopt the eight-hour day system and reduce fees in this city as a means of meeting the dual problem of the patient who finds the present cost of sickness too high and the nurse who is consequently unable to find employment, adds interest to the following article from the press of Melbourne, Australia, showing that the nursing problem is world-wide.

TRAIN TOO MANY

"A subject which is causing much concern to many women who are interested in the training of nurses is the present lack of employment for private nurses and the prospect of a still more acute situation as the number of community hospitals increases. 'The position of the older women among the private nurses is serious,' said one of their firends in conversation recently. 'It is pathetic to see them moving from the nurses' homes to cheaper rooms, and even selling their small possessions in order to keep going. I cannot help fearing that the new developments in our hospital system will make things even more difficult.'

"Just now the fear is that if the present system of recruiting nursing trainees is continued the number trained will soon be found to be in excess of requirements. The ultimate effect would be to discourage trainees. Girls are not likely to enter upon a long course of training unless there is a reasonable prospect of employment at the end of it, and only those with a genuine vocation for the work, or with strong confidence in their own ability, would think of taking up nursing as a profession. But in the meantime there would almost certainly be for some years a superfluity of trained nurses, with consequent disappointment and unemployment.

"The community hospital plan is obviously destined to be adopted throughout the State. One large country town already has its community ward; three others are about to establish them, and two more have the matter under consideration. Throughout the country districts there is spreading a network of bush nursing hospitals, provided by the people of the various districts, with the assistance of the Bush Nursing Association, for their own use. The common sense and fairness of the plan ensures its wide acceptance. It would be futile and foolish for anyone to set his face against a system which is based upon self-help."

Feared to Lose Son By Marriage

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 2.—Asphyxiation of Mrs. Helen Maloney, fifty-four, and her son, Millard, twenty-five, was described by police as the tragic result of the woman's fear of losing her son in marriage.

The mother was found on the kitchen floor, fully clad, her head near the open door of a gas stove. Her son's body, clad in pyjamas, lay on his bed in an adjoining room.

Friends of the family told police Mrs. Maloney had been grieving over the coming separation from her son.

U.S. WOMEN IN BIG POSITIONS

New Administration Appoints Assistants to Treasurer and Attorney-General

Washington, Aug. 2.—Woman's knock for recognition at the door of the new administration once more has been answered with the appointment of Miss Stella Akin, of Savannah, Ga., as special assistant to the Attorney-General, and of Mrs. Blair Banister as assistant treasurer of the United States.

While the presence of women in high posts in the Department of Justice in past administrations, both Democratic and Republican, prevents Miss Akin from blazing a trail in the government legal office, she holds a higher post than any other woman now with the department, says the Christian Science Monitor.

Lately she has been active in the "Shoestring Club," an organization for unemployed and poorly-paid girls in Savannah, which furnishes room and board and handiwork to enable them to make both ends meet. The organization gets its name from the fact that it operates on a "shoestring," being supported by private contributions.

Miss Akin's special field in her new post will be in the court of claims division. She will have charge generally of claims against the United States in district courts, the Court of Claims and even in the Supreme Court where the government is made a party defendant and in which a money judgment is sought. The government may be sued upon any claims, except pensions upon contracts and for damages.

Mrs. Banister is a sister of Senator Carter Glass of Virginia. She was formerly editor of a hotel magazine here and prior to March 4 carried through the job of finding satisfactory rooms for thousands of inaugural visitors. In her new post she will assist the treasurer of the United States, William A. Julian, in his duties connected with the receipt and disbursement of all public moneys deposited in the treasury.

Actresses Have Favorite Colors

Some Film Stars Superstitious About Certain Hues; "Flattering" Shades Popular.

Hollywood, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—Fashions in colors may change as often as the seasons, but the ladies of the cinema remain true to their favorites.

With some, it is merely a habit of long standing. Others are superstitious about certain hues. Particular colors are flattering to some and a few "stick to their colors" because their moods are affected by what they wear.

Kay Francis likes dark green, black and white combinations and yellow, especially for sports wear. Green, in any shade is Alice Brady's weakness. In her most successful plays she has worn a gown, hat or some article of clothing that was green and she is certain that the fact had something to do with the happy outcome.

Raspberry and geranium are Ann Dvorak's favorites, because they agree with her dark brown sun-tanned skin. White is so complimentary to Dolores Del Rio that most of her evening gowns are in that color. Bette Davis, very blonde, prefers black or green.

Myrna Loy has only recently overcome her aversion to light shades of blue, which she wore almost constantly as a child. Now there is no pastel shade which she likes better or wears oftener. Brown and white combinations appeal to Barbara Stanwyck, or she selects gowns in either of the colors.

Two pale pink admirers are Maureen O'Sullivan and Ruth Chatterton. Both, coincidentally, dislike mauve. Maureen says her tennis dresses, spectator sports ensembles and some formal gowns are pale pink whether the material is cotton, wool or silk.

Your Baby and Mine

DELAYED TALKING SHOULD BE INVESTIGATED

Some children of two or thereabouts have a vocabulary of several hundred words and two or three-word sentences, while others are limited to a half-dozen words used singly, plus some explanatory grunts. One must decide whether the child's inability to use words is due to delayed mental development, to lack of acute hearing, or to a behavior difficulty.

Children are slow to talk when they are busy learning to walk. While they are experimenting with this fascinating new capacity, their acquisition of words is usually at a standstill. This is only temporary, of course.

A HANDICAP

Defective hearing is at the base of much inability to talk. The child who cannot hear at all or cannot hear distinctly has no pattern of speech to imitate. Complete deafness would be more easily recognized since the child would hardly progress beyond the babble stage. The child whose hearing is dulled may hear words, but not distinctly enough to repeat them intelligibly.

When the child is extremely slow in the use of words, have his hearing examined. He deserves this attention before he goes to school for defective hearing puts the child under enormous handicap in the classroom.

The parent may not easily recognize slow speech as a behavior difficulty. But she may ask herself whether the child is finding it easier to let yells and pointings do the work of words. The child who is waited on hand and foot by an adoring family finds no particular use for language.

OWN LANGUAGE

Children in large families who are constantly with other small brothers and sisters may develop a language that is entirely comprehensible to the children but falls far short of adult standards. Because these muddled words are easily interpreted by the other children, the baby continues to use this speech instead of adapting it to meet the demands of adults.

My leaflet, "Normal Speech Development," will give mothers some idea of the ages at which they may expect words, sentences, and intelligent conversation. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope with your request for it.

Keeping in mind that there is a variation in the child's ability to use words, it is nevertheless important that markedly important speech be given intelligent attention.

MARRIED PEOPLE LIVE LONGEST

Berlin, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press). — Matrimony is almost essential to long life, according to Prof. Greeff, who has concluded an inquiry into the careers of 124 centenarians — eighty-one women and forty-three men—in Germany. Of this number there was only one unmarried woman and two bachelors.

There were no vegetarians or teetotallers in this group of centenarians, but whereas all the women were non-smokers, all of the men were addicted to the fragrant weed.

The professor says that his investigation does away with the common theory that only persons of complacent temperament can hope to attain old age. Most of the centenarians forming the subject of his inquiry were of an excitable nature, he says.

Premier Anderson Loses Mother

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

A fruit soup is a splendid beginning for a summer luncheon or dinner. Its rich color is pleasing to the eye and the faint fragrance of the fruit adds to its appeal.

Tart fruits are best suited to a chilled soup, which above all must be zestful and stimulating.

Thorough chilling is imperative, because half the charm of the soup lies in its temperature. The palate craves something cold and refreshing to act as an appetizer for the dinner to follow.

A fruit soup is not jellied to any suggestion of firmness; it is merely fruit juice thickened enough to lift it from the cocktail class. The thickening agent may be cornstarch, arrowroot, tapioca or even flour. Infinite care must be taken not to make the soup too thick. A firm, sticky concoction is far from appetizing, but a slightly thick, syrupy consistency is cooling and inviting.

Arrowroot is often used for thickening sauces and puddings in place of cornstarch. It is especially desirable for children, since it is more easily digested than cornstarch. It is used in the following rule.

CURRANT SOUP

One quart red currants, 3 cups water, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon arrowroot, few grains salt.

Salt is always used to take care of the flat taste of whatever thickening agent is used.

Wash and stem fruit. Crush and simmer in water for twenty minutes. Strain through a silk bag. Add sugar and bring to the boiling point. Add salt and stir in arrowroot mixed to smooth paste with a little cold water. Cook until mixture thickens slightly. Chill and serve.

Plums make an appetizing soup.

A combination of fruits is also good and affords a variety of flavors.

Blackberry and sour apple is a piquant mixture. All berries make inviting appetizers, used alone or in combination.

Cherries and grapes also produce well flavored fruit soups.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Seedless white grapes, cereal cooked with dates, cream, oven toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Scotch woodcock, sliced cucumber and lettuce salad, blackberry shortcake, milk, tea.

Dinner: Currant soup, baked veal loaf, twice baked potatoes, creamed carrots, stuffed tomato salad, peach fritters with raspberry sauce, milk, coffee.

FROST CAUSES GRAIN LOSSES

Canadian Press

Saskatoon, Aug. 2.—Frost to-day had struck a heavy blow at crop prospects in northwestern Saskatchewan, and added to the already heavy burden of trouble facing farmers in that area.

Reports from North Battleford indicate frost, as heavy in some sections as ten degrees, damaged garden crops and slow maturing crops. Similar damage was done in the Biggar, Unity, Wilkie and other districts.

Farmers of the North Battleford area were reported planning to cut wheat for feed rather than go to the expense of threshing the crop.

Spanish audiences resented it when sound was turned off during showing of talkies. They insisted the talk be turned on again, though they could not understand a word of it.

UNDERSTAND A GROWING BOY'S CONDUCT

"Hello, Jimmy! Been a good boy to-day?"

It was dad's usual greeting. Jimmy only answered when he had been good. Now he just grunted and held his book closer to his face.

"What has he been doing, mother?"

"Oh, everything! Such a day as I've had with him! Look at his knee, will you?"

"What happened?"

"He cut it on a stone. He was in his bare feet and he knows I don't allow it."

"Well," blurted out Jimmy, "you said to wear those good stockings and I knew if I'd get a hole in them I'd get scolded."

"You needn't have gone with those boys."

"I asked you and you said 'yes.' I didn't know they were going down by the pond to hunt crabs. I left my shoes and stockings at Scrappy's just to save them."

"Yes—I suppose so! Well, that's not all. He left his wheel out in the yard. When I went down street it began to rain. It was out in all that downpour and now it will be rusty. I worked and saved to get him that bicycle and now he can't take care of it."

THE MOTHER'S VERSION

"I do take care of it. I cleaned it and oiled it yesterday. I wouldn't have left it there but when I came back from the store you said I was to call Tommy right away. So I ran in to the telephone and after that I forgot it."

"That's not all," went on his exasperated mother. "He lent Tommy one of the books out of his new set a month ago. I just missed it to-day and Tommy's mother can't find it. The set is ruined."

"It'll turn up. Tommy always lends me books. This one's his. I didn't know it would get lost."

"All right. You always have a million excuses. But you won't get up when you're called, you don't keep yourself clean, you don't do anything. You are just a bad boy.

"I'm ashamed of you, son," said his dad. "Sit up there and get off your neck. You're going to be a hunchback some day. And stop frowning. You haven't anything to scowl about. Your mother and I are the ones to be mad."

His parents are in the house now so you and I will have a whispered conversation about Jimmy.

THE URGE FOR ACTIVITY

Do you think he was a bad boy? I don't.

In the first place his greatest crimes were thoughtlessness and perhaps some carelessness. Who of us is not both many times a day? In the second place, not only natural but rather decent motives prompted his seeming lapses in conduct. In the third place, he is a boy, a growing boy, with sudden impulses and a terrible urge for activity. In the fourth place, for every one thing he did wrong, there were probably a dozen he did right.

If his parents continue to be blind to his good points and to judge him too harshly, he will get a permanent scowl, not only on his face but on his very soul.

Uncle Wiggily's Hot Weather Fan

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

After the cookie party in the woods, where all the animal children had such fun and Uncle Wiggily threw cold, salty ice cream water on the Black Bear, Mr. Longears wondered what adventure he would have next.

"I think I'll hop out and have a look around," he said to his wife.

"It is too hot to go adventuring," said the lady rabbit.

"Oh, I don't mind," answered Uncle Wiggily. "When I am looking for adventures I don't have time to think about the heat. So I'll hop along and see what happens."

"Good luck and I hope you have a happy adventure," wished the rabbit lady, and her husband thanked her kindly.

So, though it was a very hot day Uncle Wiggily started out from his hollow stump bungalow. Away he hopped, through the woods and over the fields and, when he was about half way across a waving patch of hay grass, Mr. Longears heard a voice saying:

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Oh, dear!"

"What is the matter?" asked the rabbit gentleman kindly, for he knew it was no Bad Chap. The voice was too small and little for that.

"I have hurt my leg," was the answer. "And I can't jump."

"Why do you want to jump?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who always wanted to know the reason for anything.

"Because I am a grasshopper," the voice said, "and we grasshoppers must keep on the jump, you know."

"That's so," said the rabbit gentleman. "But where are you and how did you hurt your leg? Perhaps I can help you."

"Thank you, kindly," chirped the grasshopper. "Here I am, down on a leaf near your left paw."

Uncle Wiggily looked down and there, surely enough, was a big, green grasshopper. His left hind leg, one of the two large ones he used in leaping, was bent and twisted.

"I tried to jump over a cow's back in the meadow," the grasshopper told the rabbit. "But I slipped and landed on one of the cow's horns and bent my leg. Now I can't leap at all."

"I'll try and fix it for you," said the rabbit gentleman. "I remember what Dr. Possum did once when Buster, one of my boy rabbits, broke his leg. Dr. Possum bound it up with little sticks so it would not bend until the broken bone grew together again. I'll fix your leg that way, my Grasshopper friend."

"Thank you," chirped the jumping chap, and soon, with some tiny twigs for splints, a piece of green leaf for a bandage and some gum from the pine tree to make it stick, Uncle Wiggily had bound up the grasshopper's hurt leg so it would heal and get well.

"Thank you, so much," chirped the green chap as he cuddled down in the grass to lie and rest until his broken leg had mended. "Where are you going now?" he asked, as he saw Uncle Wiggily about to hop away.

"To look for an adventure," answered Mr. Longears. "I will not be so hot if I can have an adventure to think of."

"Yes, it is hot," agreed the grasshopper.

"Hark," said Uncle Wiggily, suddenly. "What is that?" For he heard a loud buzzing, humming sound a little distance away.

"Those are bees cooling their honey hive this hot day," said the grasshopper. "Look over behind that hill of grass."

Looking, Uncle Wiggily saw a hive, where bees made honey. In front of the door entrance were many bees flitting their wings as fast as they would flit, making a little breeze of cool air, which was blown into the hive to cool the other bees, who had to work hard making honey out of the juice of flowers.

"How wonderful!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Those wing-flitting bees are just like an electric fan, aren't they?"

"Yes," said the grasshopper, "they are."

Uncle Wiggily hopped on to find an adventure, but though he looked everywhere he could not seem to find what he wanted.

"Perhaps it is too hot for adventures," said the Bunny gentleman. But bravely he twinkled his pink nose and kept on and on. But at last it was so hot that he thought it best to go back to his hollow stump bungalow, which he did. He found his wife and Nurse Jane sitting out in the yard in the shade of a grapevine, fanning themselves with big green burdock plant leaves.

"If we only had an electric fan for this hot weather," sighed Nurse Jane, "how lovely it would be."

Uncle Wiggily said he would take the electric fan off his airship, but when he went to get it that fan was broken. Mrs. Longears was wishing she had a hot weather fan when, all of a sudden, there was a noise like wind blowing and some voices said: "Here we come!"

What happened next you shall hear to-morrow night in the story, Uncle Wiggily Keeps Cool. But please don't let the pussy cat tickle the gold fish with her tail or it might get the hiccoughs.

TIMELY AND TIDE-Y

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN

Hollywood.—The Hollywood stars know that the old-fashioned materials which fashioned grandmother's clothes are "just right" this year, if you would be smart.

Maureen O'Sullivan has a perfectly darling bathing suit of blue, yellow and white plaid gingham. The suit is lined with wool jersey which keeps Maureen warm in spite of the fact that cotton sounds as if it would be pretty cold when the winds blow on the beach.

The shorts are fastened at the sides with glass buttons and the top of the suit goes up around her neck—halter fashion.

Mae Clark gets her cottons the linen way. She was chasing around Agua Caliente wearing a linen sports ensemble with white skirt and square collared blue jacket. Her sailor hat was also of blue linen.

When Dolores Del Rio and her husband, Cedric Gibbons, sailed for a vacation in Honolulu, Dolores wore a very fine black and white checked cotton broadcloth suit. The jacket had a trim little neckline and the sleeves were bouffant type.

Dolores topped that charming cotton costume with a trig little black and white fabric hat worn well over her right eyebrow.

Janet Gaynor solved the problem of being both smart and comfortable these hot days by wearing an organdy tailored suit. Lunching at the Ambassador with a group of friends, Janet wore a suit of navy blue striped organdy, with a white pique collar and vest.

Her gloves, gauntlet type, were of the same material as the suit. Her hat was white pique to match the collar and vest.

FIRE DESTROYS LANGFORD HOME

Summer Cottage of E. Schaper Gutted in Midnight Blaze

Langford, Aug. 2.—Fire on Sunday night completely gutted the summer home of Ernest Schaper, Belle-vue, Langford Lake. Neighbors noticed the flames and rushed to the fire but the flames had got the upper hand and nothing could be done except to prevent the flames spreading. The house was empty of occupants at the time. All the furniture was destroyed.

Mrs. Dan Malcolm has left for Calgary, where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. J. G. Pattison.

Miss Winnie Clarke has returned from a trip to Winnipeg, and after visiting her aunt, Mrs. William Simpson, for a few days left for her home in Duncan.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Adams with their two daughters, are staying at their summer home at Florence Lake, and have as their visitors for a week Mrs. F. H. Freeland and Miss Isla Neeland.

Mrs. Austen Yates has returned from Roberts Bay, where she was the guest of Mrs. E. P. Haycroft for a few days.

NEW SCHOOL FOR SHAWNIGAN LAKE

Trustees Decide to Divide Area and Establish School on West Side

Shawnigan Lake, Aug. 2.—A special meeting of the ratepayers of the Shawnigan School district was held Monday evening to consider the application for a new school on the west side of the lake, and to receive the report of the trustees on the matter.

Dr. S. J. Willis, Superintendent of Education, was present at the request of the trustees to answer questions and give expert information relative to the matter. W. P. Gooch was elected chairman and S. J. Neale, secretary-trustee, presented the report for the board.

The report covered every angle of the case and was in favor of establishing a new school in preference to providing transportation. The report showed that the older school was safeguarded as to its being continued as a grade school by special arrangement with the council of public instruction and that the loss of revenue by dividing the school area was partly met by an increased grant to teachers' salaries

After hearing the report and a general discussion of all angles, a motion was put "That this meeting is in favor of a school being established on the west side of the lake and the petition for same be granted." It was carried.

Working Wives

By ANNE GARDNER

One evening, when Jocko returned to his room after dinner, his landlady met him at the door with the news that he had a visitor. Wondering, he went into the little parlor and found—Nan.

He was touched by her coming there. So touched that he almost forgot and took her in his arms. But remembering in time and greeted her with courtesy only.

Nan's hands fluttered toward him for a minute, then occupied themselves with her purse and gloves.

"I came to see if you would like to have dinner with me," she said brightly.

"I should be delighted."

"At the apartment, to-morrow night?"

Jocko hesitated the merest second. "Splendid. It's awfully kind of you to want me."

He accompanied her to the door, called a taxi and put her in. They exchanged the most formal goodbyes.

But in the taxi Nan hugged herself. All she needed with any man was to have a chance at him. And since Jocko was to be in his own home, where he had been happy—well, part of the time, anyway—it would be just to easy.

Nan never planned a campaign more carefully than this one, for winning back the husband she had come to hold so lightly, and then to value so dearly.

The apartment glowed softly in the shaded lights, there was a fire on the tiny hearth. Smells of Jocko's favorite foods greeted him as he stepped inside the door, even before he saw Nan, who floated toward him with both hands extended.

She was merely gay and beautiful now. The food should do its work. Then she would bring up the heavy artillery which would completely subjugate the beloved enemy.

Nan, when she wished to be, was probably the most enchanting companion in the world. To-night she decidedly wished to be. Jocko feeling her charm, warned himself again and again. "Take care, take care."

She came around the little table to light his cigarette at the close of dinner, leaning unnecessarily close, so that her bare arm brushed against him and caught the faint perfume she wore.

She made him tell her about himself, all that he had done, all that had happened to him since she had last saw him.

The meal concluded, she fixed the arm chair for him, with a pillow at the back. And when he had sat down, he found her suddenly in his arms clinging to him, her face pressed against his shoulder.

"Love me Jocko, love me, dearest. You mustn't be angry with your little Nan."

This was the heavy artillery. What man could resist it?

Yet Jocko sat there, unresponsive, suffering her embrace only, not meeting it any way.

The pause became embarrassing. Nan sat up, her arms still encircling his neck, and scanned his face.

"Jocko, don't you love me any more?" she asked incredulously.

"It isn't a question of love exactly," Jocko answered slowly. "I don't think we need go into that."

Nan put her smooth soft cheek against his.

"But when two people are going to live together, dear, it surely enters in."

"But we aren't going to live together."

CHAPTER XXVI

"Then you don't love me any more?" Nan rose from his lap and stood before him, dazed. "Do you love some one else?"

"Of course I don't."

Nan could not believe in any other reason that would take Jocko's love away. He had loved her so much!

"Have you stopped loving me?" she persisted.

"I tell you, Nan, that doesn't enter in. I've simply told you that our life together is ended. At least, while things continue as they are."

Nan felt solid ground under her feet once more, for the first time in this surprising conversation with this new and mystifying Jocko.

"What things do you mean?"

"You don't really want to know, Nan?"

"But I do. If I am to be deserted, I have the right at least to know why."

"All right then. I'll tell you. I don't think you've realized that our position is the most delicate and dangerous in the world. Whether we like it or not, whether we even are conscious of it or not, society has been organized on the basis that the man is the provider, the economic head of the house.

"When you take that position away from a man, it does something to him. Inevitably. It does something to the woman, too.

"Since we've been in New York, our roles have gradually been reversed. You have gone ahead as the bread winner, with more and more of your interest claimed by things outside your home. That means that someone else has to attend to the home. That some one naturally becomes the husband who hasn't made good as bread winner. You have been turning into a husband, and I into a wife.

"I'm not blaming you," he added as Nan started to say something. "It's natural and inevitable. It isn't your fault that you can make more money than I can—that I'm just a dub. Perhaps the situation itself is all right. I don't know. Maybe that's the way marriages like ours should work out, with the husband running the house, bringing his wife's slippers to her in the evening when she comes home from a hard day's work at the office.

"But in our case it hasn't worked out. Whether it's our situation or New York, our new way of living, I can't decide. But anyway you've been growing more and more contemptuous of me. Because you can make more money than I can, you rate me down as a man.

"I've become a door mat, something you take out things on. You wear out your nerves making your ambitions come true, being charming to the people you meet socially and in business, then you vent yourself on me.

"I understand that's the function of husbands of prima donnas and other famous women who have allowed their temperaments to run rampant. But that's not going to be our story, Nan.

"When I married you, you were sweet and adorable. Since we've been in New York, you've been distraught all the time—drunk on excitement, admiration, success. There isn't a place for me any more in your life except as something to kick around.

"Now I'm going to say something you won't believe, but it's true. I wouldn't mind it so much for myself. I wouldn't like it, but I could put up with it if it were the best thing for you. But it would ruin you, Nan, for me to allow you to kick me around for the rest of our lives.

"You have everything in the world but a balance wheel. You get lopsided unless a force is exerted to keep you going straight and true. If you lose your respect for me and can vent your ill-humor, you'll go off at a tangent. You'll fall into a habit of being nervous, hard, ill-tempered.

"I told you the night we married that you could be anything, good or bad. Right now your course isn't particularly good. I can't stop you. You haven't any use any more for me. So I'm going to get out of the picture and let some man step in who can. A successful man, a man whom you can admire because he's your equal. That's the sort of man you must have, Nan, not a failure like me."

Having said his speech, the product of weeks of thinking over and over the history of their relationship, Jocko looked about blindly for his hat, somehow found it, and prepared to go.

Nan was ahead of him stopping the door. She was like a flame.

"You have it all figured out very neatly, haven't you? It couldn't occur to you that I love you with all my heart, that I've been ready to go down on my knees and beg your forgiveness for losing my temper that time, that I've been ready to do anything to make you happy again?

"It isn't fair!" She struck her hand sharply on the wall. "Any other woman in the world can do a thousand things. And at my first offense, you wipe your hands of me for ever. Never a thought of the love I've given you. All you could think of was the one time that I slipped.

"Jocko, you haven't any nerves. You can't imagine, you can't dream what it is to have to get them all tied up in little knots, the way mine were when I hurt you. Every little thing is torture. You can't imagine the times I've wanted to lash out, and refrained."

"I know, I do understand. But it's the way you've chosen to live that knots your nerves. To make a few dollars, to make an impression on people you don't give a damn about, you're ready to turn yourself into a shrew.

"It isn't one scene, as you seem to think. It's the course our lives are taking. You're sorry now, you'll be wonderful—oh Nan, no woman in the world can be as wonderful as you—until the next hard job comes along to knot your nerves again. Don't you see?"

"You want me to give up my work?"

"Not at all. But for your own sake you should pursue it with a little moderation. Perhaps that's impossible for you. But you'll go smash if you keep on this way."

"But you're not going to leave me!" Nan's arms were about him again, her eyes imploring him.

"I've got to, dear. I'm sorry." Gently he unclasped her arms, put her away from the door, opened it and went into the hall. There he paused as if remembering something. "I—thanks for the dinner," he said, and was gone.

In the next days Nan did some of the most serious thinking of her career. She felt wounded, sore. She considered that her punishment was out of all proportion to her crime.

Her vanity was hurt, as well. She had had good reason to think that she could charm any man whom she considered worth the trouble. And here she had been rebuffed, cast aside by the man of whom she was most sure, a man whom she had ceased to think of as being any particular account.

But because she loved him, she went over his indictments carefully in her mind. She began to see the thing through his eyes, without admitting the truth of all she had said.

Since she had resigned her job on the News because of Jocko, perhaps she had put her own success ahead of his interests. She began to see how her ambition had carried her along to plan their lives to her advantage.

Perhaps she had been wrong in subjecting herself to so much strain when it reacted on her so badly. That, she remembered now, was the thing employers had described to her as being the greatest enemy to the success of women in business. They throw themselves too hard into their jobs, they are too tense. Then they become irritable, lose their perspective, or break altogether. Perhaps this was reacting against her, Nan, not in business—things happened to her magically there—but in her private happiness. She went toward success across the ruins of her marriage.

But still she could not forgive Jocko for being so unforgiving. Her offense had been so slight as such things go. How many men put up with wives who nagged constantly! She had made all the advances she would ever make.

On Sunday a middle-aged woman called on her, a woman whom Nan recognized presently as Jocko's landlady.

"You are Nan, aren't you?" the woman asked anxiously without preamble.

"Why, yes," answered Nan in surprise.

"Mr. Weltman seems very sick and has been calling for you. I thought maybe you'd come back with me."

Horoscope

THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1933

Benefic aspects rule to-day, according to astrology. It is a time to make decisions and push business affairs.

Women are especially fortunate under this planetary government, and they should use their best energies in whatever is most important to them.

The sway is auspicious for hospitalities of every sort and centres interest in home and its contacts.

There is a good sign for shopping and especially for buying jewels or clothing. Increase in the cost of attire is foretold.

Again dressmakers are to prosper, it is prognosticated, for women's costumes are to be elaborate and correspondingly costly.

As the stars presage extremes in all reactionary effects the simplicity that has marked recent fashions is to be less apparent in the coming winter, it is forecast.

The stars smile on lovers to-day. It is a lucky sway for those who plight troth in engagements or marriages.

Increase in the number of autumn weddings is prognosticated. The young will not have a monopoly on romance, for older persons will be extraordinarily susceptible to sentimental influences.

Men are warned that the stars to-day encourage women to make much of trifling excuses of flattery. The wise will watch their steps in lovers' lanes.

Under this direction of the stars the mental vision should be keen. It is a good rule under which to form opinions and make decisions.

Neptune is in a place supposed to be fortunate for dealers in mineral waters and other beverages. Temperance is to be much preached and practiced, it is indicated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of good fortune. Friends are to prove valuable in many ways, it is foretold.

Children born on this day probably will be extremely active and energetic. Subjects of this sign succeed through their own efforts, and they usually have varied talents.

Hamilton Fish, statesman, was born on this day, 1808. Samuel M. Shortridge, United States senator from California, was also born on this day, 1861.

New Bases For Farm Producers Are Proposed

Aid From Taxes and Average Wheat Price Debated At Regina

Alberta Wheat Pool Official and Chicago Grain Pit Spokesman Offer Suggestions at World Grain Conference

Canadian Press

Regina, Aug. 2.—Reduction of tariff barriers as a permanent solution of the existing lack of balance between agricultural and industrial prices, with some form of aid from taxation to the agriculturists by way of immediate relief, was a suggestion thrown out to the delegates by B. W. Snow, representing the Chicago Grain Exchange, at the World Grain Conference here to-day.

Another solution was offered by Lew Hutchinson, vice-president of the Alberta Wheat Pool, that an average price for wheat over the whole year, with the farmers themselves carrying the risk of fluctuations in the market, was preferable. Mr. Hutchinson was comparing the co-operative system of marketing with the existing one when making this observation.

SURPLUS WHEAT MARKET

An organization to take over wheat regarded as entirely above normal requirements, charged with finding an outlet apart from the usual trade channels, was suggested by A. H. Hobley of the British Co-operative Wholesale Society. His paper was read by George Keen of the Canadian Co-operative Union, in his absence. Mr. Hobley stressed the importance of taking the consumers' viewpoint as more likely to lead to a fair adjustment of values.

CARP SCHOOLS SEEN IN LAKE HURON

Goderich, Ont., Aug. 2.—Thousands of carp have invaded the mouth of the Maitland River here. The large, lazy, lake fish were to be seen as far as 1,400 feet upstream. Yesterday they retreated to the lake.

B.C. Election in October May Follow Dissolution

FROM HEIGHTS TO DEPTHS

The Legislature now dissolved was British Columbia's seventeenth. After the election on July 18, 1928, the Tolmie ministry assumed office on August 20, the writ was returned on September 1, 1928, while the members took their seats in the Legislature at the opening on January 22, 1929. Without the dissolution order, the seventeenth Legislature would have automatically passed out of existence on the last day of this month, which is just five years since the return of the writ.

Politically, the Seventeenth Legislature was launched on the crest of the boom, which was under collapse by the latter part of 1929. It began with not a cloud in the sky for the party in power, but ended with that party in complete disruption. In its early days it passed budgets appropriating up to $30,000,000 a year, while its revenue rose as high as $28,000,000 a year. In its latter days, the same government's budgets and revenues dropped to $22,000,000. Millions had to be appropriated for work and relief.

LINE-UP OF CONSTITUENCIES

Under the redistribution now in effect, the province is divided into 923 polling divisions. Of its forty-seven seats, the following ridings remain unchanged under the redistribution: Atlin, Cariboo, Esquimalt, Fernie, New Westminster, North Okanagan, North Vancouver, Prince Rupert, Saanich, South Okanagan and Victoria City.

Redistribution effects changes in the boundaries of constituencies now known as: Alberni-Nanaimo, Burnaby, Chilliwack, Columbia - Revelstoke, Comox, Cowichan-Newcastle, Cranbrook, Delta, Dewdney, Fort George, (losing fifty-five polling divisions to Peace River), Grand Forks-Greenwood, The Islands, Kamloops, Kaslo-Slocan, Lillooet, Mackenzie, Nelson - Creston, Omineca, Peace River (new seat), Rossland-Trail, Salmon Arm, Similkameen, Skeena, Vancouver-Burrard, Vancouver Centre, Vancouver East, Vancouver-Point Grey and Yale.

Of the plural ridings, Victoria has four members, Vancouver-Point Grey has three, while the other three Vancouver ridings will have two members each.

King On Tour Is To Speak In Calgary

Devoting a considerable part of his speech to the importance of organization, Mr. King declared that even though a general election might not be held for some little time, practical preparation should be made.

TARIFF WALLS

Tariff walls were condemned by Mr. King. The whole world was honeycombed with them, he said. They were responsible for many of the economic ills of all countries. Nations were attempting to live in water-tight compartments, and it could not be done.

"In Canada you have three distinct political movements," Mr. King went on, and he proceeded to contrast the Liberal and Conservative policies on the tariff.

"Trade is being strangled by Conservative policies," he asserted. He quoted comparative figures to indicate the tariff rates had been greatly increased on cotton, wool, piece goods, flannelette, overcoatings, suitings, hosiery and woolen blankets. On some of these commodities the duty had been pushed up to over 100 per cent, he said.

FARM IMPLEMENTS

Then he turned to agricultural implements, cream separators, barbed wire, etc. Cream separators and barbed wire had been free under the Liberal administration, he said, but the present government had placed substantial duties against these things.

The policies of the Liberal Party on some of the immediate problems of the day were practically the same as those advocated by the C.C.F., Mr. King continued.

"I could not disagree with them even if I wanted to, because I think they were taken from our own programme," he said, but with the nationalization programme of the C.C.F. he was in definite disagreement.

MUST REMOVE SHACKLES

The most important thing to-day was to take the shackles off trade. "You can't get anywhere by blasting," he said, "but you can by friendly co-operation and interchange."

Mr. King advocated establishment of a central bank.

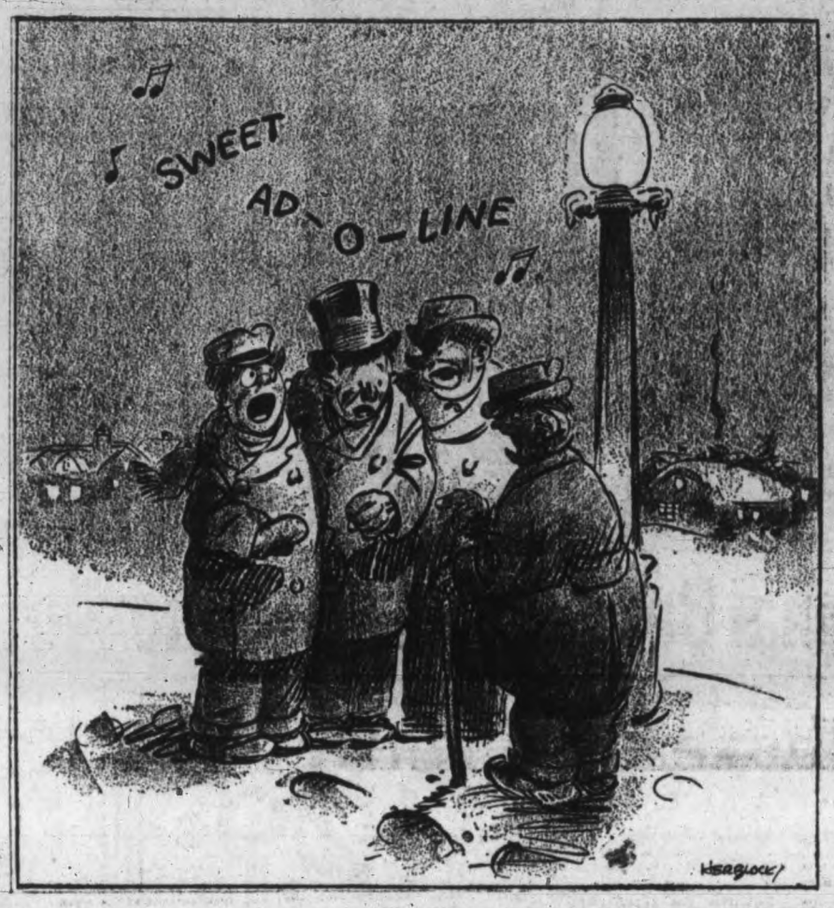
CHRISTMAS CAROL

News Item—Secretary Farley Predicts Repeal by Christmas



Canadian Press

Debden, Sask., Aug. 2.—"You don't need a C.C.F. party to get representation for Labor in Ottawa," Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King told an audience here yesterday afternoon. "Many years ago the Liberal Party established a department to look particularly after the interests of the working men, and now, in every government there is seated a minister of labor."

An audience, largely French-speaking, heard the Liberal Leader. He reminded his listeners Sir Wilfrid Laurier had stood always for a united Canada.

"That is one thing I do not like about these new parties which are growing up," he said. "They tend to divide Canada. A third party which represents a class or two classes won't last long, but it may do a lot of harm."

The new movement which was starting up, the C.C.F., was a movement in the interests of a certain class, Mr. King continued, but a party must include all classes. "You must remember Canada is a very large country, and if you build up class groups and class parties, you are going to create divisions."

The only kind of government which was entitled to the name co-operative commonwealth was one which included all parties, creeds and interests, and that the Liberal Party did, he said.

RELIEF MEN DOWN TOOLS

At Nanaimo Unemployed Make Protest Against Relief Scale

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Aug. 2.—Provincial relief workers in this district at a mass meeting yesterday evening decided to "down tools" as a protest against inadequate relief. Pickets visited work gangs today and induced them to quit work.

Provincial and city men held a joint meeting this morning and a resolution to stage a mass parade on Thursday protesting against inadequate relief was endorsed.

The mayor and city council have refused to meet the city unemployed. The city men are demanding a 50 per cent increase in the government share of relief. Two hundred men invaded the City Hall at noon, demanding direct relief for the destitute.

No Pictures Of Drills in Germany

Associated Press

Berlin Aug. 2.—Aroused by the interest foreign countries are taking in the manifestations of a recrudescent military spirit in Germany, the Nazi storm troop chief, Capt. Ernest Roehm, has issued orders forbidding the taking of pictures when Nazi formations engage in "sehrsport."

"Sehrsport"—literally defensive sports—are meant setting-up exercises, quasi-military drill, scaling of walls, target practice and the like.

NEWSPAPER IN REVERSE

Griffin, Ga., Aug 2 (Associated Press)—The Griffin Daily News, which a week ago announced it would "put the back page on the front page if the President said to," did just that, today. All regular editions appeared with the pages reversed. The News carried out its statement of a week ago just to prove how strongly it was backing President Roosevelt.

EXPLOSIONS INJURE FOUR

Blasts Cause Property Losses at Managua, Nicaragua, Arsenal

Associated Press

Managua, Nicaragua, Aug. 2.—Modified martial law was declared here today as the result of a series of explosions in the Campo de Marte arsenal which caused considerable destruction and injured four members of the National Guard.

About 500 men were ordered to Managua from Leon, and guards were stationed at the arsenal. Meanwhile the government ordered an investigation to determine whether the explosion was a idental or intentional.

Early reports were that thirty guardsmen had been killed or wounded, but a subsequent official statement said there had been no fatalities.

CROWDS EXCITED

Many of the 50,000 inhabitants were participating in a traditional fiesta at Santo Domingo Plaza when the first detonation occurred at 10 p.m. (eastern standard time). Lesser blasts continued until after midnight.

Crowds of merrymakers, nearly panic stricken, rushed through the streets.

President Sacasa, who saw the explosions from the palace, overlooking the arsenal, immediately issued a statement saying: "A part of the Managua arsenal exploded. The entire country is peaceful. There is no cause for alarm."

Immediately the National Guard started policing the city and roads leading here and directed precautions be taken to guard against a threatened fire.

$5,000,000 in Silver Is Lying on Docks

Investigation by ship reporters led to the theory that the $5,000,000 worth of silver is part of the British war debt scheme.

The British government, it will be recalled, met its June 15 obligation to the United States Government by the payment of a token instalment on the total amount due on war debts.

It was purely a banking transaction and no actual money changed hands. The United States bankers handled the deal and it is assumed that the silver brought in by the Empress of Canada to-day is part of the actual payment as arranged.

METAL IS GUARDED

A strong guard has been placed over the silver here. As each of the silver bars weighs eighty pounds it is improbable that anyone would want to attempt to pack any of it away. It is not the stuff that a pickpocket, for instance, would care to snatch in a hurry, and a whole flock of trucks would be necessary to make an organized raid.

The silver will be picked up by one of the ships plying in the Panama service and forwarded to New York by express.

North Vancouver Youth Is Drowned

Canadian Press

North Vancouver, Aug. 2.—Eric Wilmott, twenty-one, of 871 Yorkshire Crescent, was drowned yesterday evening when he fell into Burrard Inlet while fishing from a boom of logs at the M. B. King Lumber Company's plant.

A. Doneti, according to a police report, was on the boom at the time and saw the youth fall into the water. He was some distance away, and when he reached the scene, nothing could be seen of Wilmott, who had been fishing near the south end of the boom and fell into sixty feet of water.

The body has not been recovered.

EXCHANGE RATES

Exchange rates at the close to-day as reported by the Canadian Press were:

Pound sterling in Montreal, $4.81½.

U.S. dollar in Montreal, $1.06¼.

French franc in Montreal 5.69½ cents.

French franc in New York, 5.35½ cents.

Silver As Currency Advocated By M.P.

Canadian Press

New Westminster, Aug. 2.—Lowering of trade barriers between nations, stabilization of currencies and a return to bi-metallism were advocated by Thomas Reid, M.P. for New Westminster, in an address here.

"Come back to bi-metallism," said Mr. Reid, "and use silver as a currency measure for the benefit of twelve hundred millions of people of the earth unable to trade in gold. Silver has stood the test of time and its abandonment was only forced on those nations by the manipulations of financiers."

Lack of purchasing power and restrictive trade barriers were the great obstacle to international trade to-day, he said. It was the hope of many that President Roosevelt's new rule would bring success where the past rules of the game had failed.

Mr. Reid outlined the financial history of the world during 200 years whereby silver had been depreciated and nations like India forced on the gold standard.

The growth of restrictive tariffs was another phase of the world's difficulties. The United States was the principal offender in this respect and other nations had followed.

Briefly referring to the World Economic Conference, Mr. Reid said it was no wonder it had failed when nations did not realize there was something more than material things in life.

HARDY ALIMONY IS AGREED ON

Appearance of Screen Comedian and Wife in Court Avoided By Settlement

Associated Press

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 2.—Shortly before the screen comedian, Oliver Hardy, and his wife were to have appeared in Superior Judge Dudley Valentine's court here to-day on Mrs. Hardy's petition for temporary alimony, attorneys said an amicable settlement on that point had been reached and that a property settlement also was being drawn up.

Friends of the heavyweight actor said they thought there was a possibility of reconciliation and the couple's contested suits for divorce might be dropped.

Mrs. Hardy's attorney, D. H. Cannon, said he had heard nothing of a reconciliation.

"A property settlement is being drawn up, however, and I think it will be effected whether there is a reconciliation or a divorce," Cannon said.

Hardy filed suit for divorce on charges of mental cruelty, alleging his wife drank excessively. Mrs. Hardy filed a cross complaint, charging mental cruelty also and alleged her husband squandered community property in gambling.

PEACE MOVES IN STRIKE AREA

People of Pennsylvania Soft Coal Fields Hope For End of Strike

Brownsville, Pa., Aug. 2.—Beset with violence and spreading strikes, Pennsylvania's soft coal fields to-day were watching expectantly for peace moves that might lead to a settlement of differences between miners and operators which caused walk-outs of upwards of 30,000 men.

Indications both the state and federal governments were acting speedily to bring order out of the turbulent mine situation were seen in two developments:

1. Governor Gifford Pinchot conferred with union leaders, who agreed on a plan to establish "union guides," a selected force of 2,000 miners designated to co-operate with national guardsmen and local police in keeping peace.

2. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, spoke at Harrisburg to-day. Informed quarters in Washington consider his appearance in the state to have a significant bearing on the strike situation.

Another move viewed with interest was the announcement of the H. C. Frick Coke Company it would close all its workings in Fayette County indefinitely. Fayette County is the centre of the present strike troubles.

Yesterday one striker was killed and more than a score wounded as deputy sheriffs with guns and tear gas turned back pickets during hours of turmoil. Louis Podorsky, twenty-eight, died of injuries received in a clash at the Colonial No. 3 mine, of the Frick Company.

MULES AND STRIKERS

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press). — Mine mules are taking an active part in the coal strike gripping this region. Deputy Sheriff Rock Cain fled to a stable to escape a barrage of bricks hurled by pickets at the Edenbarn strip mine. A mule kicked him out of the barn into the stable yard, where he was hit by a stone.

SEATTLE TEAM SHOOTS WELL

Police Squad From Sound City Wins Major Team Trophy in Revolver Contest

R.C.M.P. Take Second Place; Mrs. T. Hall Wins Women's Shoot

Marking up the creditable score of 455, the Seattle police team took major honors this morning in the Victoria Police Department revolver shoot at Esquimalt.

The Seattle marksmen had a good margin in the open team shoot for The Colonist Cup, their average being seventy-five per cent. perfect.

Using service .45 calibre guns, the local R.C.M.P. team captured second honors with a total of 391 and the Burnaby squad was third with 388.

L. M. Norris and Paul Vike were high men for the Seattle squad with 99 out of 120.

The Victoria detective department team was just out of the money with 367.

Scores of the three leaders were:

Seattle—L. M. Norris 99, S. J. Jorgensen 90, Wm. Reynolds 80, R. M. Anderson 87, and Paul Vike 99. Total, 455.

R.C.M.P.—Sergeant Withers 85, Corpl. Berger 87, Cons. Cresint 71, Cons. Heywood. 72, and Cons. Whiteman 76. Total, 391.

Burnaby—Sergt. P. Kelsberg 91, Cons. P. Denyer 76, Cons. S. Fraser 86, Cons. H. Wheatley 63, Cons. S. White 72. Total, 388.

Special shoots were held during the luncheon interval.

In the contest for bank employees Don Chubb of the Bank of Montreal beat out Jack Crane of the same bank by six points.

Percy Richards of The Colonist defeated Leslie Fox of The Times in the press shoot.

Mrs. T. Hall, wife of Desk Sergeant Thomas Hall, shot high in the women's event with a 33. Policewoman Margaret Walker was second with 31. Florence Hall had a 30 and Miss P. Walker 17.

The mayor and police commissioners were among the spectators at the event.

Detective Inspector Jack McLellan defeated Inspector Robert Owens, provincial police, and Inspector John T Boulton, city police, in a special contest for police inspectors.

YORKSHIRE COUNTY OF LOW WALLS

Cut Up Greenery of Adjacent Lands Like Heavily Inked Lines on a Child's Map, Arthur Stott Finds; Public Paths

By ARTHUR STOTT
(Special Representative of The Victoria Times)

Bradford.—Just as China's Great Wall was one of the seven wonders of antiquity, so must the stone hedges of Yorkshire appear a constant source of interest to visitors from other parts of the world. For Yorkshire is a county of walls, low walls about three or four feet high, which subdivide one field from another and stretch out over the moors. It would be impossible to guess their origin or their age.

At one time they may have divided up feudal estates and marked the boundaries of a tenant's holdings. But now they enclose little fields which appear to be in fallow. Far from habitation, that is far as one reckons distance in a comparatively small province, they space off almost geometrically their little plots. Black stones they are, evidently collected from the fields when early farmers were clearing land. They stand strong and symetrical, broken here and there with stiles over which cattle cannot climb.

Seen from the top of a hill, such as Beamsley Beacon, where at one time a primitive signal station was erected to arouse the country with a night fire in case of emergency, they cut up the greenery of the adjacent lands like heavily inked lines in a child's map.

Comparatively few of them seem to be used to enclose stock in the manner of Canadian fields, and the vast majority of them cannot shut out hikers.

In England a person may walk through anyone's farmyard if a path goes through it and has been used for seven years by the public. When a man takes a plot of land with one of these thoroughfares, he must submit to their use by outsiders. It is an old custom that has come down from the country's early days, and the farmers do not object to people crossing their land by these footpaths. They expect the usual courtesy from travelers and they get it.

Isolated cases have been known in which objections have arisen, and one story is told of a farmer who built his house directly across a traditional footpath to discourage passage through his land. But in that case a walker simply rapped at the door when he reached the obstructing home and walked through the domicile to the other end of the path.

CITY BONDS SELL BRISKLY

Early Buyers Get Added Advantage With Interest Starting Yesterday

Sale of City of Victoria refunding debentures over the counter continued briskly to-day, the second day of the sale, treasury officials reported.

More than $10,000 worth was actually paid for in the first day of business and there are applications for as much again on hand.

Officials announced they wished to draw attention of intending purchasers to the fact that they would benefit by putting in orders immediately, since the bonds started bearing interest yesterday. This interest is therefore added on each day as the sale proceeds to the cost price. It amounts to about 1½ cents a day on each $100 bond and those buying early will get the extra advantage of this.

HOW DISEASE IN PLANTS CHECKED

Pathologist Tells of Progress Made in Investigation of Virus and Bacterial Growths

Progress made in plant disease research and its resultant beneficial effect upon export trade were described by Dr. William Newton, plant pathologist at the Saanichton Experimental Farm, before the Victoria Horticultural Society yesterday evening.

He described some of the plant diseases peculiar to B.C. and the steps taken to combat them and also mentioned how the breeding of resistant wheats has practically solved the wheat problem in Canada. Breeding investigations are now in progress that bid fair to solve the cereal smut problem, he said, the losses due to cereal rusts and smuts now amounting to several million dollars a year.

At the recent meetings of the Pacific Science Congress, he said, the scientists paid considerable attention to the influence of environment on plant diseases. For instance, Australia maintains an embargo against B.C. apples on account of the presence of fire blight; a bacterial disease of apples and pears in the Okanagan. The provincial pathologist, J. W. Eastham, drew to the attention of the Australian, New Zealand, Japanese and other pathologists present that this disease is now under control in the Okanagan, although there has been a free movement of both fruit and planting stock from the Okanagan to the coast. The important lesson that Mr. Eastham emphasized, said Dr. Newton, was that the disease may be serious in one district and may not thrive at all in another.

The downy mildews were typical of this, he continued. For instance, while it was not possible to maintain downy mildew of the hop at Saanichton without artificially increasing the moisture in the atmosphere surrounding the plant, yet in the lower Fraser this was a serious disease. Likewise late blight of potatoes was a serious disease in eastern Canada, but occurs only one year in four in the more humid sections of the Fraser Valley, and rarely, if ever, on Vancouver Island.

Perennial canker, he explained, was confined to a small area in B.C., hitting Okanagan apples. However, when the fruit trees were inocculated with the organism causing the disease no damage followed, except when the wooly aphis was present and the trees were injured by frost. This had been proved to the satisfaction of fruit growers in Great Britain, so that even if the disease were introduced into Great Britain through shipment of of Okanagan fruit the casual fungus would do no damage under the environment in that country.

Dr. Newton described how disease resistants were bred in various kinds of plants, declaring that pure line propagation was the only way to combat some virus diseases. He dealt also with soil sterilization and referred to a vacuum process treatment for bulbs.

He was warmly thanked for his address.

Victim Of Heat Stroke Should Be Sponged With Cold Water

* * * * * *

Rest in Cool, Quiet Place Is Immediate Need; Dizziness and Drowsiness Symptoms of Approaching Collapse

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Among the most important problems in first-aid is the handling of heat stroke. This occurs not only in extremely hot weather, but also at any time in factories, engine rooms, laundries and kitchens where people work in extreme heat associated with considerable moisture.

The symptoms of heat stroke may come on suddenly but most frequently come on gradually. The person who is about to become affected feels weak and tired, gets dizzy and drowsy. The digestion may be disturbed and there may even be pain in the abdomen. The temperature rises, the fever increases, the pulse becomes rapid, the skin dry, burning and flushed, the pupils of the eyes are usually contracted, and the breathing fast and noisy.

Just before death the pupils may dilate. It is important to be certain of a diagnosis of heat stroke and to make positive that the unconsciousness is not due to drugs, hemorrhage, epilepsy or diabetes.

The ability to keep cool depends on common sense. One should wear light clothing, loose and porous. Cool baths at frequent intervals aid in making one feel much better. Adequate amounts of sleep keep the body prepared for unusual stress and strain. One should take plenty of water because evaporation of water from the surface of the body aids the control of temperature.

Traveling in hot weather is extremely difficult. It is better, under conditions of extreme heat, to sit in an open coach with a free circulation of air than in the smaller compartments and drawing rooms.

In case of heat exhaustion, the first thing to do is to get the person into a cool place and absolutely at rest, flat on the back. Sponging with cool water helps to control the temperature. It may be necessary to stimulate the circulation with drugs or coffee to help the patient over the acute condition.

Tropical authorities recommend that the person be placed as soon as possible on a bed covered with a large rubber sheet, and then that ice and cold water be rubbed over the body. At the same time that the ice is rubbed the friction of massage encourages the circulation.

The temperature should be taken regularly and when it falls to 101 degrees, as taken by the mouth, one stops the application of cold, covers the patient with blankets and makes certain that collapse does not follow.

If breathing stops it may be necessary to apply artificial respiration. After recovery from heat stroke, small quantities of nutritious food may be given repeatedly in order to aid recovery.

Land Officials Superannuated

John T. Mulrhead, one of the senior officials of the Victoria Land Registry Office, will retire on superannuation. He has had a long career in the local office and has been one of the most expert and painstaking in handling the records.

Six other superannuations now being put through in the land registry offices are James F. Hutchinson, Miss M. M. Doherty, Henry Grayston, all of the Vancouver office; Robert H. Cheyne, chief of the New Westminster registry; Louis H. Pullage, surveyor in the Kamloops registry; Christopher Outhett, deputy registrar at Kamloops.

Most of the superannuations have made way for new appointments lower down the scale, with the senior jobs being filled by promotion.

Woman Wounded By Husband Dies

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 2. — Mrs. Steve Vedenich, Williams Road, Richmond, died in a hospital here from injuries received when her husband, a forty-five-year-old Jugoslavian, attacked her in the garden of their home yesterday. She was cut about the face and head.

Mrs. Vedenich's screams brought neighbors and police to the scene, but before they could intervene she had suffered injuries which resulted in her death several hours later.

Vedenich was committed to the Essondale Mental Hospital after examination by physicians late yesterday.

ELISSA LANDI AT DOMINION

Warner Baxter Plays Opposite Popular Actress in "I Loved You Wednesday

The Fox Film representation of "I Loved You Wednesday" starts at the Dominion Theatre to-day, and is scheduled to remain for an engagement of three days. The cast selected by the Fox studio to portray the leading roles is one of the outstanding aggregations of recent screen releases. It features Warner Baxter, Elissa Landi, Miriam Jordan, Victor Jory and Laura Hope Crews.

The story of the film, adapted from the Broadway stage success, concerns an exotic ballet artist who becomes the world's most famous dancer. But the plot does not wholly concentrate on her success. It dramatizes her love affairs and the underlying forces that keep her from the man who adores her.

Imposed upon by a philadnering dilettant of her student days, she cherishes this first romantic love as a thing of beauty. Later, when true love comes, the memory of that first affair and the glamorous life she has led as a great public favorite, combine to shake her confidence in her own judgment. In a climax that is reported as one of tremendous sophistication and dramatic force she finds happiness with the man who loves her for what she is, rather than what she stands for.

COMEDY PAIR COMING HERE

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, popular stage and screen comedians and co-stars of more than ten screen comedy successes have rejoined RKO Radio Pictures, the company with which they made their screen debut. This duo came the screen direct from their success in Ziegfeld's stage presentation of "Rio Rita," eventually winning world-wide fame for their comic antics.

The pair, who have been together for more than ten years, starring in vaudeville and several Ziegfeld musical extravaganas, now star in "Diplomaniacs," an original talking, singing and dancing comedy, which will open to-morrow at the Capitol Theatre.

It was on the RKO lot that Wheeler and Woolsey were introduced to film fame playing thir original stage roles in the RKO adaptation of tuneful "Rio Rita." Scoring an immediate success, they were cast as co-stars of "The Cuckoos," which brought them world-wide screen fame.

Outdoor Drama Opens Saturday

"Be Mine To-night" will open at the Dominion Theatre Saturday.

In the first place, "Be Mine To-night" is a film and not a photographed stage play. It has thrown off the shackles of the studio and escaped to the open air. It presents an evenly flowing continuity of swift motion against richly varied and really magnificent scenery. A picture should be a panorama. "Be Mine To-night" is a panorama of Alpine settings of exquisite beauty perfectly photographed and flawlessly knit together in a dramatic sequence.

Then the basis of this drama is joyful adventure, tender romance, great and glorious fun.

And beyond all these delights there is incomparable music. Kiepura, who has a golden voice, and is the sensation of Europe, brings to this film a soaring ecstasy of song altogether without parallel in motion pictures. It is predicted that he will become the rage and will be seen in many other pictures released in America.

WELCOMES VETS

COMRADE W. G. STONE

At to-morow morning's session of the convention of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Legion, Comrade Stone, chairman of the Victoria and District Council, will give the address of welcome on behalf of local council. Comrade Stone was elected to the executive council of the Victoria branch of the G.W.V.A. in December, 1918. He was first vice-president in 1919, president in 1920 and served on the provincial executive of that organization for three years, continuing to hold various executive offices until that organization merged into the Canadian Legion. When the late Field Marshal Earl Haig visited Canada in June, 1925, Comrade Stone was one of the three delegates from Victoria who attended the Ottawa Unity Conference. He also attended the first Dominion Convention of the Canadian Legion in Winnipeg, January, 1927. At the first Columbia convention of the newly constituted body he was elected second vice-president; since then has served continuously on the provincial executive council.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Helen Twelvetrees's sympathetic handling of Baby Leroy, the one-year-old chosen to play with her and Maurice Chevalier in "A Bedtime Story," the French star's latest picture, which is at the Columbia Theatre, was genuine, and founded on a firm basis.

The reason: Helen's own three-month-old son was waiting for her at home, and Helen knew a thing or two about babies.

EMPIRE THEATRE

The comedian who yearned to play Hamlet has his counterpart in Ned Sparks, Hollywood's famous dead-pan laugh-provoker, who, all his life, has cherished an ambition to give a dramatic performance. This ambition is realized in Mary Pickford's "Secrets," now on the screen at the Empire.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Makeup plays an important part in Frank Morgan's characterization as the old quack doctor in "The Nuisance," at the Capitol Theatre. With the aid of silverized hair, a drooping moustache and a pair of spectacles attached to a ribbon, the character actor creates a strikingly realistic impression of a man in his dotage. So clever is Morgan's makeup that filmgoers who recently saw him as the immaculately attired husband of Diana Wynyard in "Reunion in Vienna" will find it difficult to believe that this is actually the same actor.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

A musical interlude of importance forms a sequence of "Platinum Blonde," the Columbia comedy-drama, showing to-day at the Playhouse Theatre. It represents a reception in a millionaire's mansion. Sol Cohen, noted violinist and concertmaster for Ruth St. Denis and other celebrated artists, and Joseph Diskay, Hungarian tenor, offer a brilliant Spanish selection in this scene. Incidentally this scene forms the background for a very dramatic interlude in the picture.

Canadian Legion Delegates Arrive

Boats From Mainland Bring Visitors For Convention Which Opens To-morrow

Addresses of Welcome Will be Given By Premier Tolmie and Others

First delegates to the eighth convention of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion reached the city to-day. The party arriving by the morning boat from the mainland included Col. W. H. Duell, first vice-president, Vancouver; Robert Macnicol, provincial secretary, Vancouver; R. D. E. McMahon, of the North Vancouver Branch, and G. A. Hooser, zone representative of Bellingham.

The Canadian Legion delegation from the northwestern states reached the city by the afternoon boat from Seattle.

Many from the British Columbia mainland arrived this afternoon from Vancouver, and the balance will reach the city early to-morrow morning. It is expected there will be 500 delegates attending the convention, which will hold its sessions in the Shrine Hall. The convention will be called to order at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning by Comrade T. A. Barnard, president of the B.C. Provincial Command.

Addresses of welcome will be given by Premier Tolmie, Mayor Leeming, F. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader; D. B. Plunkett, M.P., and G. W. Stone, chairman of the Victoria district council.

To-morrow at 12.45 o'clock the convention delegates will be entertained at luncheon by the provincial government at the Empress Hotel. Business sessions will continue Friday and Saturday.

IS IT TRUE?

That Foul Bay was originally named Fowl Bay because of the many species of water fowl at one time found in that vicinity?

Ans. No. It was supposed to have originated from a ship's log kept by Captain Vancouver who named the Bay Foul because of the stormy weather encountered there on his first visit.

But it is true that delicious home-cooked appetizing luncheons and hot suppers are served at Stevenson's daily. You'll be delighted.

Is it true that the terms "Printer's Devil," meaning a printer's apprentice, is supposed to have originated in Italy?

Answer will appear Friday.

British Columbia in 1932, produced fruit to the value of $4,617,657, compared with $4,647,966 in 1931, according to the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

PAY FINAL TRIBUTE

Many beautiful flowers covered the casket at the funeral yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Elizabeth Russell, who passed away on Saturday. Rev. Gordon Boothroyd conducted the service, during which the hymn, "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds," was sung. Interment was made in Royal Oak Burial Park, with the following as pallbearers: W. H. Orme, L. T. Manhard, J. F. Brown, E. Alcock, R. W. Hurst and E. A. Hurst.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The annual meeting of the Central Women's Christian Temperance Union has been postponed from to-morrow until Thursday, August 10.

W. Maynard accompanied Fred Landsberg on his monthly visit to the Aged Men's Home yesterday, making the usual donation of $2 to all non-pensioners, cigars, a monthly gift from G. A. Merrick, were also distributed.

The Knights and Dames of the Thistle and friends held their annual picnic at Goldstream Flats last Sunday. Over 100 traveled in buses and private cars to the grounds, and sports and other games were enjoyed.

Miss Marion Godly, 2325 McBride Avenue, was the winner of the Lady Hudson Silk Hosiery, being the lady whose picture appeared in the Hudson's Bay Company advertisement last Saturday.

The Dominion Government has accepted a registered White Leghorn hen, owned by A. Adams of Lake Hill for the display at the forthcoming World's Poultry Congress at Rome, Italy, it was stated yesterday by provincial agricultural officials.

Ward One Liberal Association will give a dance to-morrow evening in the Liberal rooms, corner of Government and Broughton Streets. Dancing will be carried on from 8.30 to 11.30 o'clock, for which Bert Zala's orchestra has been engaged. During the evening a tombola will be held. A cordial invitation is extended to all Liberals and their friends.

The Victoria District Council of the Canadian Legion presented J. J. Blair with a gold badge and a card of life membership, together with a reading lamp, at its annual monthly meeting. The presentation was made to show the esteem of the local branches for the splendid work of Mr. Blair as chairman of the council for many years.

As a result of the recent fire survey of the Parliament Buildings, all provincial departments have been notified to clean out their vaults, and remove unnecessary documents which are cluttering up space. Construction of a Hall of Records, also recommended in the report of the fire marshall, is out of the question at present, it was stated.

For the first six months of 1933 bank debits to individual accounts in British Columbia totaled $700,304,636, corresponding with $768,573,497 in the same period last year, according to the Provincial Bureau of Information. Bank debits to individual accounts at the clearing house centres of B.C. showed a marked increase in June over the figures for May, and over those for the corresponding month last year.

W. D. Kinsey, old-time merchant of Quatsino, is in the city and says that cougars are bolder than ever this year in the northern part of the island. One was killed the other day on the trail between Hardy Bay and Coal Harbor, and another invaded the settlement at Port Alice. Both animals were shot. They seemed famished. Children in the cougar-infested districts have been warned not to wander far away from the settlements for fear of the beasts.

Regulations governing the approval, sale and installation and maintenance of oil-burners and oil-burning equipment approved by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council became effective August 1. Briefly, they require that the approval of the fire marshal must be obtained before an oil-burner may be sold, installed or operated in this province. The fire marshal may, at his discretion, accept the approval of any recognized authority such as the Underwriters Laboratories, any British or other authority recognized by the National Research Council of Canada.

Victoria Tennis Players Beaten By Murio and Ryall, Respectively, at Vancouver

Ned Russell, Los Angeles, Springs Major Upset By Victory Over Marcel Rainville

Vancouver Lawn Tennis Club, Vancouver, Aug. 2.—Canada's first ranked tennis player, Marcel Rainville, Montreal, was battered from his top-seeded berth in the Canadian men's singles championships to-day by a slender Hollywood junior, Ned Russell. The scores were 2-6, 6-1, 6-4.

The sleep-eyed, nonchalant Russell, who has never scored a major net victory but is nevertheless one of California's leading juniors, played steady and, at times, sensational tennis to smother the Canadian Davis Cup player in the last two sets. After losing the first three games of the second set, Rainville eased up to let Russell take the set at 6-1 and threw all his lengthy tennis experience into the deciding set.

Only one service break occurred in the final session. With the score at two-all, Russell took Rainville's delivery and continued to win his own service to close the match at 6-4. He volleyed brilliantly from the service line, and, when the Canadian took the net, frequently passed him with hard-hit back-hand drives.

Russell is a pupil of Mercer Beasley, famous United States coach who developed Frankie Parker, Milwaukee, present holder of the Canadian singles crown. He plays with an effortless ease, depending on court generalship and placements, rather than on speed.

Rainville performed on five Davis Cup teams from 1929 to 1933 inclusive. In 1931 he defeated Sidney Wood at Montreal to register the only Canadian victory in Davis Cup play against a United States team. Rainville won the eastern Canadian title at Ottawa recently.

Walter Martin, Regina and Toronto, pre-tournament favorite, advanced to the quarter finals with an impressive victory over Harry Rosenberg, Seattle, losing only one game in each set.

TWO VICTORIANS BEATEN

The third seeded John Murio, San Francisco Hawaiian, dropped the second set to Ross Hocking, Victoria, 6-3, after winning the first 6-0; but he came back to take the deciding set at 6-1.

Ossie Ryall, Vancouver, ranked sixth in Canada, found trouble with Don Campbell, Victoria, but won in the third set. Scores were 6-4, 2-6, 6-2.

Threatening clouds hung over the grass courts of this championship club during the morning and a drizzle of rain fell before the matches were drawn.

DRANGA BEATS SHIELDS

Gordon Shields, Vancouver, ranked fifth in Canada in 1928, put up a game battle against Mel Dranga, champion of Washington, Utah and Idaho states. The first set went to 11-9 before Dranga pulled it out. The second set went to the American, 6-2. Wayne Sabin, seventh seeded Portland junior, won a hard match from Martin Kenneally, San Francisco, 11-9, 6-4. Charlie Hunt, seeded eighth, advanced at the expense of George Sparling, Vancouver veteran, 6-2, 0-6, 6-3.

Stan Hayden, Vancouver, former Calgary holder of the Alberta junior championship, scored a surprise win in the second round of the junior singles over Bob Pommer, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-2.

FORMER LOCAL MAN PROMOTED

William C. Neary Is Named Vice-president of Los Angeles Banking Corporation

WM. C. NEARY

Victoria friends will be interested to hear that William C. Neary, who started his banking career in this city with the Canadian Bank of Commerce, has been elected assistant vice-president of the Union Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles.

Mr. Neary came to Victoria from Ireland with his parents, P. J. Neary, now of Los Angeles, and the late Mrs. Neary. The family lived here many years before moving to Los Angeles a short time ago.

After serving with the Bank of Commerce in Canada for eight years, Mr. Neary went to Seattle, where he became manager of the foreign department of the American Savings Bank. In 1920 he joined the Union Bank in Los Angeles, as manager of its foreign exchange department, and two years later was made assistant cashier, holding this post until his recent promotion, which makes him one of the leading bankers of the southern California city.

Mr. Neary was recently elected president of the Los Angeles Bank School Savings Association, having previously served as its vice-president. He was for two years president of the Foreign Exchange Club of Los Angeles.

Mr. Neary has two sisters in Victoria, Mrs. Peter Coleman of Pine Street, and Mrs. Frank Mellan of Roseberry Avenue. Another sister, Miss Nora Neary of Los Angeles, is at present on a visit to Victoria.

ARMY BADGES ON DISPLAY

The Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion on View Street has a very interesting display of army badges on show this week.

The case contains badges of all ranks of the British army before the Great War and is practically unique for the reason that a number of these regiments have now been disbanded or absorbed into others. The display will be of keen interest to a large number of the old Imperials.

The collection of badges is the property of R.S.M. A. Marchant, who has loaned them to the Canadian Legion, so that delegates to the provincial convention of the legion may inspect them. Mr. Marchant had over thirty years' service with the Imperials in various parts of the empire and was back in the army again for the late war.

CHARLES ALLEN DIES SUDDENLY

Provincial Policeman Succumbs on Holiday; Was Former Chief at Ladysmith

Charles Allen, for the last six years a member of the Provincial Police staff at the Wilkinson Road Mental Hospital, and prior to that chief of police at Ladysmith for eighteen years, passed away yesterday in Ladysmith. While he had been on sick leave for several months, his end was quite unexpected, and came as a great shock to his family and friends.

Born in Plymouth, Devonshire, England, sixty-three years ago, Mr. Allen came as a youth to Colorado, where he mined for a time before going to work in the Wellington Collieries about forty years ago. He took part in the Klondike rush, mushing over the Chilcoot Pass, and after several years in the north returned to his occupation as a miner at Wellington, and later in Ladysmith.

In 1909 he was appointed chief of police of Ladysmith, and for eighteen years he held that office, until in 1927 the policing of the city was assumed by the Provincial Government. The Provincial Police officials continued him in service, and transferred him from Ladysmith to Victoria, where he was stationed at the Wilkinson Road institution.

His wife predeceased him by several years. He leaves to mourn his passing three daughters and three sons: Mrs. George H. Bowden, Victoria, and Misses Vera and Margaret Allen, Ladysmith; William, Seattle; Thomas, New Westminster, and Charles, Ladysmith. His aged mother, a brother and several sisters, residing at Canon City, Colorado, and nine grandchildren also survive.

The funeral will be held at Ladysmith, to-morrow, at 2 p.m.

ECONOMIC ANGLE AT CONFERENCE

Chinese Delegates Confining Discussions to Economic Affairs, Says Dr. M. T. S. Tyau

Balance of Nanking Delegation Will Arrive Here on Empress of Russia

Asserting that the Chinese delegation would approach from an economic angle the questions to be discussed by the Institute of Pacific Relations conference at Banff, Dr. M. T. S. Tyau, adviser to the Chinese ministry of foreign affairs, Nanking, reached the city to-day aboard the Ss. Empress of Canada.

Arrayer in a smart sack suit, Dr. Tyau, wearing the inevitable horn-rimmed spectacles, presented a strong contrast to his wife, a petite figure in picturesque Chinese costume.

Another Chinese delegate aboard the ship was Chen-shih Shen, adviser to the British-American Tobacco Company, who will also participate in the conservations at Banff this month.

WANT TO HELP

China was interested chiefly in its economic development and the actions of its delegates would be governed with that in mind, said Dr. Tyau. His country desired to foster closer relations between the countries bordering on the Pacific.

Other Chinese delegates to the Banff conference, Dr. Tyau stated, will reach Victoria by the Ss. Empress of Russia, which is expected to arrive here on the night of August 11. These will include Mrs. H. C. Zen, well-known Chinese educationist, whose husband is chairman of the Foundation of Physical Culture, Nanking; Miss S. M. Djang, economist; Dr. Norman Lui, president of the Shanghai College; Dr. P. C. Chang, educationist, and Dr. Wu Yi-fang, president of the Nanking Ginling College. The latter is the author of the book, "Two Years of Nationalist China."

After careening across the roadway, a car driven by Walter Spearshott, Ss. Princess Charlotte, came to rest against the railing on the south side of Johnson Street bridge yesterday evening, according to a police report. The machine struck a railing on the north side, swerved across the road, over the sidewalk and then stopped, badly damaged. The driver was unhurt.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

F. H. WILLS
HARRY OWEN
T. GUY SHEPPARD
A. C. McNEILL

Harry Owen, president of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council and for many years road superintendent of the city, celebrated his birthday yesterday. Mr. Owen is a Welshman by birth. He has been identified with many societies and organizations, being secretary and business agent of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union and an ex-president of the Constitutional Club. Flowers and politics are the chief of Mr. Owen's interests. He will probably be a candidate at the next provincial election.

T. Guy Sheppard, M.C., is a C.C.F. candidate in Victoria. He served in France from 1914 until 1917 with the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders. After leaving the army he came to Victoria where he is a landscape gardener.

A. C. McNeill is a member of the Gyro Club, being sergeant-at-arms and manager of the softball squad. Mr. McNeill lives at 1139 McClure Street.

Gordon Bell is a member and former treasurer of the Beaux-Arts Society. Mr. Bell, who is a native son of Victoria, attended the city public schools and Victoria High School and later was a member of the student body of Victoria College. He is the son of Captain and Mrs. W. Bell of Foul Bay Road.

Frank H. Wills, 2659 Douglas Street, is an old-time resident of this city. He came to Victoria about forty-five years ago from Toronto. He was born in Marldon, near Torquay, Devonshire, and left his native shores when he was sixteen. He was a builder and contractor until his retirement some years ago. He is an active member of the Metropolitan Church.

TEACHERS HEAR OF PATRIOTISM

Dean Quainton Tells Summer School of Relation of Sentiment to Internationalism

Hon. J. Hinchliffe Also Speaks; Classes at High School Close Friday

All students at the Provincial Summer School at Victoria High School met in the auditorium yesterday afternoon to hear Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education; Dean Quainton and A. Norman Baker, superannuation commissioner of the provincial government.

John Kyle, principal of the school, was in the chair. The summer school closes its sessions at noon Friday.

Speaking for the Victoria branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada on the topic "Internationalism and True Patriotism," the Dean addressed to the teachers an eloquent plea for the brotherhood of man and asserted his disapproval of that small patriotic attitude summed up in the phrase "My Country Right or Wrong."

FROM GRATITUDE

Patriotic sentiment was quite compatible with respect for other countries, the Dean considered. True patriotism was based on thankfulness for services received and was an enlargement of the sentiment expressed in the love of home, which sprang from gratitude for what one received there. Such love, the speaker thought, had its generation in the respect and good feeling created by personal experience.

Mr. Hinchliffe dealt with the importance of a high standard of attainment in the community and congratulated the teacher students on their desire to better their qualifications for the teaching of fundamentals by attending a summer school. The department of education had asked summer school students to pay a fee this year, but the minister thought the expenditure would bring its rewards to the enterprising ones who had enrolled.

SUPERANNUATION BILL

Mr. Baker spoke briefly and answered questions concerning superannuation of teachers. He dealt informatively with the superannuation bill of the province. Joshua Mansbn of Cranbrook, sang two songs, "On the Road to Mandalay" and "Galloping Dick," both of which were encored, and Miss Barbara Fraser played excellently on the pianoforte as well as accompanying the vocalist.

In the evening the students held a bridge party, following which refreshments were served. A dance closed the day's activities.

To-night, from 8.30 to 12 o'clock, the students will engage in a fancy dress barn dance. Pries will be awarded for the best costumes and refreshments will be served. The music will be supplied by Zala's orchestra.

To-morrow afternoon the usual ceremony marking the breaking up of classes will be held. In addition to an address by Principal Kyle and the distribution of tennis and softball prizes, there will be several attractions. The Junior Symphony will play the "Egmont" overture of Beethoven's, the "Andante" from Haydn's Emperor quartette, and a third composition, "Down South." The music class of the school under Miss Ethel Coney will be heard in choral numbers and the dramatic class under Mrs. Wilfrid Ord will present a short play. Classes will conclude at mid-day Friday.

An event last Friday marked the complete wiping out of the debt of the Junior Symphony, the director of which is Harold Taylor. Given in the High School gymnasium in aid of the orchestra, the entertainment included dancing interspersed with songs, orchestral numbers and step dancing. Individuals taking part included Maryan Peterson, Pacific Coast amateur step dancing champion; Nancy Ferguson, Pacific Coast champion professional step dancer; Pipe-Major Donald Cameron, Jack Hamilton, gold medalist soloist, and his accompanist, Miss Barbara Fraser; in addition to a group of students impersonating toy soldiers.

IS APPOINTED TO NEW PARISH

Rev. A. M. Acheson-Lyle Appointed to Take Over Parish of Colwood With Langford

Appointment of Rev. A. M. Acheson-Lyle, M.A. (Oxon), L.Th., curate of Christ Church Cathedral, to the parish of Colwood with Langford, was confirmed to-day by Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia. The appointment was made by Bishop C. V. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia.

Mr. Acheson-Lyle was educated at Cheltenham School in England and then proceeded to Oxford, where he took his Master of Arts degree. He attended the Anglican Theological College at Point Grey, Vancouver, where he was made a licentiate of theology. This was his first curacy.

He has been at Christ Church Cathedral for the last three years as curate, for which position a successor will be named.

No Decision On Water Connection

Members of the Oak Bay Council yesterday afternoon were in conference with the city water board to discuss terms under which the municipality will connect up to the city's new water main at Leighton Road.

Oak Bay has proposed to undertake the work with the city furnishing the meters.

Different opinions on the matter were canvassed yesterday, but no decision reached. It was arranged that the city should send a letter to Oak Bay, setting out its own view of the situation.

R. Young Funeral In Terminal City

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 2.—A funeral service for the late Ralph Young will be held in the Mount Pleasant Undertaking Company's Chapel to-morrow at 4 p.m. Rev. J. P. Parker will officiate, and interment will be in Mountain View Cemtery.

Mr. Young, aged forty-four, long known as a newspaper man, died Tuesday in the Vancouver General Hospital.

He is survived by a widow, a son, Fred, and a daughter, Florence.

Dean Quainton announces that owing to his unavoidable absence from the city, the Bible Study Group will not meet to-morrow at the Memorial Hall.

The Firemen's Band will give the following programme at Beacon Hill Park this evening, commencing at 7.30 o'clock, under the leadership of A. Prescott: March "Great Little Army"; overture, "Stradella"; waltz, "Luna"; selection, "Robin Hood"; march, "His Majestie the King"; selection, "H.M.S. Pinafore"; intermezzo, "Bal-Marque"; selection, "Old Favorites."

Col. H. C. Greer of Esquimalt has been created a justice of the peace under an order issuing from Attorney-General Pooley.

D. McMillan, 996 McCaskill Street, who suffered severe burns in a mishap at the Sidney Roofing and Paper Company's plant yesterday afternoon was reported "resting quietly" at the Jubilee Hospital to-day. His condition has not improved much. Mr. McMillan sustained burns on the face, chest, arms and leg when the asphalt tank at the plant boiled over.

LITTLE GIRL DIES

Yesterday afternoon Mary Barbara Campbell, aged ten years and nine months, passed away at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Campbell, 1216 Montrose Avenue. She was born in Victoria and is mourned by her parents and one sister, Flora; also several uncles and aunts in Victoria and Scotland. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon from McCall Brothers' Funeral Home at 2 o'clock. Rev. Gordon Boothroyd will conduct the service, after which interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

LAST RITES HELD

Rev A. G. E. Munson conducted the last rites yesterday over the remains of Francis John Cox, in the presence of many old friends. During the service the hymns sung were "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Onward, Christian Soldiers." Many beautiful flowers covered the casket. The following were pallbearers: Arthur Tobin, Jack Taylor, William Rennie, Fred White and H. G. Winter and George Dodds, representing the Canadian Legion, Pro Patria Branch. Interment was made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

CONSERVATIVES DEBATE TICKET

Conflicting Views May Be Aired at Nominating Meeting This Evening

At a meeting of the Committee of the Victoria Conservative Association this evening, a proposal will be made to nominate four Conservatives pledged to support the Tolmie ticket, it was reliably reported in Conservative quarters to-day.

It is almost certain that the move will be bitterly opposed by members favoring the policy of the Conservative provincial executive to take no part in the forthcoming election.

Others will oppose the plan as inimical to the best interests of the Conservative Party, which should remain a separate entity and not join any Unionist Party.

MRS. E. FAWCETT IS LAID TO REST

Many sorrowing friends attended the last rites yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Myra Fawcett, widow of Edgar Fawcett. Rev. Canon H. W. G. Stocken conducted the service in the absence of Rev. A. de B. Owen, rector of the Church of Our Lord, Free Church of England, of which church the deceased was a member. The hymns sung were: "Nearer, My God to Thee" and "Abide With Me."

The following acted as pallbearers: H. C. Bishop, F. R. Ross, R. S. Williams, A. Calderwood, Parker Hibben and Gilbert Schwabe.

The remains were laid at rest at Ross Bay Cemetery. Many beautiful floral tributes were received.

The City School Board yesterday appointed Miss Bertha Waites and Miss Phyllis Burnett to the staffs of elementary schools in the city. Mrs. Rhoda Chappell was appointed stenographer at Victoria College. Contracts for the supplying of wood were divided between J. E. Painter and Son and the Southwell Fuel Company. The coal contract was awarded Walter Walker and Sons.

Rogers Hornsby Bobs Up in Another Managerial Position

* * *

"Rajah" Has Been One of Luckiest in Major Baseball History

* * *

Boy Swims Niagara Falls Rapids Only to Get in Bad With Police

Just when everybody is ready to assign him to minor league baseball Rogers Hornsby springs up with another cushy position. With the St. Louis Cardinals casting him adrift the outlook for the former star second sacker was by no means rosy. It looked as though "The Rajah" was ready for the painful descent to the minors, which, for one of his temperament, would have been very galling. Of the vast sums of money which have passed through his fingers very little has stuck. Rogers loved to bet on the horses but they say those days are far behind him. He is claimed to have learned you can beat a race but you can't beat the races. Now he has taken over the St. Louis Browns, getting another break.

Nobody can ever deny that Hornsby has been lucky. He has hopped around from one club to another the last few years always holding a fat contract, always the menace of some manager whose hold on his players became a bit looser when Hornsby joied the club. Frank Frisch, newly-appointed manager of the Cards, probably decided Hornsby would be a better man elsewhere. It is significant that Gabby Street lost his place at the helm of the Cards, when Hornsby came around. The Browns can use Hornsby because he is popular in St. Louis where they dote on old baseball associations. Temperament, not knowledge, has always been Hornsby's downfall.

Strong swimmers have tried to live through the mile of roaring rapids that tumble through the narrow gorge below Niagara Falls. . . Capt. Matthew Webb, the first man to swim across the English channel was one who dared it in 1883 . . . they found his body seven miles below the wicked whirlpool at the end of the strip of white water.

It remained for William Kondrack, an 18-year-old plumber's helper, to be the first to make the terrible trip . . . and the reward he got for his pains was to be held by the police.

With a friend, Kondrak went swimming the other day near the Lower Arch bridge . . . he started to swim across to the Canadian side . . . the current seized him, carried him down over cruel rocks that rear their jagged sides ten feet out of the hissing water.

* * *

It was not fame the boy was seeking, but to save his own life as he struggled with all his might to keep his head above water as the torrent carried him, bobbing like a cork, toward the whirpool and what seemed like certain death.

Still frantically flailing his arms, Kondrak ws swept swiftly into the spinning vortex below the sightseeing car that travels back and forth on a cable above the mad waters . . . he was whirled around that funnel of death once, twice.

* * *

Then Fate, that had tossed up the battered bodies of others who challenged the rapids, suddenly was kind to William Kondrak . . . the struggling youth was swept toward the side of the gorge . . . with every last ounce of energy he had, Kondrack freed himself from the clutching fingers of the raging river.

As he stood shivering on the bank, he did not realize that he had just been the hero in one of the greatest dramas the thrilling sport of Man vs. Water ever had known . . . . it was enough to be alive.

And when the police warned him that if they caught him swimming again without a bathing suit he would be placed in jail, William Kondrak promised that the next time he would bring his suit.

More than 12,000 thoroughbred racing horses are in training in the United States at present.

WESTERN STAR RACE WINNER

Help Yourself Whips Leading Contenders to Take Feature at Windsor Track

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 2.—The speedy western sprinter, Help Yourself, from the Ronald Stable, flashed his best form at Kenilworth yesterday to win the six-furlong feature of the final day card. Beaten in his two previous starts, the colt upset calculations by beating such contenders as Conny Smythe's Ladder, Hell Diver and Judge Primrose.

The prairie sprinter paid his backers $14.75 to win, $6.50 to place and $3.35 to show.

Help Yourself forced all the running and raced home a length in front of Judge Primrose. Higher Sweeney, Limerick stable entry, was third. J. Fellard was astride Help Yourself.

Engage First Real Opposition To-day As Field Narrows

Great Matches Expected As Men's Singles Reach Quarter-final Stage

MARY CAMPBELL ADVANCES EASILY

Mrs. R. B. Wilson Beaten By Eleanor Young; Competition Keen in Doubles

Vancouver, Aug. 2. — Contenders for Canada's tennis championships prepared to-day for the march into the quarter-finals. Eight seeded players remained in the running for the men's singles title, but they were faced in the fourth round with their first real tests of the tournament.

Men's singles and doubles featured to-day's programme with all other events already in the quarter-final bracket. Seeded players in the women's singles remained to contest the title won last year by Toronto's Oliver Wade Worsley. Matches of the first two tournament days had been written into the books with only minor upsets.

Jack Brawn, Vancouver, seeded sixth in the men's singles, was billed in a late draw to-day against the Quebec champion, Laird Watt, Montreal, in a feature match. Other men's singles saw the top-seeded Marcel Rainville, Montreal, meeting the San Francisco junior, Ned Russell; Walter Martin, Regina and Toronto, seeded second, pitted against Harry Rosenberg, Seattle, runner-up in the recent Pacific Northwest sectional event.

CAMPBELL MEETS RYALL

Canada's sixth ranking player, Ossie Ryall, Vancouver, was drawn against the Victoria champion, Don Campbell, in another match of promise. Third-seeded John Murio, San Francisco, opposed Bud Hocking, Victoria, and the Washington state champion, Mel Dranga, faced Gordon Shields, Vancouver, ranked fifth in Canada in 1928 and conqueror of Ryall in the Vancouver city singles this season.

In the men's doubles, the Davis Cup star, Dr. Jack Wright, and Walter Martin were drawn against Stevenson and De Mille, Vancouver. Second-seeded Rainville and Watt faced Hayden and Lando, Vancouver. One of the best matches of the day was expected to be that between Brawn, Vancouver, and Campbell, Victoria, and George Sparling, Vancouver, and Lloyd Budge, Oakland.

Finest match of the day yesterday occurred in the second round women's singles when Caroline Deacon, Vancouver city champion, survived a three-and-a-half-hour battle with Marjory Greig, Vancouver, to win 8-10, 8-6, 8-6. Long rallies and many deuce games featured this match on the number one court. The other seeded players, Gracyn Wheeler, San Francisco; Mary Campbell, Victoria, and Golda Myer Gross, Berkeley, all won, although Mrs. Gross was extended to defeat Nora Robinson, of Vancouver, in three sets, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

MRS. WILSON BEATEN

Eleanor Young, the Vancouver junior, scored a semi-upset by defeating the Victoria player, Mrs. R. B. Wilson, in three sets. Eleanor dropped the first set, 8-6, but clearly out-played Mrs. Wilson in the last two, 6-2, 6-3. May Doeg, San Francisco, was extended to win from Jean Milne, of Vancouver, in three sets.

George Sparling, Vancouver, and Lloyd Budge, Oakland, won a fast and exciting doubles game from Bob Laird, Los Angeles, and Merle Moore, Tucson, Arizona, by scores of 7-5, 6-8, 6-4. Lightning exchanges of volleys featured the match as the score see-sawed with few service breaks. In another men's doubles, John Murio and Martin Kinneally, fourth seeded San Francisco pair, dropped a set to the 'Frisco juniors, Harold Brown and Bob Pommer, but eased through the deciding set at 6-2.

JUNIORS BEATEN

Cuthbert Hopper and Marshall Smith, Winnipeg juniors, dropped from the doubles in the second round when they met defeat at the hands of Stan Hayden, Alberta junior champion, formerly of Calgary, and Harold Lando, Vancouver, 6-3, 6-3.

Dorothy Gillespie Patrick, montreal, and Dorothy Haggart, Vancouver, won a hard doubles match from the Vancouver team, Marjory Greig and Vess O'Shea, 8-6, 3-6, 6-2. In another doubles, Vera Borland, Saskatoon, and Helen Goodman, Vancouver, bowed to Mrs. G. G. Fleming and Nora Robinson, Vancouver, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

The Montreal mixed doubles team, Dorothy Patrick and Laird Watt, rallied after losing the first set, 6-4, to Eleanor Young, of Vancouver, and Charlie Hunt, San Francisco, and took the last two at 6-3 for the match.

Results follow:

Singer Back With Braves

Boston, Aug. 2.—There was music in the wigwam to-day, for Bobby Smith, favorite shower bath songster of the Boston Braves, is back with the tribe once more.

Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, has never been wholly happy since Smith, a one-time shortstop converted into a pitcher, was traded three years ago.

Fuchs grabbed Smith when the Cincinnati Reds cut him adrift.

PARROTT IS LAP WINNER

Victoria Rider Sets Pace For Large Field in Marathon Bicycle Race

Sixteen Are Tied For First Place; Are En Route to Sherbrooke To-day

Three Rivers, Que., Aug. 2.—Polly Parrott, Victoria, B.C., pedalled into Three Rivers yesterday at the head of the second lap of the international marathon bicycle race with the fifty-four other contenders trailing behind. Parrot's time for the sixty-nine mile lap from St. Gabriel de Brandon was 3.22.50.

Close behind the leaders, twenty-five other riders were bunched with a time of 3.23.50 for the day's run.

Weather conditions were more favorable for yesterday's run than for the first lap from Montreal to St. Gabriel de Brandon and on their arrival here the riders staged a ten-mile sprint around the exhibition grounds track before a large crowd.

On the two laps sixteen riders are tied for first place with a total riding time of nine hours, fifty-five minutes for the 138 miles.

To-day the riders left for Sherbrooke and to-morrow will undertake a 229-mile ride, which will take them to Cornwall, Ont.

Irish Boxers Meet U.S. Titleholders

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Ireland's amateur boxing champions and Chicago's golden gloves winners will meet to-morrow night in the third annual international bouts at Soldier Field, with a crowd of 45,000 looking on.

The boys from the old sod have been training in Chicago for the last ten days and are confident of giving the Chicago team a lot of trouble. In the two previous international meetings the Chicagoans defeated the French and drew with the Germans.

LAWN BOWLING

In order to raise funds to defray expenses of the annual tournament to be held next week a benefit game will be played on the Victoria West Club greens this evening at 7 o'clock. A large turnout is anticipated. All players who intend to participate are asked to register with the games committee not later than 7 o'clock.

The competition for the Sir Frank Barnard Cup will be continued on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The third round, semi-finals and finals must be completed by this date and competitors are requested to be on hand for the play, which will start at 2 o'clock. The draw, with only the names of the skips mentioned, is as follows: M. Mossey vs. W. Wallace, W. Davidson vs. J. Davies, W. Robb vs. A. Marconini.

TIE FOR OPEN GOLF HONORS

Arthur Hulbert and Percy Bell Will Play-off For Ontario Championship

Toronto, Aug. 2.—Deadlocked with thirty-six-hole counts of 146, Arthur Hulbert, professional of the Thornhill Club, and Percy Bell, who holds down the pro's position at the Bathurst Club, will engage in an eighteen-hole play-off to decide the Ontario open golf championship.

Hulbert and Bell showed their heels to a classy field composed of leading professionals and amateurs yesterday at the Toronto Golf Club.

The pair played consistent golf throughout the day and after the morning round led the pack with 71s.

Last year's titleholder, Willie Lamb, put together a pair of 76-71 rounds to miss a play-off by one stroke.

Trophy Received For Times Swim Classic

George Burrows of Vancouver Sends Back Challenge Cup For Race on August 26

Angus Taylor, Carrying the Colors of V.A.S.C., Is First Official Entrant

The Victoria Times Challenge Cup, which is awarded to the winner of The Times Through-Victoria-Swim was received this morning from Vancouver from George Burrows, who won it in 1931, the last year the swim was held. Burrows, who set a new course record of 54 minutes 38.2 seconds for the three-mile grind, held the cup for three years from 1929 to 1931, and was the first swimmer to break the hour mark. Entries for the swim must be filed before August 24.

Angus Taylor, crack V.A.S.C. natator, who is an entrant for the Gorge-Causeway plunge on August 26, is reported to be in first-class shape for the swim, and is expected to be well up with the leaders at the end of the long grind.

Bill Robertson and Bob Lawrence, well known in swimming circles here for many years, may be on the starting line when the pistol is fired. Robinson is a yearly contender for Polar Bear honors in the annual Christmas Day swim, and is used to the chilly water. Lawrence, former captain of the V.A.S.C., is known for his tireless distance swimming.

WELLBURN MAY ENTER

Rumors that Tommy Wellburn, who won the swim in 1928, would enter the classic, could not be confirmed. Wellburn has been inactive in swimming circles for the last two years or so, but has kept himself in good shape, and with a little finishing would be in first-class shape.

Whether George Dricos and Jack Drinkwater of Vancouver will be among the mainland contingent who are expected to come over is still problematical. Dricos is well known here, as he has made the trip every year almost since the swim was started in 1920.

FORMER WINNERS

Audrey Griffin, better known as "Mike" to her many followers and friends, was the first winner of the swim which was started in 1920. For the first four years she won the swim, and then Johnny Cameron came over from the Terminal City to cop the honors for the next three years. Miss Griffin came back in 1927 to take first place again, and the following year Tommy Wellburn nosed out the other competitors to gain top honors.

From 1929 until the last year of the swim in 1931, George Burrows, curly-headed Vancouverite, was the winner, and set a new record every year for the three-and-a-half-mile grind.

Sonnenberg Has Change of Heart

Los Angeles, Aug. 2.—Gene Sonnenberg, once a Dartmouth University football player and now a professional wrestler, experienced a change of heart to-day before he left for Reno, Nev., to file divorce proceedings against his actress wife, Judith Allen.

Sonnenberg intends to go through with the divorce but he has changed his mind about the condition of his heart. Last Sunday he said he had a broken heart.

To-day, Sonnenberg asked Jack Daro, wrestling promoter, to match him with Sammy Stein here August 9.

Important Games Billed For Senior Baseball Outfits

Six Replay Fixtures Will Have Definite Bearing on Final Standings

Tillicums Oppose Camerons To-night

Sons and Tillicums Each Have Four Games in Hand; Game Set For Friday

During the next two weeks clubs in the Senior Amateur Baseball League will be engaged in seven of the most important games of the schedule. These fixtures will determine which clubs will qualify for the play-offs to decide the team to finish in first place and also the club to represent Victoria in the provincial play-offs for the British Columbia championship.

To-night at the Athletic Park at 6.15 o'clock the Tillicums will engage Camerons. The former are resting in third place a few percentage points back of Slingers, occupants of second position. A victory for the clubmen will boost them into second place, while defeat will drop them closer to the Sons of Canada, who are in the last place.

GAME ON FRIDAY

The game to-night winds up the league schedule but six postponed and replay games remain to be run off. On Friday night it is expected the Tillicums and Sons will meet in the replay of a protested fixture. On Saturday the league plans to run off one or two of the fixtures.

The six games to be played off after to-night follow:

Tillicums vs. Sons (replay of protest).

Slingers vs. Sons (replay of tie).

Tillicums vs. Sons (replay of tie).

Sons vs. Tillicums (postponed).

Slingers vs. Camerons (replay of protest).

Tillicums vs. Slingers (replay of tie).

The Sons and Tillicums have the greatest number of games remaining, each club having four games to run off. Slingers have three and Camerons one. With so many games to be played it is a difficult problem to figure how the clubs will finish up. Each team has a chance to finish in first place and which team will end up in the cellar and out of the play-offs it is impossible to determine.

The club finishing on top will win the league championship and will draw a bye in the play-offs. The second and third clubs will meet in a series, the winner to play the leaders in a play-off for the right to represent this city in the provincial series.

BOYER LEADS GOLF FIELD

Scores Brilliant 68 in Qualifying Round of U.S. Public Links Tournament

Portland, Ore., Aug. 2.—It took a local boy to show the way in the first half of the qualifying round of the national public links golf tournament yesterday—Tab Boyer, a Portland favorite, cracking par wide open with a dazzling 68.

All the other 164 competitors, with the exception of Robert Tomes, Long Beach, Cal.; Bob Hofer, Park Rose, Ore., and Charles Ferrera, San Francisco, struggled in vain to keep up with the "old man" of the course.

Boyer led the field by three strokes and outdistanced par by four.

The defending champion, Robert Lee Miller, Jacksonville, Fla., and "Scotty" Campbell, Seattle's Canadian and Pacific Northwest amateur titlist, put on a wild exhibition of putting on the outward nine. Miller three-putted four greens, and Campbell three, on the first stretch before they settled down to something like their usual skill.

Washington Gets Rochester Hurler

Washington, Aug. 2.—Seeking to strengthen their pitching staff in their drive for the American League pennant, the Washington Senators yesterday acquired Ed Chapman, star pitcher of the Rochester (New York) club in the International League, from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Protest Holding Of Toronto Track Meet

Port William, Ont., Aug. 2.—Protest has been lodged with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada by the Thunder Bay branch against the holding of a track and field meet by the Toronto Monarch A.C. on the same day as the Dominion championships get under way here, August 5.

Rules of the A.A.U. of C. state no club or organization shall hold a meet that in any way conflicts with the Dominion championships unless they have the sanction of the branch holding the title meet, the branch contends.

Scores Six Runs In Hour's Stand

Grimsby, Ont., Aug. 2.—For more than an hour in the sweltering heat eighty-four-year-old "Doc" Fitch defied the efforts of Beamsville bowlers to put him out in Grimsby-Beamsville cricket match. Even more remarkable was the fact he refused to allow anyone to run for him.

But the aged "Doc" was only playing safe. He scored six runs.

WEST INDIES AND CRICKET

English Game Enjoys Great Popularity There; Conditions Are Favorable

Pictou, N.S., Aug. 2.—While results of the British West Indies cricketers' tour of England are watched with interest throughout the British Empire, there is probably no keener fan than T. Geddes Grant, honorary trade commissioner to Canada, who is now at his summer home at Pictou.

He is the father of George Grant, captain of the all-star touring team, and Rolph Grant, a student at Cambridge University, who plays in some of the matches against first-class county elevens.

Both have been awarded soccer and cricket "blues" at Cambridge, and winning two "double blues" for the family have created something of a record at the great university. Before going to England they had the distinction of captaining cricket and football teams in the preparatory school, Queen's Royal College, Trinidad.

Receiving congratulations of friends on his sons' achievements, Grant explained why cricket became so popular in the British West Indies.

"The average West Indian, no matter what his nationality, looks forward with a great deal of pleasure to visiting the British Isles," he remarked. "If his purse permits it, he takes pride in telling his friends that he is going 'home,' it naturally follows that the West Indian should also adopt 'cricket,' the national game, as his own.

LOVES THE GAME

"He has learned to love the game, and begins to play it from infancy and continues at it till well advanced in years. It is no uncommon thing to see three generations on the field together.

"Conditions are favorable. There are two seasons, the dry and the wet. Cricket predominates in the former and football in the latter period."

He added a word about sportsmanship: "There are many clubs, and good players are always in demand, and there being so sportsmanship in the true sense of the term is a wonderful asset to a young man. One seldom hears 'bad ball' being held up as an ideal, but if anything appears to be wrong in cricket, it can be corrected by the use of the words, 'That is not cricket!'

"Saturday afternoons are usually devoted to the great game. Matches take place all over the islands, and are closely watched by crowds of keenly interested spectators, who may not know each other's language, but understand all the fine points of the game, and are quick to show their appreciation or disapproval as the case may be."

PACER TURNS IN FAST RUN

Logan Scott Covers Mile at Salem, N.H., Quarter in Second Above Record

Salem, N.H., Aug. 2.—One of the best pacing feats of the year was turned in yesterday by Logan Scott, black son of Peter Scott, owned by Allan J. Wilson, Boston, sponsor of the current Rockingham Park grand circuit meeting, and driven by Walter Britenfield.

This seasoned sidewheeler, a double winner here last week, paced the fastest mile of the year for three-year-olds in capturing the first heat from the crack Chicago colt, His Majesty, 2.01. The time was just a quarter of a second above the track's pacing record set last year by the great Single E. Grattan.

M. Turnesa Leads Qualifying Play

White Plains, N.Y., Aug. 2.—Jim Turnesa, twenty-four-year-old professional at the Fairview Club, put together rounds of 68 and 73 to lead a field of thirty-four in Metropolitan district qualifying play for the National Professional Golfers' Association championship at the Fenimore Country Club yesterday.

Turnesa's thirty-six-hole total of 141 gave him a lead by a stroke over Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills, runner-up winner of the Long Island open championship.

Hubbell Shatters Pitching Mark But Giants Lose Game

Breaks Twenty-five-year-old Mark By Hurling Forty-four Scoreless Innings

BATTLE WON BY BOSTON BRAVES

Pittsburgh Wins to Creep Within Two Games and Half of New York Club

After setting up a new shut-out record for National League pitchers to shoot at, Carl Hubbell, the slender southpaw ace of the New York Giants, has seen the end of his five-game winning streak and as a result the Giants' lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates has begun to look rather puny.

Hubbell yesterday cracked Ed. Ruelbach's twenty-five-year-old National League record of forty-four scoreless stanzas in a row. Then the heat and Boston Braves' batters got him in the sixth. Boston scored two runs to end the streak at forty-six innings and went on to beat the Giants 3 to 1.

Hubbell was in his best form at the start, giving only two hits up to the sixth. Then Bill Urbanski and Buck Jordan found him for a pair of singles. Then he slipped into the wrong groove and Moore smacked a single that drove in two runs, ruined Hubbell's streak and won the ball game.

PIRATES BEAT CARDS

Pittsburgh Pirates trounced St. Louis Cardinals 9 to 3 for their eighth straight victory, assaulting Bill Walker for five runs right at the start.

Chicago Cubs broke a six-game losing streak and a virtual tie with St. Louis with a 3 to 1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Pat Malone held the Reds to five hits.

The Phillies and Brooklyn in the National League and all the clubs except St. Louis and Cleveland in the American were idle. The Browns rapped Monte Pearson in the early innings and coasted to a 5 to 2 victory.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York, Aug. 2.—Boston Braves put an end to Carl Hubbell's streak of consecutive scoreless innings, yesterday, after New York southpaw had carried it to a new National League record length, and defeated the league leaders, 3 to 1. Hubbell hurled five and two-thirds scoreless frames to stretch his string to an even forty-six consecutive scoreless innings. Then, with runners on second and third, Randy Moore smashed a single that broke the streak and won the ball game for Boston. The old National League mark was forty-four innings, established by Ed Reulbach, of the Chicago Cubs, in 1908. Walter Johnson still holds the major league record of fifty-six.

Boston	3	7	0
New York	1	7	1

Batteries: Betts and Hogan; Hubbell, Luque and Richards, Mancuso.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2.—Pittsburgh Pirates drew a game nearer the league-leading New York Giants yesterday, as they defeated St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 3, for their eighth straight victory, while the Giants lost to Boston. The victory put the Bucs only two and one-half games behind New York.

The game wound up in a brief slugging match between Pitcher Steve Swetonic and George Watkins, Cardinal outfielder. After Leo Durocher had been hit by a pitched ball in the seventh, Watkins made the last out of the inning, and exchanged a few words with Swetonic. They squared off and started throwing punches, but the other players and the umpires separated them, and they both were chased from the game.

St. Louis	3	8	2
Pittsburgh	9	15	1

Batteries: Walker, Vance and Wilson; Swetonic, Hoyt and Grace.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Chicago Cubs broke their six-game losing streak and regained third place by defeating Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1, in the opening game of the series yesterday. Pat Malone held the Reds to five hits, and his mates bunched five in the third to score all their runs.

	R.	H.	E
Cincinnati	1	5	0
Chicago	3	6	1

Batteries: Stout, Frey, Benton and Manion, Hemsley; Malone and Campbell.

Only three games scheduled.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

St. Louis, Aug. 2.—With Sam West and Carl Reynolds leading the attack, Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns made it two straight over Cleveland Indians yesterday, winning, 5 to 2. The two Bownie outfielders garnered more than half the St. Louis hits, which included West's circuit drive and Reynold's triple.

Miss Gleitze In Channel Attempt

London, Aug. 2. — Mercedes Gleitze, who in 1927 swam the English Channel from the French side, started a reverse attempt today, entering the water at Dover. If she succeeds she will be the first woman to swim from England to France.

Starting at 10.15 a.m., she was reported at 2.45 p.m. swimming strongly and making excellent progress in the direction of Cape Gris-Nez.

U.S. TENNIS TEAM RETURNS

Davis Cup Players Have No Alibis Over Defeat and Praise British Victory

New York, Aug. 2.—Amid stout assertions the best team had won, the United States Davis Cup forces came home yesterday, but there was considerable muttering here and there, and a hint or two of conflicting opinions as to the cause back of Britain's conquest in the inter-zone final round.

Facing a barrage of expert opinion, and the caustic French attitude the Americans were over-trained and over-confident for the crucial matches of the annual international trophy play, Bernon S. Prentice, captain of the squad, issued a blanket denial.

"Of course, we are disappointed to return without the cup," he said in a prepared statement issued as the liner Olympic coasted up the bay from quarantine, and Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison, singles aces, and John Van Ryn and George Lott, victorious doubles team, stood around and faced their questioners.

"We have no excuses to offer, only the highest praise for a great British team.

"We congratulate the new holders of the cup. A fine effort has been signally rewarded."

THE MOORES IN BASEBALL

A few years ago almost every club in the National League had a member of the Moore family on its roster, but to-day the league boasts only four Moores, none of whom are related and each the only representative of his family in organized baseball. Randolph Edward Moore, Randy to the baseball world, is the most famous of the quartette and he plays for the Boston Braves. John Francis Moore of the Cincinnati Reds is the oldest of the league's four Moores, while William Austin Moore of the Philadelphia Athletics is the largest of the quartette and has been in the league the longest. Joseph Gregg Moore is with the New York Giants and is the youngest and lightest.

Women Track Stars Will Seek Canadian Titles On Saturday

Dominion's Leading Athletes to Participate in Meet at New Westminster

GREAT SPRINT DUEL EXPECTED

Mildred Fizzell and Mary Frizzell Will Hook Up; B.C. to Be Well Represented

Vancouver, Aug. 2.—British Columbia will be represented in the women's Canadian track and field championships at New Westminster Saturday, a new entry coming from North Bend. Ann Clark received the entry slips Monday along with an optimistic letter from their coach and manager. The team consists of four junior girls, who are after the junior club relay, and an intermediate lassie — Catherine Tymo — who is a high jumper of no mean ability. The four girls who make up the relay team will double up on other junior events. The personnel of the team is Margaret Tiffen, Dorothy Nesbitt, Edith Mercer, Annie Bachuk, Catherine and Mary Tymo.

Saturday's meet is being staged under the auspices of the Women's Athletic Federation of Canada.

The North Bend team is showing the way to interior clubs, and it is expected at least four others will follow the lead. Vancouver cinder stars are undaunted by reported progress of invading track teams across the continent, despite the fact that these include two girls from Montreal, a team of five from Toronto Lakesides and the ever-aggressive Hamilton Olympic Club under the care of Miss Lord.

Bobby Kerr's Hamilton entry includes four fair aspirants from Dominion titles. Audrey Dearnley has equalled the Ontario intermediate 100-metre mark and has an able sprint mate in Betty White. Betty Taylor of the 1932 Canadian Olympic team heads the senior section as chief timber-topper, while Catherine Miller is entered in the intermediate hurdles. These two girls jointly hold the Ontario eighty-metre intermediate hurdles record. Besides the hurdles, Miss Miller will compete in the intermediate baseball throw, discus and running high jump. The four girls will make up the senior club relay.

EASTERNERS ARRIVE

Montreal's team has dwindled to two, Gwen Pherrill and Phyllis Ford arriving here to-day in company with the eastern contingent under the chaperonage of Miss Alex Gibb and the Toronto Lakesides. Mildred Frizzell, fair sprint ace of the Toronto team, and member of the Maple Leaf squad at Los Angeles, bids fair to give Mary Frizzell a race for it in the sixty and 100 metres, having shown a distinct improvement since the Olympics. She will be ably assisted by Dorothy Brookshaw in the two sprints, while Irene Storey has submitted a coupon for the senior 100. Peggy Mathieson is in the sixty-metre sprint. The four girls comprise the senior club relay. Eva Dawes, also a member of the Canadian Olympic team, is a high jumper. Jeanette Dolson wired her entry in the junior sixty metres and the discus throw, and will follow the squad a day behind.

Buxom Mamie Shrum, dubbed the "Orillia Milkmaid" by enterprising sports writers, lustily goes after weight events. She tips the beam at a good 180 pounds and was the sensation of the Ontario women's championships with her feats of strength.

Mayor Wells Gray, M.P.P., will be on hand during the afternoon and will present the prizes at a banquet to be staged at the Vancouver Golf and Country Club.

YOUNGSTER SETS SWIM MARK

Katherine Rawls (right), fifteen-year-old Fort Lauderdale, Fla., swimming ace, did more than defend her title in the 300-meter medley swim during the United States championships at Jones Beach, Long Island. For, in covering the distance in 4.35.6, she slashed by more than 10 seconds her own world mark. Runner-up June Burr of California gives Katherine a big hug for the feat.

THE BIG SIX

Tony Piet, the young Pittsburgh slugger, won a place in the Big Six yesterday at the expense of one of the idle members. Piet cracked out three hits in five times up against St. Louis for a record of fifteen safeties in five games, and shot his mark up five more points to .339. This gain sent him past Chick Fullis, of the Phillies, by one point, and into third place in the National League batting list and sixth in the Big Six. All the other members of the sextette had a day of scheduled idleness.

HILDEBRAND IS OUT OF ACTION

Manager Walter Johnson Suspends Cleveland Pitcher For Indefinite Period

Cleveland, Aug. 2.—Indefinite suspension of Oral Hildebrand, brilliant young right-handed pitcher of Cleveland Indians, by Manager Walter Johnson, was announced yesterday by The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Hildebrand's suspension was ordered as a disciplinary action shortly before yesterday's game at St. Louis, when the manager and the hurler exchanged hot words in the clubhouse over a $100 fine which Johnson placed on the player.

Hildebrand had objected to being removed from the box in the midst of Monday's wild seventh inning. Johnson said he could return to the team any time he announces he is ready to pitch and to restrain his temper.

TAIYOS SCORE CLOSE VICTORY

Score Run in Ninth to Beat Eagles 3 to 2 in Twilight Baseball League

Pushing home the winning run in the last half of the ninth inning the Taiyos defeated the Eagles, 3 to 2, in a keenly-contested Twilight Baseball League fixture at the Athletic Park yesterday evening. The victory gave the Nippons third place in the league standing, and cinched them a place in the play-offs for the championship. Yesterday evening's game was the final league fixture.

Next Tuesday evening at the Athletic Park at 6.15 o'clock the Sons of Canada and Rosebuds will meet in a sudden-death to determine which club will have a bye in the play-offs. They finished in a tie for first place.

In the game yesterday evening Holness, Eagles' star hurler, held the Taiyos to four hits, but errors by his teammates lost him the game. The Eagles collected eight safeties off Kawaguchi, Holness struck out eleven and Kawaguchi six.

Los Angeles Looks Like Scene For Max Baer's Next Ring Appearance

$1,000,000 Gate Is Thought Possible

Return Bout With Schmeling Or Battle With Sharkey Suggested

New York, Aug. 2. — Here is the heavyweight fistic situation as I understand it:

Champion Primo Carnera is definitely out of ring action until next June.

Ex-champion Jack Sharkey is to meet King Levinsky in Chicago in September.

Ex-champion Max Schmeling is to meet some "worthy opponent," as Joe Humphreys would say, somewhere on the Atlantic seaboard in October or November, and then engage contender Max Baer in a return match.

My information is that the crafty Josephus Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, has contender Baer tangled up in an agreement to this effect.

And the smartest suggestion that has lately come from anyone with anything to say on the heavyweight situation comes from Jacobs when he suggests that the return match be pitched in California, preferably Los Angeles.

WOULD DRAW WELL

Possibly the reason I like this suggestion so much is because it coincides with views I have been yelling for the last two or three years. I firmly believe that a first-class heavyweight match would draw more in Los Angeles than anywhere else in the United States, if only for the reason that it is virgin territory for such a match.

A Carnera-Baer championship match out there might bring back the $1,000,000 gate, but since Carnera is under contract to the Madison Square Garden there is no use talking about that. The next best match would be Sharkey-Baer, perhaps, and then Schmeling-Baer in a return. Either of these matches would draw more than both the recent heavyweight matches in New York drew—that is to say, over $366,000 net.

I am assuming that it might be possible to pitch the match in the famous Los Angeles coliseum, which has a seating capacity of upwards of at least 125,000, if arranged for a pugilistic presentation. With that capacity, a promoter could begin his scale at $1 and hold the "top" within $10 and make plenty of money.

A couple of years ago, I was trying to get the boys to take the Schmeling-Walker match to Los Angeles, and I am sure it would have drawn more than it finally drew in New York City, for Walker was then red hot in California, and something of a local card. But while Jacobs, who likes to adventure around, was willing, the Garden had Schmeling under contract, and would not release him even for that fight.

REAL CONTENDER

Now in Max Baer, for the first time in many years, California has a real contender who enjoys the status of a native son. Schmeling and Sharkey are both free agents. Baer is under some sort of contract to Jack Dempsey, and Jack Dempsey is a free-lance promoter, very popular in California:

The set-up is perfect.

Sharkey is getting a guarantee of $25,000, a privilege of 40 per cent of the receipts, and four round trip tickets from Boston to Chicago to fight Levinsky.

The fight is just as chancy as a battle with Max Baer or Max Schmeling, for which, in either case, Sharkey could get twice a much money.

Baer, unless he fights regularly is going to prove more of a liability than an asset to his handlers. He cannot wait a year in idleness for the championship chance. His exhibition tour, even with mighty Dempsey as an added attraction, hasn't netted him much. Indeed, in some spots the draw has been extremely disappointing.

JACOBS LIKES MIAMI

Jacobs has an idea that a Schmeling-Sharkey, or a Schmeling-Baer match might draw in Miami this winter. He may be happen to pull a crowd like it had last winter.

But the only place in Miami where a big fight can be held is the Madison Square Garden Corporation's bowl, which probably lets Baer out, as Dempsey apparently wants to promote Baer's battle himself. I would think the Schmeling-Sharkey fight would draw more indoors in New York City than anywhere else but California.

If Tex Rickard had lived, I think he would have been out in the golden west long ago with a big championship production. Tex believed in moving on to new territory as soon as the grass got short where he was grazing. They told him a big fight wouldn't draw in Philadelphia or Chicago, and he hung up records for gate receipts in those cities that still stand.

His well wishers thought he was foolish when he went to Florida with a non-championship bout. It was freely predicted that he would lose his shirt in Reno, and again in Toledo. But always old "Tedge" managed to come out winner, and he himself said it was because he kept shifting the scenery. He would have loved that California opportunity, especially with the matches that are now awaiting the making by some promoter with a little gumption.

ESSEX TAKES THIRD PLACE

Defeats Somerset to Move Up in English County Cricket Championship

Yorkshire and Sussex in First Innings Wins; Several Centuries Put on

London, Aug. 2.—Essex moved up into third place behind Yorkshire and Sussex in the first-class county cricket championship following yesterday's results. Kent, former third-place holders, went back.

Yorkshire and Sussex each gained five points by first-innings victories, Yorkshire over Hampshire and Sussex over Warwickshire.

Essex, however, scored a clean-cut win by an innings and 77 runs over Somerset to garner fifteen points.

The touring West Indies opened a two-day match against Norfolk to-day.

Concluding scores yesterday follow:

Hampshire 268 and 68 for two; Yorkshire 338 (Leyland 133) at Sheffield.

Warwickshire 307 and 152 for three; Sussex 457 for nine, declared (Cook 143, James Langridge 111), at Birmingham.

Somerset 223 and 99 (Farnes seven for 73 and six for 26), Essex 399, at Taunton.

Derbyshire 167 and 175 (Sims eight for 47 and Hearne nine for 61), Middlesex 252 and 92 for two, at Chesterfield.

CENTURIES MADE

Kent 293 and 374 for four (Ashdown 178), Surrey 482 for eight, declared (Barling 131, Squires 107), at the Oval.

Gloucestershire 228 and 309 for three (Hammond 126 not out); Lancashire 466 for six, declared (Tyldesley 104), at Bristol.

Leicestershire 176 and 261 for eight, declared (Armstrong 73 and 117); Nottinghamshire 276 and 155 for nine, at Nottingham.

Worcestershire 273 and 314 for three, declared (Walters 108, Matthews six for 58, and Nichols 157 not out); Northamptonshire 308 and 115 for three at Worcester.

GOOD FISHING IS REPORTED

Fine Catches Being Made All Over Island According to Publicity Bureau

The fishing on Vancouver Island, according to reports received at the office of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, indicates good sport is afforded practically throughout the whole of the island. This week's bulletin, based on the reports received from various centres, gives the following information:

Salmon—Size of fish being taken at Brentwood increasing; weights running eighteen to forty-five for springs, ten to seventeen for cohoes. Good catches reported from all points on East Coast, Victoria to Campbell River, including Comox, Qualicum, Parksville, Maple Bay, Deep Cove, Mill Bay, Brentwood Bay and off Oak Bay, Victoria.

Sea Trout—These fish (sea-run cutthroats) being caught at Sooke, Cowichan, Big Qualicum, Comox and Oyster Rivers. Fly or spinner, light tackle.

Trout—Catches with trolling reported from Cowichan and Sproat Rivers, with fly; Sproat and Campbell Rivers, also Little Qualicum at Cameron Lake.

Sea Bass—Good sport off Victoria Harbor and from Victoria breakwater. Times: sunrise and after sunset. Tackle: light, with silver spinner or halibut skin.

Black Bass—Durrant's, Florence, Langford, Beaver and Elk Lakes, all near Victoria.

Steelhead—In the Stamp River. Fly and wading. Weights, six to twelve pounds.

Wheat Prices Drop On Profit-taking But Firm At Close

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Aug. 2. — A natural reaction to yesterday's sharp advance set in on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day and at the close wheat futures prices showed losses of 4 to 3¾ cents from the previous finish.

Early profit-taking swept values down 5 cents from yesterday's close, but the market firmly resisted further attempts to send prices lower. At the close values had come back from extreme low points and finished with a firm undertone.

October futures closed at 85⅛, December 86¾, and May 91 cents.

Aside from the early rush of profit-taking, the market was featureless, with no heavy operations on either side.

No figure was placed on export sales of Canadian wheat, but late in the session it was announced a scattered business had been worked with Vancouver participating in the movement. Liverpool failed to reflect yesterday's strength in North American markets and near the close was only ¼d. to ⅜d. higher.

Cash wheat showed practically no improvement. Coarse grains slipped off, losing about half of yesterday's advance.

Saskatchewan Pool Deal Is Completed

Canadian Press

Regina, Aug. 2.—Completing the deal, as far as shareholders are concerned, Saskatchewan Pool Elevators Limited yesterday handed the liquidators of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevators Company a cheque for $1,454,614 for distribution among shareholders.

The Pool organization made the purchase of all the assets of the Co-operative in 1926, agreeing to pay $11,061,269. Roughly the shareholders were to get $9,000,000 and the balance was to go to the mortgage.

At the end of the present month Pool elevators will hand the government the final payment, $597,590 plus interest, clearing the organization of any debt in respect to the purchase deal.

LATE ACTIVITY AT MONTREAL

Canadian Press

Montreal, Aug. 2.—With trading increasing in late dealings, prices on Montreal Stock Exchange advanced to-day.

Canadian Industrial Alcohol issues were strong, the A gaining 1⅛ at 20 and the B 1¼ at 68¼. Brazilian Traction lost ⅛ at 14⅜, while Canadian Pacific Railway was unchanged at 17½. International Nickel was up 35 at 19.95, and Montreal Power ¾ at 38. Gypsum and Royal Bank both gained a point and Ogilvie Flour lost a point.

HIGHER TONE AT TORONTO

Canadian Press

Toronto, Aug. 2.—Distillery shares developed an extra burst of activity late to-day on Toronto stock exchange and substantial additions were made to early gains. The general tone improved also.

The rally came on the heels of a rising trend on Wall Street. Nickel closed at 19.95, up 30 cents after selling down to $19. Smelters was unchanged at 130.

Liquors firmed sharply. Walker common closed at 41, up about 4, distillers Seagram 1½ to 27½, Industrial Alcohol ¾ at 19¾ and Brewers and Distillers 5 at 2.50.

B.C. Power and Montreal Power made small gains.

Ford of Canada was up ¾ to 15¼. Brazilian and C.P.R. were steady.

EASTERN GOLD SHARES ZOOM

Canadian Press

Toronto, Aug. 2—The mining market snapped out of its stupor in the last hour to-day on revival of the rumor Washington would revalue gold upward at an early date. Buying of the gold shares sent prices zooming aloft.

In the final burst of buying Dome moved up $2.35 to 34.35, McIntyre $3 to $36.50, Lake Shore jumped up 1.25 to 43.75, Pioneer $1 to $13, and Teck and Hargreaves 25 cents each to 6.50 and 7.35.

Nickel and Noranda hopped ahead. Nickel up to 19.90 for a net gain of 40 cents, while Noranda at 34.75 was up 1.25.

Silver shares closed practically unchanged. Eldorado, after sagging to 4.15, closed unchanged at 4.35.

Oils were firm.

New York, Aug. 2.—Late strength in the mining shares and alcohol issues gave the market a firm tone after earlier irregularity to-day.

Recessions of fractions to a point were replaced by similar gains in pivotal issues including U.S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Du Pont and New York Central.

Homestake Mining rose twenty-seven points. U.S. Smelting and National Distillers were up five each. Other stocks up two or more included Western Union, Alaska Juneau, U.S. Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol, McIntyre Porcupine, Dome, Union Pacific, Cerro De Pasco and Case. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

New York, Aug. 2.—Security markets moped in apathetic indifference to-day and the best efforts of the more optimistic professional operators were unable to attract followings in most categories.

There was a mild continuation of yesterday's late rally in stocks, with some of the distillery issues and a few of the agricultural shares improving. But prices soon began to slip back to lower levels. As there was no vitality to the rise, neither was there any great pressure in most of the early transactions. Grains again spurted in the in the restricted Chicago market, dropped back for losses and recovered. Winnipeg wheat was heavy. Cotton was reactionary. Bonds were sluggishly irregular. The United States dollar eased in foreign exchange dealings.

Colorado Fuel and Iron declined nearly three more points following yesterday's receivership action.

In the Canadian list Dome Mines and McIntyre were up fractionally to around a point, but shares of International Nickel and Canadian Pacific were moderately lower. Dominion government bonds were quiet and slightly easier.

The Canadian dollar rallied sharply for a gain of 1¼ cents at 93.12½ cents

FAIR BALANCE IN BOND MART

Associated Press

New York, Aug. 2.—On a considerably small turnover the bond market held a fair balance to-day. In some secondary rail loans prices turned soft late, but other divisions were firm.

Selective buying in utilities brought some improvement in prices. Communications issues were generally higher. Recent rail favorites like St. Paul 5s, Great Northern 4½s, Allegheny Corporation 57s and Pennsylvania General 4½s gave up a point or so.

Treasury issues of distant maturity were easy, while other federal issues ruled firm at slightly higher levels. In the foreign department the trend improved after early irregularity.

TO-DAY'S GOLD PRICE

Montreal, Aug. 2.—Gold sold in London to-day at a premium of 44.09 per cent. in terms of Canadian funds. The official price for the yellow metal was 124 shillings 3 pence, while a premium of 4 pence was paid. The Canadian price for gold was $29.77 an ounce.

Bralorne Is Strong Around $10; General Undertone Is Firmer

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 2.—At the close of the forenoon session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange to-day, Bralorne was strong around $10 and Pioneer ranged from $12.50 to $13.

Cariboo Gold Quartz held unchanged around $2.90 and Meridian was active from 46 to 49 cents, closing around the former figure. Bridge River Consolidated sold at 31 and 32 and Bridge River Exploration from 53 to 55 cents. Reno was weak at the opening, climbing from $2 to $2.13 near the close, and Wayside returned from 55 to around 59 cents.

Base metals and oils were not greatly affected. Pend Oreille sold from $1.20 to $1.23. A.P. Consolidated sold around 26 in the oil list and C. and E. was strong between $1.50 and $1.57. Home weakened a little at $2.15 and Sterling Pacific was unchanged at 45 and 46 cents. Royalite brought from $15.50 to $15.75. The whole undertone of the Vancouver market was strong all morning.

Yesterday afternoon's sales were:

NEW YORK STATE HAS MILK STRIKE

Associated Press

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 2. — New York state's second milk strike within a year, described by Major John A. Warner, head of the state police, as "a direct challenge to the state" and "an attempt to blackjack the state milk control board," passed through the morning hours of the second day with comparative calm.

This was in contrast to hand-to-hand fighting on the first day in Oneida County, centre of the disaffection which ended in the serious clubbing of eight strikers by troopers. One of the injured was reported in a critical condition.

DISAPPOINTED MAN ENDS LIFE

Associated Press

Port Angeles, Wash., Aug. 2.—Friends told police to-day they believed disappointment over having been refused his final naturalization papers had prompted Janos Labay, forty-four, beekeeper, to commit suicide.

Ben Gidgeway, Sequim farmer, found the body of Labay late yesterday at Carlsborg, fourteen miles east of here.

Last Thursday in the Clallam county superior court Labay, a native of Czechoslovakia, appeared with a naturalization class, but because of alleged I.W.W. activities in Seattle during the World War found his final papers postponed until "the last naturalization hearing in 1934."

He was unmarried.

Was Marriage Sweeter In Old Days?

Dorothy Dix

Finds Distance Lends Enchantment

Those Who Sigh for the Good Old Days When All Marriages Were Blissful Would Be First to Head for Reno if They Had the Kind of Spouse Their Grandparents Had—Modern Improvements in Marriage Are All to the Good

THERE is nothing about which those who sigh for the good old days grow more eloquent than they do over marriage. To hear them tell it, our grandfathers' and grandmothers' time was the domestic millenium. Divorce was rare as hens' teeth then. No swapping of old wives for new. No disillusioned wives on a still-hunt for soul mates. Every man a faithful and devoted husband and every woman a Patient Griselda, and the wedding bells never getting out of tune as they do nowadays.

All of which is just about as true as it is that any old times were better than the new; that candles gave a brighter light than electric bulbs do; that it was more fun to jog along behind old Dobbin over a rough road than it is to go fifty miles an hour over concrete in a high-powered car, or that mother could cook better than a French chef.

As a matter of fact, there is nothing in which there have been so many modern improvements as there have been in marriage, and, unsatisfactory as they still often are in an age that demands perfection, the husbands and wives of to-day are a hundred per cent improvement on the kind of wives and husbands their grandmothers and grandfathers were.

They are kinder, more human, more just, more understanding and sympathetic than their forbears were. They actually do their duty by each other better, and, if the average men and women of to-day were to find themselves possessed of the kind of wives and husbands their grandmothers and grandfathers had, they would be on their way to Reno by the night train.

Of course, in the good old days people didn't get divorces so often as they do now, because then divorce was a scandal, and so far as a woman was concerned it was better for her to endure any sort of drunken brute or shut her eyes to her husband's philandering than it was for her to face the ostracism she would suffer as a divorcee. Nor did a man fare much better if he tried to free himself from a wife who made his life a hell on earth.

Hence the unhappily married simply set their teeth and endured their martyrdom, but it is folly to contend that they enjoyed it or that the general run of marriages were happier then than now, or that husbands were truer or wives more amiable, or homes more peaceful.

Consider some of the improvements in marriage that have taken place in the last hundred years. Especially as regards women. Formerly when a girl married all of her property passed automatically to her husband, and if he was a gambler or a spendthrift or even a poor business man, she had to stand helplessly by and see her fortune wasted and herself and her children reduced to beggary. Men (and women should forgive them much for this) treat their wives with more justice now. They have passed laws that secure a woman's money to herself and her husband cannot touch it unless she gives it to him.

Also, even as late as a generation ago, men foamed at the mouth at the very suggestion of giving their wives an allowance for their own personal private use. It was considered the proper thing to make a woman come like a beggar to her lord and master and humbly solicit from him the money on which to run the house, while as for herself she was supposed to work for her board and clothes and be thankful she had a man to "support" her.

But nowadays when a young man marries he takes it as a matter of course that he is to give his wife a fair percentage of his income for her own personal behoof and benefit, and he never thinks of insulting her by asking her what she did with the quarter he gave her the week before last. Not long ago I heard a woman, who had been married to a rich man for more than fifty years, say that while she had always had charge accounts at the best stores, she had never in all that time had $10 of money of her own that she could spend as she pleased. Not many modern husbands are that mean about money to their wives.

No modern husband would dream of tyrannizing over his wife the way the old-fashioned husband did. Grandpa considered that he was the oracle in his family and that grandma had no right to any personal liberty whatever. She was his slave. His chattel. She had to ask his permission even to visit her mother. He picked out her clothes and dictated every detail of her life. I know of one case in which a stupid man married to a highly intellectual woman refused to let her read because he considered it a waste of time.

You can't imagine a husband of to-day pulling that domestic Nero stuff. Or getting away with it. Anyway, he doesn't try it. He expects his wife to have her own interests and opinions and tastes, and he is content for her to gratify them as long as they do not clash too severely with his own.

And if the modern man is a better husband than his grandfather was, so is the modern woman a better wife than her grandmother was. At least, she gives her husband a better run for his money.

Grandmother felt that she had done her full duty toward her husband if she was a good housekeeper, a dutiful wife and a devoted mother. It never entered her head that it was also up to her to keep her husband vamped and amused and be his press agent.

Therefore, as soon as she was married she let herself slump mentally and physically and got fat and dull and let nature take its course.

But the modern woman not only works to get a man, but works still harder to keep him. Marriage to her isn't a job, it is a career, and she brings all the intelligence she has to making a success of it.

And that's why I say that modern marriage is an improvement over the old.

HELP FROM ESKIMOS

Of the thoughts and emotions which filled the three castaways when they saw the Eskimo propelling his kayak toward them with a double-blade paddle, a volume might be written. Here was the first human being to come within their sight since the beginning of their mishaps.

It seemed to them to be the finest feast they had ever tasted

When the man was almost at the shore he looked at them carefully, but he did not seem afraid. On the contrary he broke into a loud laugh.

"What's he laughing about?" asked Roberta. "Is there anything funny about us?"

"Maybe so," replied Uncle Tim, "but don't let it worry you. Eskimos are kind of laughing. I believe they laugh more than any other people in the world."

When the Eskimo brought his kayak to the beach he called out a greeting. He got out of the boat and used words which seemed to form a question. The Eskimos of eastern Greenland have not been in steady contact with whites, and some of them do not understand any words of English. Uncle Tim knew a few Eskimo words, and with the help of signs he managed to converse a little with the visitor.

"Igdlu-ga," said the young scientist, pointing to the boat near the campfire. The expression meant "my hut," and when the Eskimo looked at the boat which had been called a hut, he broke into a good-natured laugh.

"Igdlorse," said Uncle Tim a few moments later, meaning "your hut," and this also brought a laugh from the man, but at length he was made to understand that the whites wanted to visit the Eskimo camp which they supposed might be near by.

The Eskimo made signs as if to say Uncle Tim and his comrades should walk northward along the shore following the kayak which he would paddle.

With hearts much less heavy, they tramped northward, and in an hour reached an Eskimo camp containing a dozen persons, four of whom were women. One of the men had had dealings with Canadian traders and he was able to speak broken English. Uncle Tim told him the story of what had happened, and the Eskimo retold it to the rest. All listened with keen interest. In a short space the man, the boy and the girl were invited to partake of a meal. Strange as the meal was—it consisted almost entirely of seal meat—they were so hungry that is seemed to them to be the finest feast they had ever tasted

RECORD GRAIN SEASON ENDS

Vancouver Ships More Grain Than Ever Before, in Year Ending Monday Night

Vancouver, Aug. 2.—Official figures of the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange grain department show that during the season 1932-33, which closed at midnight Monday, the grain export was 96,872,772 bushels, setting a new high record for the port. The previous best record was 1928-29 when 95,407,519 bushels were shipped.

Last season, 1931-32, the export was 84,524,695 bushels, and ten years ago but a scant 16,000,000 bushels.

The distribution of the wheat to world markets shows a great gain in United Kingdom-Continent consumption, and a falling off in the Orient, Canada's second largest market.

The details of the 1932-33 crop movement were:

United Kingdom-Continent—84,375,953 bushels.

Orient—11,323,696 bushels.

Central and South America—811,485 bushels.

Other countries—361,638 bushels.

Valuable Cargo Discharged Here

Empress of Canada Brings 9,000 Bars of Silver From Orient For New York

Large Shipment of Silk Also Discharged at Victoria; Much For Vancouver

Bar silver from the Orient valued at several millions of dollars, was discharged at Victoria to-day by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada, which docked at the Rithet piers this morning at 7 o'clock from ports in the Philippine Islands, China, Japan and Hawaii. So large was the local cargo that it was 2 o'clock this afternoon before the liner proceeded to Vancouver.

There were 9,000 bars of silver in the shipment, each bar weighing about eighty pounds. It was loaded aboard the Canada at Shanghai, Kobe and Yokohama and will be sent from here Saturday evening by the Ss. Emma Alexander, to San Francisco, en route to New York.

This morning's shipment was one of the largest ever discharged at Victoria. An even larger shipment may arrive here August 11 aboard the Ss. Empress of Asia. That liner will sail from Yokohama this evening and, weather permitting, she will dock here Friday evening, instead of Saturday morning, August 12, as scheduled.

MUCH SILK

The Empress of Canada brought in a large and valuable cargo of Oriental products this voyage. Besides the silver for Victoria, there were 551 bales of raw silk which will be sent from here to San Francisco en route, through the Panama Canal, to New York silk mills. Other products of the Far East were also included in the 150 tons of cargo for Victoria.

For Vancouver the liner had 3,000 tons of general, including 2,182 bales of raw silk which will be sent out of the mainland port by special fast train this evening, and rushed over Canadian lines to the east.

Mail aboard this voyage amounted to 644 bags, 500 bags being left here and sent to Seattle this afternoon for distribution throughout the United States. Twenty bags were taken off and immediately sent to Seattle by seaplane. Some of this mail will be rushed across the continent by air and will be put aboard the Ss. Empress of Britain, which sails for England Saturday from Quebec. In this way, mail posted at Yokohama will reach London in less than three weeks.

British Mails

BRITISH MAILS

Close, 1.30 p.m., August 3, Ss. Europa, via New York.

Close, 1.30 p.m., August 5, Ss. Paris, via New York.

Close, 1.30 p.m., August 6, Ss. Duchess of Richmond.

Mail intended for transmission via New York should be so marked. When sent by air over United States lines, mail may be posted two days later than the dates indicated.

JAMAICA

Close, 1.30 p.m., August 4, 6.

England is trying out a bus which uses steam as a motive power; the bus has a 100 horsepower engine and accommodates forty passengers.

Around the Docks

Taking the place of the Ss. H. F. Alexander, which is in drydock at Seattle, the liner City of Los Angeles will sail from Los Angeles habor to-morrow afternoon, bound for San Francisco, Seattle and Victoria. She will reach Seattle next Tuesday morning, and will come here that evening on her way to California ports. Capt. Frank Landstrom, well-known at this port, has been appointed her commander.

LOADING LUMBER

Over 1,000,000 feet of Vancouver Island lumber is being loaded at the Ogden Point piers to-day aboard two Japanese freighters. The Akibasan Maru will leave this evening for Port Alberni after taking 700,000 feet here for Japan. The Gyokoh Maru, which docked yesterday evening from sea, will load 600,000 feet for Australia before proceeding to-morrow to Chemainus to complete.

FROM AUSTRALIA

On her way to Victoria and Vancouver, from Sydney, Auckland and Suva, the Canadian-Australasian motorliner Aorangi will reach Honolulu Friday morning next. She will sail that evening, and will arrive here August 10 or 11. She is bringing a fair list of passengers and a good general cargo.

The Ss. Niagara, which sailed from here July 19, will reach Suva to-morrow. She will call at Auckland before going to Sydney for annual overhaul. Her place on the northern run next month will be taken by the Monowai.

COMING NORTH

With light cargo for discharge at Victoria, the Kingsley Navigation Company's freighter Texada is due here to-morrow, King Brothers, local agents, were advised this morning. The ship sailed from San Francisco Monday afternoon. She will go to the Ogden Point piers.

AT V.M.D. PLANT

Until she goes on the triangle run in the autumn, the Ss. Princess Charlotte, which has completed her season's cruises to Alaska will remain idle at the Victoria Machinery Deport, in the Upper Inner Harbor.

OUT OF DRYDOCK

After annual overhaul, the cableship Restorer was floated out of the Dominion Government drydock at Esquimalt this afternoon. She will load supplies and stores and start her long voyage to Guam on Friday morning.

A week-end call was paid here by the Dominion Government survey steamer Wm. J. Stewart, which came into the inner harbor Saturday. She has proceeded to the West Coast of Vancouver Island to continue her extensive survey work.

FLYING COUPLE SEES GREENLAND'S ICY MOUNTAINS

Colonel Lindbergh's aerial survey of Greenland, on which Mrs. Lindbergh accompanies him as radio operator, is one of the most hazardous of aerial exploits. Their task is to survey and photograph the coast and ice cap for possible landing places for the proposed transatlantic air service of the Pan-American Airways. The Lindbergs will twice fly across the icy wastes between Godthaab and Scoresby Bay. An emergency plane is in readiness at their base to fly to them if needed. Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh made the hop from Hebron, Labrador, to Godthaab in six and a half hours.

The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during three of the usual tidal periods.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

Canada Has Good Trip From Orient

Docked Here Early This Morning With Fair List of Passengers From Far East

After a fine voyage across the Pacific Ocean, by way of Honolulu, the liner Empress of Canada docked at the Rithet piers this morning at 7 o'clock from the Orient. Capt. A. J. Bailey, R.N.R., master of the big white liner, reported an uneventful crossing. Yesterday evening the ship ran into a little fog off the west coast of the island, but this did not delay her arrival here.

The Canada brought in a total of 230 passengers, including a large number who boarded her at Honolulu last Friday. Many of these passengers disembarked here en route to Seattle, a few of them making connections with the Ss. Iroquois and others waiting over to take the Ss. Princess Marguerite this afternoon. A number of those continuing to Vancouver are en route to Europe and will sail from Montreal next week.

Hon. Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to Japan, and Mrs. Marler were passengers on the Empress of Canada from Yokohama to Honolulu. They will holiday in the Hawaiian Islands until August 17, when they will again join the Canada for the return trip to Japan. Mr. and Mrs. Marler will not make a trip to Canada again until next summer. They were here a year ago.

Passengers from the Orient aboard the Empress of Canada included: Mrs. J. C. Ankeny, Mrs. C. and Miss C. Arbogast, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beaumont, Mrs. D. W. Brown, Mrs. M. T. Davis, W. de la Hoyde, Mrs. W. K. Field, Mr. and Mrs. D. Geddie, Mrs. V. C. Genn, J. H. Grant, Mrs. N. Hirsch, Miss I. Ingham, Mrs. A. D. Levi, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mears, A. F. Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Orr, Dr. S. M. Polson, Lieut. E. S. C. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Potts, F. Reck, H. Reuter, E. L. Rhodes, E. Rosenfeld, M. H. Ruppel, H. Seth, C. N. Sherman, C. Y. Sollis, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Sparke, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wood, Miss E. Baldwin, Miss L. M. Barr, Miss E. L. Bates, Rev. and Mrs. R. S. Bland, Miss A. L. Callbeck, Mrs. A. Digman, Mrs. M. A. Pilman, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. D. Harries, Miss E. Jost, Miss K. Kochi, A. E. Kyte, Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Lampe and six children, Mrs. Hugh MacKinnon, Miss Frances MacKinnon, R. Ochangco, Miss M. Pearson, Mrs. A. M. Pinsent, J. Roces, Paul de Rous, Lieut.-Commander R. K. Silcock, Miss M. M. Staples, Miss A. O. Strothard and Miss J. Wilson.

PARTY STAGED ON BIG LINER

Distinguished Guests Attended Dinner on Arliss Picture on Ss. Ile de France

New York, Aug. 2.—A distinguished audience inspected the newly-reconditioned French Line flagship Ile de France last week and witnessed the preview of the new Warner Bros.' film, "Voltaire," starring George Arliss. A large number of motion picture producers, stars, editors and critics, and prominent figures in the public eye, dined on board the liner before the feature picture, built around events in the life of the immortal French philosopher, was given its first showing in New York.

Among the people of prominence present were: Count Charles de Ferry de Fontnouvelle, French consul general in New York, and the Countess; former Governor Alfred E. Smith, with Mrs. Smith and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith; Col. Daniel W. McCormack, commissioner general of immigration; John McKenzie, commissioner of docks of New York City; S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel, Walter Chrysler Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr., Miss Mitzi Mayfair, Miss Colleen Moore, Carl E. Milliken, secretary, and Col. Frederick L. Herron, foreign manager of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America; Dr. Everett Marshall and Dr. Carroll Fox, medical directors of the U.S. public health service; Miss Jeanette MacDonald, Harry M. Warner, president, and Major Albert Warner, of Warner Bros. Pictures, and Jean Artur, acting general manager of the French Line in New York.

Following the preview, dancing was enjoyed in the grand salon.

TO MARKET SEAL SKINS IN LONDON

Ottawa, Aug. 2. — Seal skins from United States seal islands delivered to Canada under the Pelagic Sealing Treaty will be marketed this year in London, England, instead of St. Louis, Mo., where they have been sold in the past. The skins are expected to number about 8,000.

Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Acting Minister of Fisheries, said to-day under the treaty, between Canada, the United States, Japan and Russia, the Dominion receives annually 15 per cent of the skins taken on United States seal islands. There are no facilities in Canada for dressing and dyeing the skins, and it has been the practice hitherto to have all the skins marketed in St. Louis, the Canadian share of the proceeds being paid to the Dominion in cash.

A. C. BURDICK TO FLY TO NEW YORK

When A. C. Burdick, managing-director of the Pacific Salvage Company, made plans yesterday for his first air trip, he decided he would do things in a big way. He will make a flight clear across the continent to New York and return.

Mr. Burdick left Victoria this afternoon by the Ss. Princess Marguerite for Seattle, where he will entrain this evening for San Francisco. He will reach the Golden Gate port Friday morning and remain there until Saturday evening when he will board one of the big passenger planes for New York. Twenty hours later he will land at Floyd Bennett Field, just outside the great eastern metropolis.

The local executive has business in New York with the underwriters of the Ss. President Madison, which ship was raised a few months ago in Seattle harbor by the Salvage King. Mr. Burdick intends to fly back to the Pacific Coast when his business is completed. He may visit Montreal first.

Will Open New Port Next Year

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, stated to-day formal opening of the port of Churchill in all probability would not take place until next year.

In response to a question asked by B. M. Stitt, M.P. for Nelson, Dr. Manion stated in the House last session that the official ceremony would probably take place this season. However, it is the desire not only of the Minister, but of the Government, and the Prime Minister himself, that the latter should be present at the opening.

TISNAREN JOB PROVES BIG ONE

One of the biggest engine jobs ever done on a ship at Victoria is now nearing completion at the Yarow shipbuilding plant in Esquimalt harbor, where the Swedish freighter Tisnaren is tied up alongside the outfitting wharf. Work has been proceeding for two weeks and it will be the middle of August before the ship is ready to proceed on her interrupted voyage. One of her engines broke down in mid-Pacific and she was forced to come here for repairs.

The big crankshaft which local workmen removed weighed twenty-seven tons, it was stated this morning by Norman A. Yarrow, head of the plant. During one stage of the work, the men had to jack up part of the engine, which weighed fifty-four tons. A big pin handled by the men weighed 3,500 pounds. The Yarrow plant is well equipped to look after such a job and has a lathe big enough to turn various parts.
